FLAG OR YO-YO?

Apollo 13 On Target For Splash

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 13's astronauts recharged a weak battery and prepared other systems in their command ship today for the unique and critical maneuvers needed to bring their crippled craft back to earth Friday.

TRIGGERS ENGINE

With the veteran Lovell at the controls, they triggered their lunar module engine 15 seconds and successfully changed course. Had that firing and later course corrections failed, Apollo 13 would have missed earth by 104 miles and skipped off into space.

With that hurdle cleared, the spacemen turned all attention to Friday's re-entry and landing, scheduled for 10:07 a.m. (PST).

Using flashlights to find their way in the dark and chilly cabin, the astronauts checked the three batteries in the command ship that will provide the power for the blazing dive through the atmosphere. They found two of them at full strength, but the third with only about half that power available.

GETTING POWER

On a normal re-entry, they would require 70 to 80 amp hours. So Mission Control told them to hook up a cable to the power system of the lunar module and recharge the weak battery. This process will take about 15 hours and draw eight amps from the LM.

Although the temperatures in the command ship, which was drawing oxygen from the sturdy LM, were down around 50 de-

Staffers Strike Sausalito School

Sick Calls At King Protest Board Acts

By PAT ANGLE

Twelve of the 26 teachers at Sausalito's Martin Luther King School, called in sick this morning and did not report to classes, beginning an employees strike at the school to protest certain recent actions of the district's board of trustees.

King Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. and Vice Principal James T. Toliver Jr. did not come to work and black teaching aides and clerical, cafeteria and maintenance personnel were also absent.

Students who wanted to go were sent home, after they received parental permission, according to Supt. Phillip W. Schneider, who said the school would hold a minimum day today, letting all students out by 1:30 p.m.

Schneider said the school would hold classes as usual tomorrow after the district obtained substitutes to replace the strikers. Other schools in the district were operating without incident, he said. There was no indication how long the strike would last.

The absent teachers are: Elizabeth Jones, Julie Whitten, Eleanor Spells, Ajaib Sidhu, Armando Flores, Mae Wellman, Gene Willis, Cynthia Butler, Jane Pokorny, Connie White, Robin Tyler and Margarita Johnson.

The atmosphere at King School today was one of excitement, with most students rejoicing at the chance for a free day. Although the majority of youngsters were in classes by 9 a.m., a few refused to attend classes until the black staff members

Nixon Compromise On Postal Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to raise the cost of mailing a letter to eight cents—instead of 10 cents as originally proposed—and called for establishment of a new United States Postal Service.

In a special message to Congress, Nixon laid out the terms of an agreement between negotiators for the government and the postal unions that couples higher wages with a revised plan to reorganize the Post Office Department.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, after conferring with Nixon at the White House, welcomed the agreement as "one of the most significant events in the history of collective bargaining." Meany said the AFL-CIO now aims at extending collective bargaining procedures to all federal workers.

Nixon altered his 1969 recommendation that the postal service be transformed into a corporation. Instead, he said it should be revamped "as an independent establishment" controlled by nine public members of a bipartisan commission who would hire the postmaster general.

"The postmaster general would no longer be a member of the Cabinet, under this proposal," said Nixon, "and the postal service would be insulated from direct control by the President, the Bureau of the Budget and the Congress."

A key provision of the agreement which Congress is asked to ratify would give postal workers an eight per cent pay boost, over and above the government-wide increase of six per cent which Nixon signed into law only Wednesday. In addition, postal service employes would reach top salary in eight years instead of the present 21 years.

Having proposed only April 3 that postal rates be increased immediately to offset the $2.5

Berkeley Riot Brings Curbs On Campus

BERKELEY (UPI)—Chancellor Roger Heyns declared a state of emergency Wednesday on the University of California campus, where police fired hundreds of tear gas canisters to disperse rampaging radicals after an anti-war rally.

At least 22 persons were arrested and 16, including 11 policemen, were injured.

The declaration by Heyns requires interim suspension of any student, employe or faculty member suspected of breaking laws on campus or within one mile of the university.

During the outbreak, several windows were broken at the home of the chancellor, who also withdrew permission for Sunday speeches by Chicago Seven attorney William Kunstler and Yippie leader Jerry Rubin.

Three Cities, Maybe Four Due Council Vote Recounts

Losers in three closely contested city council elections have asked for recounts, and a fourth recount may be sought, Marin municipal officials said today.

Herber C. Leney, who lost a seat on the Corte Madera Town Council by one vote Tuesday, said today he has filed a written request at town hall for the recount, and posted $100 to meet the recount costs.

Also seeking recounts are Alvin R. Kuhn, who lost in the Tiburon City Council race by two votes, and Robert D. Bauerle, who lost in Sausalito by 27.

Councilman Robert R. Souza of Fairfax, who lost by three votes Tuesday, may seek a recount but has not yet decided, his wife said today.

Candidates seeking recounts must post deposits to meet the recount costs. If they win a council seat in the recount, the cost is paid by the city, but if they lose they must meet the cost themselves.

Bauerle filed his request this morning, and Kuhn was to bring his request in today.

Leney drew 860 votes to incumbent Holmes S. Norville's 861. Kuhn had 662 against M. Carlisle Becker's 664, Bauerle had 699 to Stephen A. Fraser's 726, and Souza had 978 to Albert E. Gately's 981.

The Tiburon City Council will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. today to order Kuhn's requested recount, and also will discuss Mill Valley's bid to annex the

Span Board Votes To Purchase Ferry With 500-Passenger Load

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Golden Gate Bridge District directors voted 15-2 today to buy a ferry boat immediately and to run it between Sausalito and San Francisco.

The vote by the "committee of whole" must be ratified at the board's regular meeting a week from tomorrow.

With only one director absent today ratification appears certain.

The $558,673 ferryboat is the Point Loma, commissioned late last year in San Diego. She is 111 feet long, cruises at 15 knots and will carry about 500 passengers.

She is very similar in design to the Harbor Emperor that now serves Tiburon, but is about 50 per cent faster.

The vote came after 90 minutes of debate. Director Daniel F. Del Carlo of San Francisco, exasperated by the long debate, said. "If Christopher Columbus had to come before this board, America would have never been discovered."

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said that service to downtown Sausalito could begin by July 1, and to a proposed Marinship terminal by Sept. 1. He said he

Champagne Throwing Leads To Fraser Being Charged

Stephen A. Fraser, elected Tuesday to the Sausalito City Council, was charged yesterday in Marin Municipal Court with two misdemeanor offenses, stemming from a champagne throwing incident at a victory celebration.

Fraser did not appear in court but his attorney, A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr., said that the councilman-elect wanted to "dispose of the matter as quickly as possible." A trial without jury was set for April 30.

Fraser is accused of a battery against Sausalito artist Stella Popowski as well as disturbing her peace.

According to bystanders, Miss Popowski approached Fraser Tuesday night at a Sausalito bar where he and supporters were drinking champagne to celebrate his victory.

The artist claimed that Fraser, who formerly operated a Sausalito gallery, owed her $319 for paintings of hers which he sold in 1968. Words ensued when she asked for the money, and Fraser's glass of champagne ended up flowing down Miss Popowski's front.

GOOD IDEA, LONELY VIGIL

Dan Wright of Mill Valley sits atop his car in the barren Northgate parking lot waiting vainly for commuters to heed his sign. Very few did as only two stopped between 6 and 8 a.m. today at the post set up for "Car Pool Day." The car pool project was planned by KGO radio, the Marin Ecology Center and the Consolidated Consumer Plan to test Marinites' willingness to join polls to ease rush hour traffic congestion and air pollution. Volunteers waited also at Strawberry, Corte Madera and Bon Air shopping centers, but they could only gaze wistfully at the stream of one-person cars heading for Golden Gate Bridge. Total response this morning was four motorists. (Independent-Journal photo)

Poets Draft Ode To Fashion Mode

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poets gathered at the White House Wednesday for tea with Mrs. Richard M. Nixon and two of them, asked for their fashion views, wrote this "Ode to the Mini" on the spur of the moment.

The verse contributed by Louis Untermeyer, former consultant in poetry for the Library of Congress, went:

"I think that I shall never see,
A lovelier, livelier show of knee."

And the second verse, promptly ad libbed by William Jay Smith, the present consultant in poerty at the library, went:

"And if the mini continues to fall;
I will not see a knee at all."

The occasion was a tea for eight foreign poets who are attending the International Poetry Festival at the Library of Congress.

More Viet Bodies In Cambodian River

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Cambodian Army spokesman said today he knew nothing about the hundreds of Vietnamese bodies seen in the Mekong River southeast of Phnom Penh for the past two days. But he said the killing of Vietnamese civilians in Cambodia "could be considered punitive actions because of Viet Cong attacks in Cambodia.

"If Vietnamese go with the Viet Cong they must take the consequences for this is our country," Lt. Col. Kim Eng Kouroudeth told newsmen at the inauguration of regular military briefings by the leaders who overthrew Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

The colonel said Vietnamese are being rounded up for security checks, and "we will take measures against the other Vietnamese to insure they remain quiet. It is not racial, it is just a precautionary move."

Another 30 Vietnamese bodies floated this morning past the Mekong River ferry point at Neak Leung, 50 miles down the river from Phonm Penh. Like the hundreds that passed there Wednesday, the bodies had bullet wounds in several places and the hands of many were bound.

Nobody would say where the bodies came from. But foreign sources in Phnom Penh said an estimated 600 Vietnamese men had been arrested early Monday in the village of Xon Bien, near the Cambodian capital, loaded on boats and taken away.

Cambodian control of the Neak Leung crossing is threatened by Viet Cong troops who have occupied a river town six miles to the south and are using 75 MM recoilless rifles to protect their new positions. The commander of a Cambodian flotilla of gunboats operating on the river said his boats were under constant fire from both banks during patrols.

Cambodian military sources at Neak Leung said 200 Cambodian troops were trapped on the Mekong banks farther south near the frontier, and South Vietnamese helicopter gunships, ground troops and tanks had pushed across the border in an attempt to help the Cambodian troops.

This was the first report that South Vietnamese troops are operating in that part of Cambodia, west of the Plain of Reeds. Previous cross-the-border operations have been reported in the Parrot's Beak area some 70 miles to the east, where the Viet Cong have been pushing the Cambodian army steadily back toward Phnom Penh and threatening to capture Svay Rieng, the provincial capital in the area.

Sentencing Is Set On Reduced Charge

Sentencing for Robert Christie McCulla, 47, of San Francisco has been set for May 15 in Marin Municipal Court.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Credit Card Curb

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-passed bill banning distribution of unsolicited credit cards through the mails has been shuttled to a House committee which already has indicated it frowns on the practice.

The measure, hailed by sponsors as one of the most important consumer protection proposals before the current session of Congress, swept through the Senate 79 to 1 Wednesday.

Taking it over in the House is the Post Office Committee, which last month approved a bill requiring that unsolicited credit cards be sent by registered mail, thus giving the public a chance to refuse them.

The Senate-passed measure covers all creditors, including banks, retailers, oil companies and airlines.

Reds Accuse U.S.

PARIS (UPI) — North Vietnam and the Viet Cong blamed the United States today for the murder of Vietnamese citizens in Cambodia and warned Cambodians to stop the massacres or face the consequences.

Deputy negotiator Nguyen Minh Vy of North Vietnam and his Viet Cong counterpart, Dinh Ba Thi, lodged a protest at today's 63rd weekly Vietnam peace talks session against what they called wholesale massacre of Vietnamese citizens in Cambodia.

Thi said the United States plotted the coup in which Prince Norodom Sihanouk was overthrown March 18 and "must be held responsible for the criminal acts of its henchmen in Cambodia and for their consequences."

U. S. delegation chief Philip C. Habib and Saigon's deputy delegate, Nguyen Xuan Phong rejected the accusations and urged their opponents to engage in "meaningful negotiations."

Newsday Sale Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Times Mirror Co., publisher of the Los Angeles Times, says an agreement has been reached for it to acquire a controlling interest in Newsday, Inc., publisher of the nation's largest suburban newspaper.

A spokesman said Wednesday specific terms would not be disclosed pending preparation of a definitive agreement. But he said they had been agreed to by Times' Mirror management and Harry F. Guggenheim, president and majority stockholder of the Long Island, N.Y., newspaper.

Tito Names Envoy

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito today named a new ambassador to Red China, the first in 12 years, marking improvement in relations between the two Communist countries.

The official gazette said Col. Gen. Bogdan Orescanin, 54, serving at present as member of the upper house of the legislature, was the man appointed.

Red Efforts Keeping U.S. Losses High

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist Command's spring offensive kept American battle losses at a seven-month high for the second successive week with 141 Americans killed in action last week, the U.S. Command reported today.

The toll was three more than the number killed the week before and the highest since the week of last Sept. 1-7, when 143 died in battle.

The number of Americans wounded fell by more than half, from 1,179 the previous week to 457. The decrease was attributed to a decline in the number of rocket and mortar attacks, which had increased sharply as enemy forces began their offensive on April 1.

SAIGON LOSSES

The Saigon government said 542 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 1,336 wounded last week, compared with 754 killed and 1,716 wounded the week before. Enemy casualties rose to 3,458 killed from 3,366 the previous week, the U.S. Command said.

In battle action Wednesday, U.S. spokesmen said, American fighter-bombers attacked North Vietnamese mortar positions inside Cambodia after a Vietnamese outpost in Chau Doc Province, in the western Mekong Delta, was hit by several rounds.

BORDER PAID

The mortar site was destroyed, the Americans said, in the sixth reported retaliatory strike into Cambodia by U.S. planes and artillery this year. The United States and South Vietnam claim an "inherent right of self defense" to attack across the border when their forces are fired on from outside Vietnam.

Allied forces reported killing 333 enemy troops Wednesday, 61 of them in three engagements involving South Vietnamese forces in the Mekong Delta. But 14 Americans were killed and 32 were wounded when a Viet Cong booby trap made from a U.S. artillery shell exploded and triggered further blasts among stockpiled mortar shells.

Shone Urges Law Changes To Aid Peace Officers

Raymond H. Shone of Nicasio, candidate for the Republican nomination for state Senate, last night said that one of his main goals if elected would be "stronger legislation, particularly in respect to search and seizure and the control of uncurbed demonstrations and riots."

Shone, addressing the Peace Officers Research Association of California at a San Rafael restaurant, said law enforcement officers needed "the tools with which to work."

Shone said he had been advocating the establishment of a legislative committee of the bar association to work with police in reviewing bills before the Legislature and county boards of supervisors, and to aid police in drafting new legislation.

"We must consider an attack upon a peace officer as an attack upon every decent individual," Shone said.

Avalanche Buries 94 In French Alps

PASSY, France (UPI)—An avalanche thundered down a mountainside in the French Alps early today into a sanitorium for children suffering from tuberculosis. Loss of life was heavy, and the disaster could be the worst in French Alpine history.

The prefect of the French Alpine Department in which the avalanche struck in the middle of the night said the mass of snow and rocks apparently buried 94 persons when it swept away the boys' ward of the sanitorium and nearby chalets housing their nurses.

Henry Courey, prefect of the department of Haute Savoie, said 15 bodies had been recovered—11 children and four adults—and that 56 children and 23 members of the medical staff were still unaccounted for.

There were 185 children staying in the sanitorium, but the avalanche struck only the boy's ward and two cottages housing medical personnel. Survivors were evacuated because of the threat of still another avalanche.

Shortly before noon rescue operations were halted while French police threw grenades from a circling helicopter to collapse another wall of snow that was threatening to slide onto rescue workers.

Police officials said the explosions did not succeed and they would try later with more powerful explosives.

Rescue officials said they feared the death toll would surpass the Feb. 10 avalanche at nearby Val D'Isere where 39 youths were killed as they ate breakfast at a ski resort.

The avalanche struck at 12:30 a.m. 3:30 p.m. PST Wednesday), sending a wall of snow down the western slope of the 8,345-foot Auguilles de Varens Mountain near the village of Passy, 280 miles southeast of Paris and 17 miles west of the point where the boundaries of Switzerland, France and Italy meet.

Sheet Metal Apprentices Take Awards

The contest is identical to a national competition conducted by the National Joint Apprenticeship and Training Committee for the Sheet Metal Industry.

Technicalities prevent the prison apprentices from competing in the national competition, but their own contest follows exactly the rules of the national one.

Judging is performed by members of the Trades Advisory Council and the Joint Apprenticeship Committee, along with members of various sheet metal unions in the Bay Area.

The contest presented a project for each of the four years of apprenticeship training. The apprentices had to develop and draw up plans for the project and then manufacture it.

Winners receiving certificates at yesterday's judging: Fourth Year, Danzil Rubens, first place; DeAudry Roquemore, second place; and Thomas Stover, third place; third year, William A. Price, first place; second year, Carl Simons, first place; James McGoogin, second place; and Robert Romero, third place; first year, Herman Bormann, first place, and Walter Walls, second place.

A granary near Hutchinson, Kan., is one-half mile long. Its 1,000 bins are able to store 17 million bushels of wheat.

Cambodia Asks U.S. For Arms, Material

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said today the United States is examining a request from Cambodia for military assistance — understood to be in the form of arms and material.

Officials said the request was for such things as guns and ammunition and not for troops.

After several days of speculation that the regime which overthrew Prince Sihanouk weeks ago was seeking U.S. help, press officer Robert J. McCloskey gave this reply to a news conference question:

"Through our embassy in Phnom Penh the Cambodian government has requested military assistance from the United States. The request is being examined."

McCloskey said he had no details and refused to provide any information on what kind of arms or ammunition the Cambodians might want—for example such things as artillery and aircraft.

Shortly before the department's announcement, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana urged fellow senators not to heed a Cambodia request for U.S. arms.

On April 14 Prime Minister Gen. Lon Nol made a public appeal to "all countries of all blocs" for help.

McCloskey was asked whether the U.S. had a position on the reported massacre of Vietnamese living in Cambodia—and whether such killing might have an influence on the U.S. decision on arms.

"We have no information of our own to confirm such reports," McCloskey said. "Any mass killing of innocent people is abhorrent and warrants condemnation."

As to the possible impact of the alleged massacres on U.S. consideration of the aid request, McCloskey said, "I wouldn't want to make a judgment."

Motel Trespass Leads To Arrest

Le Roy Everett Southard, 21, of no known address, was booked into Marin County Jail today on suspicion of possessing marijuana and trespassing after he was discovered occupying what should have been a vacant motel room, San Rafael police reported.

Southard jumped out the rear window and was arrested outside the Bermuda Palms Motel at 1:32 a.m. A plastic bag containing vegetable matter, possibly marijuana, and cigarette papers were found in his pocket, police said.

Southard was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Beal said at least four of those arrested Wednesday were "positively identified" as members of The Weatherman, a militant off-shoot of the Students for a Democratic Society.

The violence broke out after a rally of about 2,000 persons on the 27,000-student campus. The speeches included a fiery call to "smash the ROTC" from former student body president Dan Siegel.

A small band of radicals began hurling objects at police guarding a naval ROTC building. The ranks of the troublemakers were soon swelled by an estimated 300 to 4000 students and off-campus radicals who spread throughout the campus, breaking windows and throwing rocks at officers. Beal said a $2,000 fire was set in the Life Sciences Building, hoses were turned on inside Wheeler Hall, and several false fire alarms were pulled on campus.

Police retaliated with tear gas barrages which sent a 40-foot cloud over Sproul Plaza in the center of the campus and the nearby Telegraph Avenue business area.

Both rockthrowers and police broke into small bands and scattered around the campus. Officers prevented any groups from forming, but were unable to keep radicals from running off campus and then back again.

A patrol car sprayed tear gas on the block of Telegraph Avenue adjacent to the university, forcing businesses to close and driving away youths who had gathered there. By nightfall the vast majority of demonstrators had left the campus, but Highway Patrol cars cruised the area.

The antiwar day began with 8,000 young people listening to the music of "Hair" at an outdoor rally on the Stanford University campus. About half of them remained for speeches by Congressmen John Tunney and George Brown, two Democrats running for the U.S. Senate. Both men condemned the war in Southeast Asia.

A crowd of nearly 7,000 persons attended a lengthy afternoon rally at the San Francisco Civic Center. They heard six hours of speeches by the Rev. James Groppi of Milwaukee, poet Alan Ginsberg, playwright Jean Genet, Tom Hayden and other radicals.

"Our country is no different than Nazi Germany," Groppi told the crowd.

Luehring said the ferry would make the trip from downtown Sausalito to the Ferry Building in 25 minutes, thus making possible almost hourly service seven days a week. Weekday departures from Sausalito would begin at 7 a.m. with returns approximately each hour from San Francisco until 7 p.m.

Weekend service may have to be less frequent because of heavy small craft traffic, Luehring said.

Revenue projection showed that the service could break even after three months with a 50-cent one-way fare, he said. He figured monthly operating costs at $32,154.

Luehring estimated the cost of the vessel with modifications to close the upper deck and stern and radar would bring the total cost of the vessel to about $600,000.

The downtown Sausalito terminal would be near the Spinnaker restaurant, and would cost about $30,000. The Marinship terminal including a parking area for about 1,500 cars, would cost $72,000.

This would bring the total cost of the capital investment to $702,000.

The district's ferry consultant, Philip F. Spaulding, said the vessel "would fit beautifully" into Sausalito service that he will be described in his long range master plan for ferry service, due in May.

According to Spaulding's study, at least 500 to 1,300 commuters from Sausalito to Mill Valley would use the Sausalito ferry.

Luehring suggested commuter parking in the Marinship ferry terminal could be free.

The only directors who voted against the purchase were Ben K. Lerer of San Francisco and Lowell Edington of Napa County.

Spaulding termed the purchase "an extremely small investment" that should prove there is a market for a ferry system. If the service did not work the vessel might even be sold for a profit, he said.

RECOUNT

Strawberry Town and Country shopping center, City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose said.

Tiburon has considered Mill Valley's move an open declaration of war for the tax-rich area.

The Sausalito City Council will take up Bauerle's request at its scheduled meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, and will set the recount date then. Cost of the recount will be $82, City Clerk Miriam Ansell said.

The Corte Madera Town Council has scheduled a meeting for 8 p.m. Tuesday when it was to canvass Tuesday's ballots. The council will seat councilmen Edward W. Colthurst and Harold B. Wagstaff, but not Norville, and will set the recount for 9 a.m. Wednesday, City Clerk Betty Behel said.

Colthurst and Wagstaff were elected by substantial margins, drawing 1,005 and 976 votes respectively. The seating procedure was approved by the town attorney, Mrs. Behel said.

Souza, or other candidates seeking a recount, have four days after the ballot canvass to apply. The canvass must be made by Tuesday night, a week after the election.

billion a year pay raise, Nixon announced that he was compromising on his earlier postal rate proposals, which had scant chance of passage by Congress.

"In the interest of making realistic progress toward the objective of bringing postal expenditures into balance with postal revenues," he said, "I now propose to:

"—Increase the price of the first class stamp by one-third, from six cents to eight cents.

"Increase third class bulk and single piece rates by one-third . . ."

The President said these increases would generate more than $1.5 billion a year in additional revenues.

The rest of the money to finance higher pay, he proposed, should come from temporary federal subsidization of the postal service he wants to create.

TEACHERS

return.

"I won't go to school until Mr. Walton and Mr. Toliver come back," said Rudy Hall, 14, an eighth grader. Seventh grader David Williams, 13, said he would go to class, but "I don't really want to."

Although Schneider, who remained at the school to see order was maintained, said he has received no official notice of the reason for the strike, teachers who came to work today found unsigned, mimeographed statements in their mailboxes.

The statement accused the superintendent and the school district board of ignoring the ideas of "a body of professionally qualified people with solutions to some problems."

It said employees, teachers and citizens groups had attempted to communicate "in good faith" with the administration, "only to be met by indifference, predetermined decisions, lies, deceits, chicanery and hostility.

"People are tired of the games," the statement continued. "They are sick and tired of bureaucratic manipulation. They are ill from not being taken seriously by a board which has gotten its expertise and instruction from an administrator who has indicated by resigning his incompetence and inability to solve district problems."

Schneider resigned, effective December 30, Monday night.

Although no specific demands were spelled out in the statement, most observers felt the strikers are protesting such board actions as the decision to eliminate the positions of Toliver, community worker Gabe Jackson, the district's multi-ethnic coordinator and the letting go of some teachers for economic reasons.

Another issue in the strike is the board's decision, being reconsidered, to close Bayside School next year and move students to Central School. Many teachers have appeared at board meetings to protest the action saying it is not in the interests of good education.

grees, flight director Gerald Griffin said the craft's systems all appeared to be in good shape.

"LOOKS FINE"

The pressures and temperatures in the plumbing system looked fine," he reported. "Two of the thrusters have temperatures low enough so we'll have to heat them before pressurizing the system. But all these temperatures are going to rise when we apply some power to the command module with the batteries. The whole command module looks good." he said.

The command ship was disabled Monday night by an oxygen tank rupture in the attached service module. The accident knocked out fuel cells which would have provided long-life power. Without the cells, the moon landing had to be canceled and the astronauts turned to the lunar module supplies to keep them alive and bring them home.

OXYGEN RATIONING

Lovell, Haise and Swigert continued to ration vital oxygen, water and power as they raced closer to earth. They had ample margins in all systems to complete the flight. But they knew a sudden loss of any system would imperil them in the final hours of their abortive journey.

At midmorning they were 140,000 miles from home and accelerating as earth's gravity tugged them on an increasing speed.

By the time Apollo 13 hits the atmosphere at 400,000 feet Friday, they'll be traveling 24,623 miles an hour.

The landing site in the Pacific is about 580 miles southeast of Samoa. The carrier Iwo Jima was steaming toward the area and expected to be on station Friday morning.

A tropical storm was about 700 miles from the splashdown point, but was not expected to pose any threat.

WEATHER BETTER

"The entry and weather tomorrow is looking better all the time," Mission Control radioed.

"Very good," replied commander Lovell.

All the astronauts slept for about six hours today as they rested for the return home. Due to the drop in temperature, they slept in their LM where it was much warmer.

Haise was in good spirits.

"FIDO (flight dynamics officer) is really busy today," he said to Mission Control.

"He's having a ball," replied the ground.

"Bet he hasn't had a chance to work on his stereo all week," Haise said.

A MAJOR DUTY

Before re-entering the atmosphere, the astronauts must discard the powerless service module and the lunar module which has been their lifeboat.

Then they must power up the command ship on its re-entry batteries for the blazing drive back to earth, the last act in the most perilous drama in the history of space flight.

A team of Mission Control specialists has been working around the clock to perfect the highly technical procedures for bringing the spacemen back from the brink of disaster.

Astronauts on the ground were to practice the procedures in simulators here this afternoon before instructions are relayed to Apollo 13.

Mental Status Leads To Charge Dismissals

Two felony charges were dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Jon Frederick Bangert, 31, of Tiburon, when it was reported that he had been mentally ill at the time of the offenses.

Bangert has been under the care of doctors since he tried to set fire to his cell at the Hall of Justice Jan. 31. He was being held there on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and burglary. He was arrested Dec. 19 after allegedly striking a San Rafael store manager with a newly purchased rifle. His car contained articles reported stolen earlier from a Sausalito residence.

Japanese Opus Set For U.S. Premier

Maestro Sandor Salgo and the Marin Symphony Orchestra will present the American premiere of the Sinfonietta by Yoshiro Irino at its third and final concert of the season on April 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the College of Marin gymnasium.

The major work on the program will be Mahler's Symphony No. 9, and the overture to Mozart's "The Impresario" will also be performed.

Irino is a director of Japan's Toho Music Academy, which numbers Seiji Ozawa among its alumni.

The Sinfonietta was composed in 1953 when the composer was 32 and received its premiere on Irino's birthday, Nov. 13, with the Tokyo Symphony under Hideo Saito. Since then it has become one of Irino's most frequently preformed works in Europe and Japan, but has had to wait until now for its American debut.

Simon Campaign Leader Named

Lee Sherry Smith of Mill Valley, a former vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, has been named to head the U. S. Senate campaign of industrialist Norton Simon in Northern California.

Mrs. Smith worked for Democrat Alan Cranston's successful campaign for U. S. Senate in 1968, and previously worked on several campaigns for Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

A former member also of the Marin County Republican Central Committee, Mrs. Smith was state vice chairman of the Rockefeller campaign in 1964. After the 1964 presidential primary, she was one of five California women to serve on the national campaign committee for the Goldwater ticket.

Councilman's Car In Freeway Pileup

Two persons said they would see their own doctors for minor injuries received in a three-car accident on Highway 101 yesterday, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Officers said the mishap occurred on the northbound side of the freeway at 4:45 p.m. just south of the Francisco Boulevard offramp when a car driven by San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen, 37, of 187 Oak Drive struck the rear of a car driven by Cecil G. Wallace, 54 of Santa Rosa, who was stopped in heavy traffic.

The impact pushed the Wallace vehicle into one driven by Solomn Keh, 49, of Reno, the patrol said. Two passengers in Wallace's car, Edward W. Noonan Jr., 23, of Sebastopol, and William L. Sisel, 36, of Petaluma, complained of minor injuries.

Watkins had earlier pleaded guilty to a felony charge of assaulting a police officer and a misdemeanor count of unlawful assembly. He was sentenced yesterday by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

Senior Citizen Advocate Quits Parks Panel

Roy R. Rhodes, an advocate for senior citizens, resigned from the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last night in a brief, dramatic and bitter appearance before startled commissioners.

Rhodes arrived an hour late at 9 p.m. and 15 minutes later he was gone, his resignation, written on a piece of note paper, in the hands of chairman Charles L. Tacchi.

His unexpected outburst came while commissioners were discussing the upcoming move from the temporary community center at Second and Brooks streets to the old courthouse annex.

Rhodes, who has opposed combining youth and senior citizens activities at the annex, said he wasn't worrying about that anymore.

CHANGES MIND

"I changed my mind this afternoon," he said. "You can have all the kids you want in the annex."

Then, he explained, there was a chance that the American Legion "would build us a home to our specifications."

He felt the legion would build if the city would donate its property at Fourth and Union streets, now up for sale.

Tacchi said the legion had been approached in the past and lengthy discussions got nowhere. "I hope you do better," he said.

"If you want my resignation, I'll be happy to give it," Rhodes replied.

Rhodes spoke out alone. There were four senior citizens in the audience, but the only comment was from a woman who felt the annex would be "fine."

Rhodes asserted that he was dedicated to senior citizens, and as far as the proposed $560,000 recreation center before the voters June 2, the commission "can take the plan drawn and burn it."

He said the senior citizens could get their own place through the legion and then Andrew J. Snyder Jr., parks and recreation director, and Nancy Person, recreation center supervisor, "can devote all their time to youth."

HAPPY TO COMPLY

Again he turned to Tacchi and said: "If you want my resignation, I'll be happy to give it."

"I'll be happy to accept it, if you wish," said Tacchi.

As commissioners discussed a previous matter, Rhodes wrote his resignation note, tossed it two seats down the table to Tacchi, picked up his hat and left saying, "Good luck to the annex."

Councilman Frederick C. Robbins Jr., also a commissioner, commented: "I'm speechless, which is something."

Tacchi observed later that commissioners have to consider all programs and not direct their efforts to "a particular thing."

However, he said, since the commission deals primarily with youth it has to be youth oriented. He hoped that the city council would appoint a "young adult," but not a minor to succeed Rhodes.

Rhodes, traffic director at the Bank of Marin office in San Rafael, was appointed to the commission in February 1969.

Purchase Of Fire Trucks To Be Eyed

Purchase of surplus fire trucks will be discussed by the Tiburon Fire Protection District board in a special meeting today at 8 p.m. in the main Tiburon fire station, according to Franklin J. Buscher, fire chief.

The board also will hear a progress report on condemnation of a small parcel of Northwestern Pacific Railroad property located behind the main fire station, Buscher said. The district plans to use the land for parking areas and future station expansion, he reported.

Terra Linda Rec Events Held Lacking

San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission got a petition last night carrying 92 signatures requesting an increase in the recreation program in the Terra Linda sector of the city.

Robert J. Ramage of 842 Las Pavadas Avenue, who presented the petition, contended there were inequities since people in the Terra Linda area had to travel to downtown San Rafael for certain activities.

Andrew J. Snyder Jr., parks and recreation director, said the department has attempted to "provide a relatively balanced program" in both areas, but faces budget limitations.

For example, he said, to conduct the department's baseball program, now at San Rafael High School, would take more funding.

Ramage told of the difficulties involved in transporting youngsters downtown from the Terra Linda area. The Terra Linda area represents one-quarter to one-fifth of the assessed valuation of the city, and isn't getting its fair share in light of the property taxes paid, he asserted.

Snyder said the city has put in the Santa Margarita Valley Park and is completing Freitas Park in the Terra Linda area, indicating that residents there aren't being neglected. There are programs at elementary schools in the area and at Terra Linda High School, he reported.

Snyder said if the San Rafael Board of Education eliminates its annual $25,000 contribution to recreation, there would be cuts rather than expansion.

Commissioner George S. Burton suggested the commission seek volunteers to pick up the workload if the school board cuts off the funds. This, he said, would be an indication if the people really want the programs.

Commissioners also got a first look at a "working budget" for the recreation division for 1970-71 totaling $190,202.

The budget total is $40,202 higher than last year's budget, but includes additional programs that will be financed by fees, so it wouldn't result in a $40,202 increase in cost to the city, Snyder explained.

Last year the programs financed by fees were in a special fund, but this year there is a different budget format and they have been included in the total, he said.

The budget, yet to be submitted to City Mgr. James H. McGown for review, has no provision for cost-of-living pay raises.

It provides for an additional recreation supervisor at $9,312 a year and an additional typist clerk at $4,436 a year.

Commissioners adjourned until 8 p.m. May 14 at San Rafael City Hall.

Innocent Plea To Pot Possession

Robert Doyle Fuller, 20, of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and being a minor having an alcoholic beverage. A preliminary hearing was set for May 12.

Fuller was arrested April 30 by Novato police after being stopped for a traffic violation. A search of the car revealed beer and a plastic bag of suspected marijuana.

Novato Chamber Set Move Into New Home

The office of the Novato Chamber of Commerce will be moved from its present location in the Locke plumbing building at 867 Sweetser Avenue to 1123 Grant Avenue, sometime before May 1, accroding to secretary Billie Garl.

The chamber has leased its new home, formerly occupied by Novato TV for five years, she said. The new location puts the chamber offices closer to the center of the business community on Grant Avenue, she added.

Sausalito Citizen's Garage Plan Approved

The Sausalito Planning Commission last night granted a variance to John Carmack to build a garage to his property line at 63 Sunshine Avenue, according to Miriam Ansell, city clerk.

The commission approved the application subject to the resolution of a question about a lot split that was granted to Carmack in 1965 but later declared invalid because it did not meet certain conditions.

The commission decided last night that no building permit would be issued until the lot split problem was cleared up, Mrs. Ansell said.

In other business the commission approved the division of a parcel of land at 270 Sausalito Boulveard into three lots. Owner Wilfred A. DeCook said he planned to build on the undeveloped parcels.

The commission postponed until its May 8 meeting action on a request by the Sausalito Arts Center and the Sausalito Little League for a free-standing sign at Nevada Street and Bridgeway. The city council previously had approved a request by another party for a sign there and Mrs. Ansell said the commissioners wanted to avoid having too many signs on that corner.

Car Stereo Stolen

Stereophonic equipment valued at $134 was stolen yesterday between noon and 5:30 p.m. from a car owned by Kurt Vonn Heimann, 47 Castlewood Drive and parked at the Montecito Shopping Center, San Rafael police reported today.

Psychiatrist Loses Round On Records

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Supreme Court upheld Wednesday a contempt citation against an Orinda psychiatrist who refused to produce treatment records of a former patient.

The unanimous decision said Dr. Joseph E. Lifschutz, 45, did not have a constitutional right to refuse to disclose the records without regard to the patient's wishes.

Housek claimed severe mental and emotional distress as well as physical injury resulted from the alleged assault.

The doctor was ordered jailed indefinitely for contempt by San Mateo Superior Court Judge James T. O'Keefe last Dec. 5 when he refused to answer questions at the hearing.

The Supreme Court three days later ordered him freed pending its decision.

Housek, Lifschutz's patient some 10 years earlier, did not object to the questions.

The psychiatrist claimed absolute confidentiality and said even the limited exception in the case would make the successful practice of psychotherapy impossible.

Petaluma Shop Hit By Vandals

The owner of a Petaluma firm which performs printing services for the Independent-Journal reported to police yesterday that five windows at his business had been smashed overnight with steel nuts and rocks.

The loss was put at $25 by owner Jim Staft of the Petaluma Printing Co. at 212 Second Street.

The I-J was struck Jan. 7 by San Francisco Typographical Union local 21.

Truck Strike Cost Soars; Classes Fade

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The trucking industry was losing $4 million a day because of 75,000 striking teamsters, and the Los Angeles school system was losing more and more students today because of a crippling teacher strike in its fourth day.

Tensions heightened again between publishers of New York City's four major newspapers and 10 unions representing 13,000 employes as negotiations entered a "very critical stage" following rejection of the latest wage hike offer.

In the airways, airlines were operating on virtually normal schedules again as 93 per cent of the nation's air traffic controllers returned to their rada screenc. Control centers at Oakland, Denver, Kansas City and Minneapolis, however, only were operating with about 70 per cent of the normal shift.

At Oak Ridge, Tenn., the production of nuclear weapons ground to a halt as 4,400 members of the Atomic Trades and Labor Council walked off their jobs at the Y-2 plant operated by the Union Carbide Corp. in rejection of a 7 per cent wage increase.

The worst labor crisis in the nation centered on violence-marked wildcat strikes by teamsters who are protesting a tentative national settlement two weeks ago of wage increases totaling $1.10 an hour over three years.

In the nation's second largest school system, an estimated 150,000 of Los Angeles' 650,000 students were expected to stay away from 616 schools again in a worsening attendance problem spurred on by striking teachers of their 22,000-member union.

Jordan Mobs Protesting Sisco Visit

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Demonstrators protesting the Middle East visit of U.S. Asst. Secretary of State Joseph Sisco stoned an American life insurance building in Amman today, but armed Arab guerrillas helped keep them away from the U.S. Embassy.

Windows were shattered in the insurance building before guerrillas armed with submachine guns could disperse the demonstrators.

The guerrillas managed to steer hundreds of protest marchers away from streets leading to the embassy and the march finally broke up without incident.

The guerrillas patroled streets adjacent to the embassy as a company of Jordan's Bedouin soldiers protected the compound itself.

Coils of barbed wire were thrown around the embassy compound following a mob attack Wednesday on the embassy and the American Cultural center. The center was bombed and gutted by fire.

The unified command of the guerrilla movement has distributed leaflets calling for a general strike Friday to coincide with Sisco's scheduled arrival from Israel. Today more than 1,000 banner-waving demonstrators marched through the streets of Amman chanting "Sisco, Sisco, go home, Sisco." It was the third day of anti-American demonstrations in the city.

American diplomats refused to speculate whether Sisco's visit will go ahead as planned. They said that if he comes to Jordan, his movements will be kept secret.

Students Turn Old Papers Into A Profit

Yesterday's news may not be worth much to some people, but its worth $5 a ton to two student groups at Redwood and Sir Francis Drake high schools.

Collecting about 10 tons of old newspapers every 10 days in bins placed at school entrances, the students are not only filling club coffers, but are helping the cause of conservation and reducing the mounting problem of waste disposal.

The papers are picked up by a San Francisco salvage company which in turn sells them for $7.50 a ton to a pulp firm which makes roofing material, cardboard boxes and paper cups.

LOOKS TO FUTURE

A spokesman for the salvage company has said it can handle a far greater volume of old newspapers than the two collection points are supplying, and added that the firm is prepared to send trucks daily to Marin County if county residents can supply the goods.

While the high schools have been collecting since last November, the importance of their operation is reflected in an experiment now under way in San Francisco to find out whether or not San Franciscans will support a citywide newspaper collection operation.

A successful demonstration of public interest could prove the existence of a sufficient source of supply to support a commercially feasible recycling operation in the Bay Area to convert old newspapers into useable newsprint.

The recycling process is a going commercial enterprise. A plant is operated in Southern California by the Garden State Paper Co. of New Jersey, which now processes 24 tons a week from the Bay Area.

TREE SAVING

Organizers of the San Francisco experiment estimate that for every ton on of reprocessed newsprint, the equivalent of 17 trees will be saved.

If the San Francisco experiment evokes as large a scale of enthusiasm as the operation of the Marin high school students, not only would trees be saved, but countless tons of used newspapers would become a resource instead of merely tons of waste to be disposed of.

While Marin is not participating in the experiment, Marinites, according to spokesmen for the two student drives, can add their weighty contribution to the county's own well-established program by bundling papers and depositing them at the school bins. No magazines can be included, they added.

Pinkerton Calls For New Surveys Of Canal Problem

Don Pinkerton, candidate for the Republican nomination for state Senate, warned yesterday that new studies must be made to protect the ecology of the Delta from the peripheral canal.

The canal is part of the State Water Plan to divert Northern California to Southern California, a plan that has been under attack for its alleged failure to leave enough water for the Delta and bay.

Pinkerton, a member of the Delta division of the State Water Resources Control Board, spoke at a lunch meeting of the San Anselmo Rotary Club.

Criteria to protect the Delta were set in 1965, but were no longer "sufficient to protect all uses in the Delta," he said.

The canal was "not just an irrigation ditch delivering water to farmlands," Pinkerton said, but "a $200 million earth channel cutting through 43 miles of Northern California.

He said it must be proven that there will be full protection against pollution and salt water intrusion.

Sewage Outfall Line Awaiting Bay Hearing

San Rafael Sanitation District's bid for approval to construct an outfall line for the Peacock Gap sewage treatment plant may be delayed in getting a hearing before the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, told sanitation district directors yesterday their request may not be taken up at the next meeting of the regional board next Thursday, but delayed a month.

Rawles said the regional board is busy dealing with the sewage problems in San Francisco.

The district is seeking an outfall line because the Peacock Gap plant is at capacity and no building permit can be issued until the capacity is increased.

The plant now has a capacity of 400 connections, and John Jenks of Palo Alto, consulting engineer, has estimated that an outfall line would increase the capacity by about 200 connections.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the district board is at 5 p.m. May 6 at San Rafael City Hall.

Director C. Paul Bettini was absent.

Theodore Roosevelt was the first president to ride in an airplane although he made the trip after his term of office.

Civic Affairs Council Asks Dougherty Planning Shift

The Marin Council for Civic Affairs is proposing a reshuffling of positions on the Marin County Planning Commission so that Commissioner Hugh Dougherty can stay on the commission when his present term expires in April of 1971.

Geroge Ellman, vice chairman of the council suggested to the county supervisors that Dougherty, who is in Supervisor Louis H. Baar's Fourth District, be appointed to the at-large position now held by Michael Praszker. Praszker resigned this week because of pressure of work.

Ellman explained that the civic affairs council is not at all sure that Supervisor Baar would reappoint Dougherty to the commission next year. Therefore, said Ellman, the council's executive committee suggested making Dougherty an at-large member and having Baar reappoint another man now.

"We kind of think Mr. Dougherty is a good man on the commission and would like to keep him there," said Ellman. "By having him fill the at-large position, we would continue to have Mr. Dougherty, and Supervisor Baar would be able to make his appointment now instead of waiting until Mr. Dougherty's term expires next April."

The two at-large members of the planning commission are Praszker and Walter F. Freitas. Their terms were to expire next Monday, but county supervisors extended their terms to July 1, 1971. Thereafter, at-large members will serve for two years, while the five other planning commissioners will serve four years.

The only commissioner whose term actually expires next Monday is Niels Schultz Jr., who is in Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni's second district. Arrigoni can either reappoint or name a new planning commissioner.

Minibike Stolen

James P. Larkin of 506 Fairway Drive, Novato, reported to the sheriff's department that his $299 minibike had been stolen Monday when it was parked in front of a pool hall on Highway 101 in Ignacio, deputies said yesterday.

THIRD WORLD BUSINESS

Black-Brown Stamps Making A Million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A year ago, financial district executives laughed when former Oakland Raiders football star Art Powell opened an Oakland office and said his all-black firm was going to sell Black and Brown trading stamps.

Today, his stamps are handled by 1,000 merchants in 40 California communities and new offices are being opened in Los Angeles, Chicago, Atlanta, Baltimore, Washington, Brooklyn and Harlem. And Powell, 33, has his own office right there in the financial district among those who didn't take him seriously.

"I must admit I didn't think it would last six months, says Oakland lawyer Donald Warden, 34, chairman of the board. "But in one year, we have done more than $1 million in business."

The firm was launched in April 1969, with an investment of $60,000 put up by "soul music" singer James Brown, investor Bill Johnson of Warden, Ohio, and Powell, who became president of the company.

The stamps, orange in color, bear a picture of Brown, who put up most of the money.

WHITES WANTED IN

But they began to gather support from black and Mexican-American businesses, Warden said in an interview, "and the white businessman wanted in when they found out it was a good deal."

Warden, who grew up in a middle-class Negro family in Pittsburgh, Pa., and recently received a law degree from the University of California, says he was inspired by the late President Kennedy to get involved in "black dignity."

Although Black and Brown started out as an all-black company, Mexican-American Jose Vuequera is now a part owner, and the firm recently added a Mexican-American office in Oakland called La Cadena, or "The Link."

The name, Black and Brown, was picked to represent "Third World" or nonwhite, capitalism, Warden said.

NO MIDDLEMAN

Aside from hard work by 50 salesmen, 12 of whom are white, the secret behind the rapid expansion, Warden says is that "we've eliminated the middleman."

"The merchants don't have to compete with the stamp redemption centers," explains Warden. "A customer cashes in his stamps where he got them in the first place, for more groceries, gasoline, even another haircut."

Customers in a participating store receive a stamp for each 25 cents of their purchase. When they redeem a book of 1,200 stamps, representing $300 in purchases it's worth $3 in merchandise.

The merchant is also paid $3 a book when he returns it to Black and Brown. But to get the stamps in the first place, a merchant pays Black and Brown $8 for a pad of 2,000 stamps.

The company promises to put 20 per cent of its profits back into the community through grants and scholarships.

"Whites who deal with our stamps gain respect for a black-owned business, and we can say to young blacks: "Look, you can work within the system."

Powell, who still holds several Raiders' pass catching records says flatly:

"We're going to be the biggest stamp company in the country."

News Depressing To Big Board's Traders

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks fell sharply today on a combination of factors, including a softer bond market, some disappointing first quarter corporate earnings, and concern over Cambodia's request for U.S. arms.

A turnover of around 10 million shares compared with 9,410,000 shares Wednesday. In the news budget, Cabriel Hauge, president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., said that there is little reason to anticipate to strong surge in the economy in the last half of the year, although he conceded that growth may resume a bit later in the year.

Electronics and oils were among the softest issues, while steels and motors traded in fractions.

IBM closed at 320 3-4, off 2 1-2, jersey standard lost 3-4 to 55 1-4 and Texaco was off 3-8, closing at 25 5-8.

Du Pont attracted demand in the chemical group, gaining 1 3-4 to close at 108 1-4. But most other such issues were in reverse gear.

Rails, airlines, aircrafts and conglomerates generally traded in narrow ranges.

"Someone plugged our tax loophole."

Which Best To Purchase: Old Or New Bond Issue?

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am interested in buying bonds but confused about whether to stick to newly issued bonds or buy older, cheaper ones. Can you clarify? — M.R.

A. If you are interested in high current return guaranteed over a number of years, a newly issued call-protected bond would be preferable. As a matter of self-protection, the issuing company usually retains the right to redeem a bond issue prior to maturity in order to secure cheaper money if and when it becomes available. But to facilitate marketing, a 5 or 10-year call-protection feature is added to attract buyers.

While new issues, bearing high-interest coupons, can appreciate if money rates decline, they are usually limited at the top by their call price. Deeply discounted bonds, on the other hand, offer appreciation opportunities of 50 per cent or greater.

Good quality bonds bearing 3 per cent to 4.5 per cent coupons are available at $550 and higher with about 15 years to maturity. Current yields are, of course, lower than on new issues, ranging up to 7 per cent but, when held to maturity, yield can reach close to 9 per cent There is a tax consideration in that the difference between the price paid and redemption price will be taxed as long-term capital gains rather than as income.

Q. I bought Stanwick Corp. at 15 one year ago. Will it recover? — P.P.

A. Stanwick's most recent acquisition, a hospital and health facility evaluating and planning company, represents an attempt to reduce dependence on government business. A small company—sales under $13 million—Stanwick is seriously affected by reductions in military spending.

In the nine months through January, sales were off 25.9 per cent. Margins were badly squeezed by the reduced volume, and per share results of 4 cents versus 32 cents a year earlier were reported. Of the 1.3 million shares outstanding, 40 per cent are held by management.

With such a limited floating supply, news either good or bad, has an exaggerated effect on price action. Recovery possibilities center on air pollution and management survey work, plus the successful assimilation of newly acquired firms.

Hunter Hall Hair Styling Slates Return, In Downtown San Rafael

A well known name in beauty salons — Hunter Hall Hair Styling — is due to be revived, this time on downtown Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Hunter Hall was last at 60 Red Hill Avenue on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile but has been closed for some time. Owner Dana Hall is back in business for himself and has leased the former Cricket West location at 1408 Fourth Street through William Root of Grubb and Ellis Co.

He has been hoping to open this week.

ALSO ON DOWNTOWN Fourth Street, a comparatively new men's wear store not previously mentioned here is Anthem Clothing (1133 Fourth Street).

Owner Anthony Michael Ewald of San Rafael handles men's suits, slacks, jackets, shirts, shoes and other male apparel. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays, with evening hours Wednesdays and Fridays.

RAYMOND D. (PEPPI) KELSO of Sausalito has joined Chem Corp. Engineering as technical sales manager. He was formerly a project engineer for Honeywell, Inc. Previously he was involved in the operation of the Apollo spacecraft program at Cape Kennedy for North American Aviation. Chem Corp., based in Sausalito, is a manufacturer of industrial pollution control systems.

ROMAC PACIFIC CO. of San Rafael has been accepted for membership in the national Metal Building Dealers Association. Alan W. Rosenberg, president of the firm, will serve as its official representative.

PROPERLY CONDUCTED by both franchisor and franchisee, small businesses operated on a franchise are often quite successful. But there is a great volume of unforeseen problems and disappointment which can beset the franchisee from the start. Thousands of dollars are lost each year in investments which have not been carefully studied.

Free literature about franchising is available from the National Association of Franchised Businessmen, 1404 New York Avenue Northwest, Washington, D. C. 20005.

GIFT STORES are high on the list of small business openings and the retail gift industry does more than $2 billion worth of business each year.

Bank of America's latest Small Business Reporter is devoted to a study of the practical problems of the modern gift shop. Copies are available from any Bank of America branch office.

ANOTHER ONE-DAY WORKSHOP for small business owners and managers has been announced by the U. S. Small Business Administration, to be held next Monday. It will be at the Federal Building, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco and is planned to cover organization, marketing strategy, advertising, financial planning, legal aspects, insurance and business taxes. Four separate discussions during the afternoon will be devoted to manufacturing, wholesaling, retailing and service.

Attendance (no fee) is by advance reservation with the San Francisco regional office of the Small Business Administration.

INSURANCE: S. D. Menist of Kentfield, executive vice president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, has been reelected president of the Pacific Coast Automobile Underwriters Conference . . . Robert Maney, San Rafael general agent of Mutual Benefit Life Insurance, has received awards from his company for surpassing his 1969 sales production quota and for surpassing his manpower recruitment quota.

Marin Voters Once More Demonstrate Independence

In San Anselmo, three candidates chose to run as a ticket — termed the "revolt slate" although one of the three is the incumbent mayor. But Hub City voters proved they are not about to have their city elections turned into partisan ticket affairs under any label. They re-elected Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro but turned down the other two "revolt slate" candidates.

In Fairfax, only one of three incumbents seeking re-election was successful: Frank J. Egger. But the two others winning election, Lee Nelder and Albert E. Gately, did not link their campaigns and on many things appear considerably apart in their thinking. Fairfax citizens again demonstrated that as they are not of one mind, they don't want a city council that is of one mind.

IN MILL VALLEY, two candidates strong for conservation and protection of the environment won thumping victories. But lowering the voting age to 18, which those who like to neatly catalogue by labels would lump with environment control as a "liberal" aim, was rejected in an "advisory" vote that was purely a straw ballot.

Voters in Corte Madera showed they are satisfied with the city council they have, as three incumbents won over three challengers — provided the canvass does not change the single vote by which Holmes S. Norville edged out Herber C. Leney.

Neighboring Larkspur also showed satisfaction with its government, two incumbents winning handily over John Birch Society member Raymond C. Kesner.

But in Novato, two incumbents seeking re-election — one of them M. E. Babe Silva, who has served on the council for eight of the 10 years since the city's incorporation — were rejected in favor of two planning commissioners who have been at odds with the council over trends of development.

VOTERS IN TIBURON and Belvedere could not have kept their councils intact if they had desired to do so. Only one incumbent ran in Tiburon, and none in Belvedere. The one, Branwell Fanning, was a winner.

Sausalito kept the one incumbent seeking re-election, and to the surprise of some, again turned down a council bid by Marsha Owen (Sally Stanford), who ran fourth despite a vigorous campaign.

TAX INCREASE elections in two school districts pointed up that success of such measures depends more on the people's confidence in their school system than on the depth of the tax bite.

Voters in Dixie district, which has the highest elementary school tax rate in Marin County, approved raising it still higher by a substantial margin. But those in Novato Unified district, which has a rate well below the combined elementary and high school rates in most of Marin, turned down an increase.

THE VOTER TURNOUT varied widely. It topped 56 per cent in Fairfax, and Novato, but fell below 50 per cent in Mill Valley, Tiburon, Sausalito, Corte Madera, and Larkspur. Of the cities with contests for council seats, Larkspur had the lowest turnout at 29 per cent of those registered.

The Tough Seeds

Some seeds are amazingly rugged. Acacia and tomato seeds are some of the toughest we have run across.

We had heard that acacia seeds often came up after being through forest fires in their native Australia. Just recently we sterilized some soil in our kitchen oven at 250 degrees for an hour and a half preparatory to planting some flower seeds. The first seeds up were not the flowers, however. Instead, a few acacia seeds that were in the oven-baked soil were up within a week.

The amazing viability of tomato seeds is something of a legend. They survive the acids and the enzymes of the human digestive tract, go to the sewage disposal plant where they undergo rigorous bacterial and chemical action, eventually become a part of the sludge. Sludge makes excellent garden fertilizer, but in its undiluted, raw state it is far too powerful and burns most plants. But tomato seeds sprout and grow in the sludge. We are told some of the most beautiful tomato plants in Marin are growing wild at the Larkspur sewage disposal plant.

Highway Fund Bill Brings North-South Split To Fore

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The battle between Northern and Southern California, simmering for a couple of years, broke out in the state Senate this week.

Since the state Senate was reapportioned on the basis of the "one-man, one-vote" dictum of the United States Supreme Court in 1966, the groundwork has been laid for the take over of the north by the south, in line with the predictions made when the court decisions were announced.

Although this has been better than four years, these predictions started coming true in the Senate this week when Sen. James Mills, D-San Diego, brought up his bill, SB 85, to divest the state legislature of authority to control the north-south split of highway funds and turn it over to the highway commission.

THE MILLS BILL failed to pass the first time by a single vote. However, two southern California senators were absent. Mills moved to reconsider the following day, and the bill passed 21 to 13. The vote was strictly on north-south lines.

The Assembly, with a majority of Southern California members, is expected to follow the Senate in adopting the Mills bill eventually. When and if he receives the measure will be the itme Gov. Ronald Reagan will have to decide whether he is a governor for all of California or whether he wants to become known as the governor who split the state.

THE BILL, of course, does not split California except insofar as there is a division of the funds collected for highway purposes, but many senators feel this is the first step toward eventual division.

Some argument is being carried against the Mills bill on the ground that its passage would abrogate the powers of the legislature in the delegation of authority to the highway commission.

However, there is plenty of precedent for such action. There was a time when the legislature fixed the areas of fish and game districts, and the seasons and bag limits as well for fishing and hunting.

Fairfax Example In Deterring Crime

I am writing to suggest a bouquet of thanks and appreciation to our Fairfax Police Department's recent example of preventive medicine directed towards crime. Their recent very efficient canvass of all business establishments in Fairfax requesting the cooperation of each business establishment in leaving at least one light burining from dusk 'til dawn in each store, office or other business establishment, is in my opinion, a very worthy example of crime prevention in action.

It is is a well established fact, attested to by eminent law enforcement authorities, that proper lighting is a deterrent to crime.

Isn't it quite possible that other police departments nationally could very easily profit from the Fairfax Police Department's fine example of crime prevention through better night lighting of business establishments.

Insurance Man Rebuts Columnist

I refer to the article of April 13 by Arthur E. Rouse: "You Can't Make Money On Ordinary Life Insurance".

Ordinary life insurance was not designed to make money on. It was designed primarily:

1. To help keep it's owner from being poor; and

2. To provide immediate cash when needed for such purposes as estate taxes, college education, etc.

Neither of these objectives can be guaranteed by term insurance. Fortunately, most people recognize this, which is why so much ordinary life insurance is sold. A look at the estates filed for probate at City Hall and the percentage of life insurance proceeds to the whole will emphasize this.

The gross ignorance on this, just displayed by your writer, is not particularly disturbing to us in the industry, to other informed individuals, or sophisticated investors. What does concern us, however, and what concerns you as a molder of public opinion, is the impression the unsophisticated person might get — the poor fellow who doesn't know better and believes what he reads.

Were it not for the premiums these people pay on their permanent insurance program, which provides savings and eventually a guaranteed life income, the dole and welfare lines would be much more crowded than they are now. Further, there would be many more "forced" sales because the fellow with the term insurance, whose estate needed liquidity, would not happen to die at the right time.

Death Toll In Nixon's War Exposes 'Vietnamization'

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

How long are the American people going to allow themselves to be fooled by the charade of President Nixon's Vietnam "withdrawal policy?

So far, we must admit, the public has shown an extraordinary willingness to be fooled. Mr Nixon came into office on the strength of a promise to end the war. He has not ended it, but he has gulled a great many Americans into accepting a substitute for what he promised to deliver—the substitute of "Vietnamization" combined with slow and carefully calculated American withdrawals.

JUST WHAT the Nixon policy means may be gathered by reflecting for a moment on some casualty figures recently published in the Congressional Record by Representative Paul H. Findley, the Republican congressman from the Illinois 20th district.

A year ago Mr. Findley published in the Record the names of the 31,379 young Americans who had died in Vietnam up to the end of January, 1969. Last week he recorded the latest death list, and noted that as of the end of December, 1969, the toll of war dead stood at 40,551.

That is an increase of 9,172 during the first 11 months of Richard M. Nixon's presidency.

It may well be that casualties during Mr. Nixon's conduct of the war have declined from the awful peak they reached during Mr. Johnson's term, but this must be small comfort to the families of the 9,172 and more who died during Mr. Nixon's first year. The fact is that 9,172 dead are 9,172 too many. And it is time that Americans waked up to the deception that is being practiced upon them by the Nixon Administration.

PART OF THE deception consists of managing the news of troop withdrawal announcements in such a way as to make the public think the withdrawals amount to more than they do. Another part consists of downgrading the Paris talks and rejecting any proposals from Hanoi for a settlement, and then pretending that no proposals have been made. A third consists of simply refusing to discuss the basic issues, such as a coalition government, with the American people. . .

We repeat: when are the American people going to cease letting themselves be fooled by the charade of "Vietnamization"?

A mother, with six obstreperous brats in tow, boarded a packed bus at the height of the rush hour. The brats immediately began screaming and tripping over angry passengers. The exasperated driver finally suggested. "Next time, lady, why don't you leave half of your obnoxious kids at home?" The mother answered grimly, "I did."

MARQUIS CHILDS

Most Of World Indifferent While Fate Hangs In Balance

TAROUDANT, Morocco—The historian of, say, 50 years from now, assuming that in 2020 the historian has the privilege of detachment and perspective, will have to untangle one puzzle in particular. Why was so much of mankind indifferent to the overriding issue of survival in the face of the threat of nuclear holocaust — Armageddon that will inflict death and disaster on even the farthest removed?

As this is written, the second round of the strategic arms limitation talks is about to open in Vienna. The outcome of this round — the first stage beyond the initial exploration at Helsinki in November — is of critical importance. In the view of this observer it involves scarcely less than the future of every man, woman and child on the planet.

THAT IS NOT to say that the use in an immediate future of the instruments of annihilation will be in question at Vienna. What is immediately at stake is a new upward spiral in the nuclear arms race. The cost in billions, eventually perhaps hundreds of billions of dollars, will inflame all the ills presently plaguing mankind.

It will feed the fires of inflation undermining stability in almost every nation. It will take more and more of the surplus that might go to raise the level of peoples in the developing world. It will accentuate the divisiveness that in the West has alienated many elements while polarizing the politics of extremism on the right and the left. In short, even if the new expanded weapons of destruction are never used the burden will be all but intolerable.

Yet that such a crossroads for humanity lies ahead is remote from the consciousness of all but a few individuals. This reporter has just been in the Middle East where attention is completely centered on the conflict between Jew and Arab. The Israelis believe they are fighting for survival, the Arabs are convinced that a religious state based on Judaism must not be allowed to exist in the heart of the Arab world. This self-centeredness, inevitable though it may be under the circumstances, shuts out all other considerations.

SELF-CENTEREDNESS, regional and national, is the factor which, for the historian of 2020, is likely to explain the indifference, the unawareness of what is transpiring between the nuclear giants and their success or failure in reaching agreement on a pause in the race to the abyss. There is, to be sure, another obvious factor.

The scientists and the technicians have carried the art of destruction to a point of complexity far beyond the comprehension of most of us. The mysteries of multiple warheads, anti-ballistic missiles with radar guidance that only a few individuals have mastered, underwater long-range missiles — this sounds like the stuff of science fiction. It is impossible to believe that the destiny of man is in the hands military - scientific - technological elite on both sides of the great divide — the elite responsible for these instruments.

The white-bearded Arab, jogging through the bazaar on his small donkey with panniers of mint leaves swung on either side, might, insofar as the decision between life or death is concerned, be on another planet. But this is, after all, only a matter of degree. The American housewife discovering at the supermarket that her weekly grocery bill has jumped another four dollars can hardly be expected to penetrate the mysteries of Mirvs, Abms and Ulms and their effect on the cost of living.

Active, concerned public support for those who want to achieve at least a pause in the arms race is limited, to say the least. That is hardly surprising. The game at Vienna is like an international chess match. Only the masters can follow the moves. Yet the final score will be reckoned in the lives of each and every one of us.

Ian Smith Sings Triumph But Rhodesia In Trouble

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Salisbury, Rhodesia, Premier Ian Smith broke into lusty song to celebrate an election which, to the surprise of no one, gave his white supremacist Rhodesian Front party a landslide victory.

Nor would the Zulu battle song he sang ". . . Hold him down you Zulu chief . . ." lend comfort to the nearly five million blacks doomed to second class citizenry by a constitution designed to keep 225,000 whites in power indefinitely.

The reasons for Smith's elation were obvious. In defiance of most of the world's nations, his regime had survived four years of sanctions, on March 1 had proclaimed Rhodesia a republic and now had climaxed it with the roaring approval of Rhodesian whites.

But beyond the victory there were others who saw trouble ahead.

The new Rhodesian constitution provides for a parliament in which 50 seats are reserved for whites, and 16 for blacks, eight to be elected and eight to be named by tribal council.

In theory, blacks could achieve power as their wealth and tax contributions increase.

The present contribution is less than one per cent and among their total numbers only 8,300 black votes were registered.

Those who see trouble ahead do so primarily on the basis of future population growth, in which the blacks are outdistancing the whites by more than four to one.

It means more and more educated blacks will be competing for sources of income already limited.

Smith once declared, "You can find more happy black faces here than anywhere else in Africa."

To this his critics reply that as the gulf between populations increase, the white minority will be forced to increasingly repressive measures to stay in power. They add that the former easy relationship between black and white already is disappearing.

Another source of future unrest is the new Land Tenure Act which divides the land roughly equally between blacks and whites despite the huge disparity in the two populations. In the economic, social and educational fields, Rhodesia has suffered a brain-drain among its youth. A campaign to bring in white settlers of uncertain talents has failed to offset it.

There is the continuing hostility of other African nation: The Rhodesian government limits reports of guerrilla raids against its territory by black nationalists trained in Algeria, Red China, Cuba and elsewhere. These Communist-trained forces are estimated at about 2,000 with more in training.

In Salisbury, only South Africa and Portugal continue to maintain consulates.

Despite the unfriendliness of other nations, Rhodesia has been able to adjust to sanctions. Agriculture has been hurt but more than 1,000 new businesses have been started, there is a building boom and Salisbury's busy streets have the look of prosperity.

Movie Epic At Redwood; Landlord Troubles At College

Some people like old Bogart films, some the late-show De Mille epics, but for all movie nuts there something special showing tomorrow night.

"M," a classic early-30s German flick by Fritz Lang, will be seen at 8:30 p.m. in the Redwood High School little theater.

Some felt that the movie was an allegory, showing the nascent Nazi party as collective murderers. Whether it was or not, Lang left Germany after the movie came out.

It's a basic film, like "Birth of a Nation" and "Potemkin," for people who take their movies seriously.

THE COLLEGE OF MARIN trustees are reluctantly taking on the role of landlords. On May 7 they will open bids for tenants on the undeveloped north campus site, and they worried aloud quite a bit last week over getting "the right kind of tenant."

Some sort of occupant is needed to keep squatters, tree cutters and vandals off the land. But the board doesn't want to rent it to hippies, sex cultists or weirdies who might give the college a bad name. Not in these days of rising taxes and falling reputations.

There must be a thousand landlords in Marin who know just how they feel. But the trustees are probably more limited in who they can reject — they can't do it on the basis of long hair, as some do these days.

DIALOGUE DAY at Redwood High School last week showed several things, not least that young and old people have a lot of quirky behavior in common.

Adults in the drugs session kept asking "why do you take it?", as if the question hadn't been answered several thousand times before in every medium except smoke signals. Maybe they just can't accept the reasons given.

And the students in Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr.'s session were floored by his proposal to ban cars from campuses. One suspects Goldstein put the idea forward as something to chew on, not something he really expected to happen.

He cited studies, which most of us have heard of secondhand, which show a correlation between car ownership and lower grades for students.

The students didn't believe it. Not only that, they disbelieved in typical adult fashion—that is, they ignored what was really said and attacked what they thought was implied.

One girl accused Goldstein of saying "every student who gets a car is going to make all Fs, and go out and steal things and not do his homework." A much easier proposition to attack, of course.

This is carping, of course. In the main, both young and old at the session showed good flexible minds, and if they didn't settle anything at least they had some good talk sessions, and the next time they hold a dialogue day about four times as many people should show up and let their brains work for a while.

How Ghost Of Justice Carswell Brought Back The Old Nixon

WASHINGTON—I can now reveal why President Nixon made his bitter attack on the Senate after the Judge Carswell defeat. From Talking to inside White House sources and putting bits and pieces together, I have learned that this is what happened.

Wednesday night after Carswell had been defeated, everyone in Washington had gone to bed except the President at the White House and Martha Mitchell at the Watergate, who was still trying to rouse someone at the Arkansas Gazette.

The President was in a despondent mood and was pacing up and down his bedroom, when out of the clothes closet came the Old Nixon.

THE OLD NIXON seemed jubilant. "Well, you see what happens when you're Mr. Nice Guy."

"Oh, go away," the New Nixon said. "You always come around to gloat when something goes wrong."

The Old Nixon said, "You wouldn't listen to me, would you? You wanted to remain above politics, a statesman, a man of all the people. I told you it wouldn't work."

"How could I do otherwise?"

"You thought you could let Spiro do all the name calling and the mud slinging," the Old Nixon said. "But it wasn't that easy, Dicky."

"What can I do now?" the New Nixon protested loudly.

"HUSH, YOU'LL wake up Pat," the Old Nixon said. "This is what you can do. You can call the press and say that both Haynsworth and Carswell were victims of assaults on their honesty and racial beliefs because they were from the South. And you can hint that you will make it perfectly clear that anyone who voted against the Carswell appointment will be treated very roughly by the administration."

"Haven't you learned anything since you've been in the White House?" the Old Nixon shouted, exasperated.

"Now you're going to wake up Pat," the New Nixon said.

"SORRY," the Old Nixon said. "Look, Dick, What is the most important thing in the whole wide world to you?"

The New Nixon thought for a moment. "Winning the South in 1972."

"Right. And the only way you can do it is by publicly stating tomorrow morning that both your nominees for the Supreme Court were defeated by a concerted effort of civil rights groups and liberals because they were southerners."

"Can't Spiro do that?"

"No," the Old Nixon said. "The South wants to hear it from you. If you don't show them how mad you personally are, you can watch your whole southern strategy go up in smoke."

"I CAN'T DO IT," the New Nixon said. "I'm President of the United States. It would be lowering myself to make the Supreme Court a partisan political issue."

"All right," the Old Nixon said. "If you won't do it, I'll do it."

"You?"

"Why not? I've been holed up in that damn closet for over a year. Give me a chance, Dick."

The New Nixon thought hard for a few moments. "All right," he finally said. "Go ahead, but keep me out of it."

"Thanks, Dick. You won't regret this," the Old Nixon said, slapping him on the back. "Hey, let me borrow your razor. I need a shave before the press conference."

Convict Stabbing Fracas In Prison

A fight between three Mexican-American prisoners at San Quentin ended with two men in maximum security cells and one in the prison hospital recovering today from nine knife wounds.

According to James W. L. Park, associate warden, the fight Tuesday was the result of bad feelings between Chicano factions at the prison.

Park said Frank P. Padilla, 33, received the wounds on his back, chest and side before a warning shot from a prison guard stopped the fight. Padilla is in good condition at the prison hospital, Park said today.

Three prison-made knives were found at the scene, according to Park, who withheld the names of the other two men pending further investigation.

Beating Sends Robber To Prison Hospital

Joseph C. Walters, 25, a prisoner at San Quentin, was treated at the prison hospital yesterday after he was beaten by six other inmates, prison officials reported.

Officials gave no reason for the attack on Walters, who was serving a one year to life sentence for armed robbery. He has been at the prison since 1966.

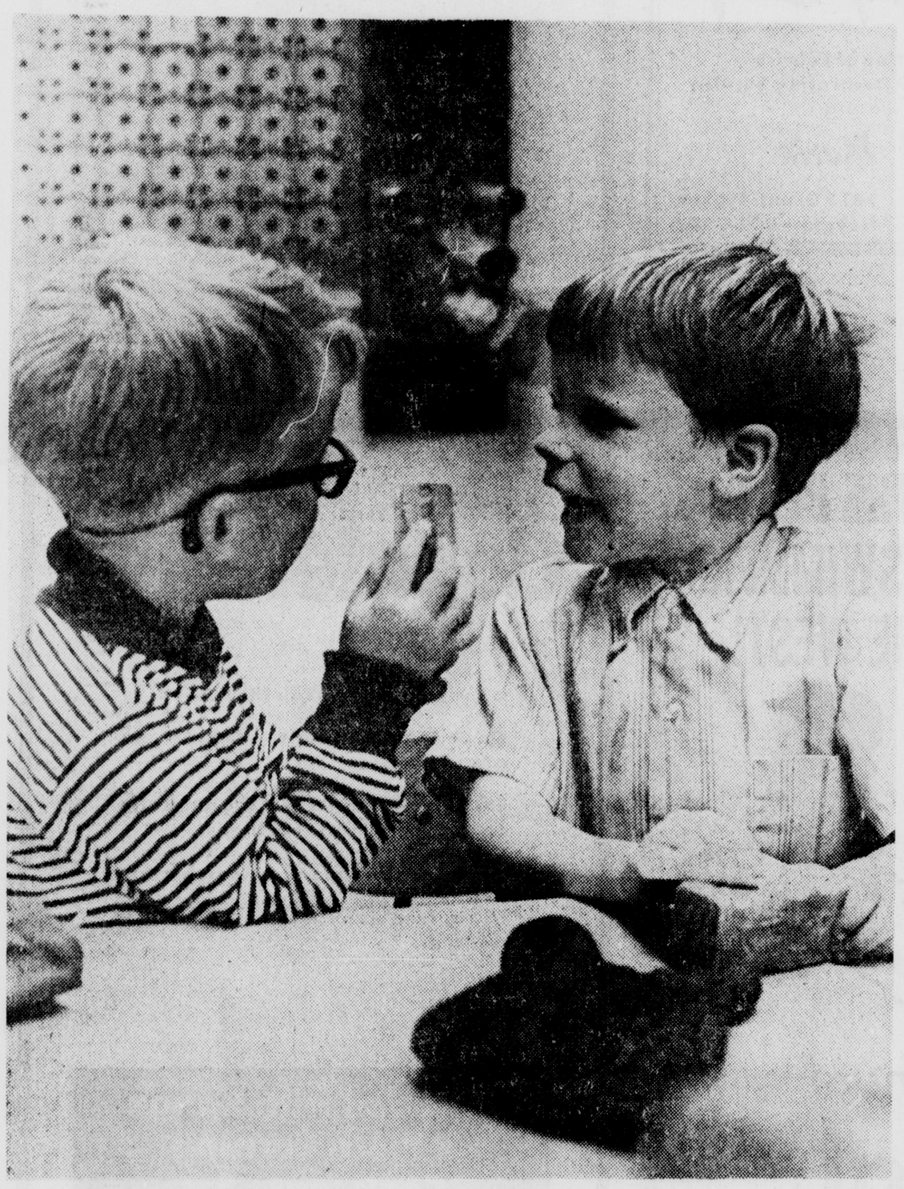
FINDING A PROJECT OF THEIR VERY OWN

Little boys can't knit? They wanted to at the Tamalpais Nursery School in Mill Valley when little girls were learning, but the girls said No!—besides who wants to have older brothers tease? Instead they are making "Feelies"—pieces of hardwood sanded to a satin finish. The activity has some surprising benefits. From left, Russell Lee, Evan Bowen, Michael Roggenbuck, Chris Kitts, Michael Weber, David Noren, Stephen Simpkin, Gregory Felt, Ty Williams and Michael Fuller.



"FEEL MINE," SAYS Gregory Felt, left, to Ty Williams, adding, "Bet it's smoother than yours." Joyce Zimmerman, the teacher, reports that working on and handling the satiny-smooth pieces of wood has a psychologically calming effect on the class.

GREGORY FELT finds rubbing and sanding his "Feelie" has a good rhythm. Children take naturally to work that has good rhythm, says teacher Joyce Zimmerman. She started the project at Mill Valley's Tamalpais Nursery School as a counter activity for boys when the culture and little girls wouldn't allow the boys to knit.

Friedan Spells Out Women's Rights

By BARBARA HOSMER

There is an urgency for women to get on with their own liberation or they will be nothing, says Betty Friedan, author of "The Feminine Mystique" and principal leader of the spreading national movement for full equality of women.

Speaking at a day long program at Mills College in Oakland last week, Mrs. Friedan stated that the "woman question" is a vital part of the whole human revolution.

She urged that men as well as women be liberated from their stereotypes to clear the way for a new society in which parents and children can share a new human closeness and freedom to realize their potential, unfettered by role limitations imposed by social institutions.

Women for too long have, like the blacks, been forced to accept (white male) society's definition of themselves, Mrs. Friedan said.

"The first task is to transcend the denigration breathed into us from birth. We are all oppressed. There are no 'exceptional women'. As long as you or I are still scarred by the doubts, then no women are free."

"We must be selfish in this before we can devote ourselves to the larger philosophical questions of our age. We can't until we have the sure sense of self and have the energy free us to ask the larger questions.

"Woman has not had the experience of self as a full human being. 'Who am I' is a necessary step to get on with it, but we shou'd not get stuck here," she warned.

"Revolution begins for each of us in definition of our selves; then we must redefine our selves in action. Always we must begin where we are," stressed the 49 year old founder and former president of the National Organization for Women. She cautioned against the cop-out that women have used to run out to liberate somebody else in the ghetto instead of themselves.

"This revolution will change society more completely than any previous revolution—it will change the family, politics, economic and educational structures.

"The human similarities of men and women outweigh sexual difference," Mrs. Friedan emphasized. "Bearing of children can not be the defining fact of women. Her average lifespan is 75 years—who's she going to mother for 75 years?" she asked. "Crowding of cities now dictates that we control fertility and furthermore, childbearing can only occupy a very few of a woman's years on earth.

"Women will become nothing," she said, if they don't break down the political, economic and social barriers that now confine and define them as second class citizens. She called for a whole restructuring of education to give women the confidence and training for whatever adult life they wish to pursue, of the economic system to let women get the good jobs for which they have the ability to hold equally with men, the hidebound family system that "traps" women at home in the feminine mystique and builds up hostility, and the whole social structure that prescribes female subserviance from birth.

Mrs. Friedan called for woman studies, like black studies, on every campus so that women can become aware of their history. But action, she said, is the test of what is valid to borrow from other revolutions, and that the women's revolution is not the same as the black freedom movement. There can be no separatism between the sexes, she said.

"You can't deny that as affirmation of self grows, love of men grows also. Separatism is invalid. To say women are superior is ridiculous. It's just a cop-out from confronting reality," Mrs. Friedan told the Mills students.

She warned them that machines are taking over lower echelon jobs which are held by a large percentage of working women, and that as the job market tightens, men are taking good jobs in traditionally female professions—teaching, counseling, social agencies.

She added that women's qualities of humaness and nurturing must be used in service jobs, or women will become a social and psychological menace with no outlets for their abilities.

The mechanics of the liberation movement must be political, first of all, to change institutions in frontiers where human values cannot be replaced by machines, Mrs. Friedan said, adding that women must gain political priority for day care centers, to revamp social security regulations that discriminate, to pass the equal

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Living With His Parents Saves Money But She's Losing Her Mind

DEAR HELEN:

I am a young wife expecting her first child. My husband doesn't make much, but I think it's enough so we could afford our own place.

Instead, we live with his folks. They have two children still in school and my mother-in-law babysits her grandson, so it's a mad house. We have no privacy. People walk right into our bedroom. No one knocks. My father-in-law is disabled and home all the time. I constantly hear about how hard up they are, and the blame somehow is put on us. An older sister-in-law says she was treated the same way until they moved away.

Helen, I'm practical and sensible. I could manage a budget. My husband can't see it my way. He's all for saving money, while I'm losing my mind. Help. — NO PRIVACY

DEAR N. P.:

I'd suggest you go apartment-hunting, find a place that fits your husband's salary, work up a budget, and then present the idea to him. Sometimes it takes decisive action to make a man move. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I recently started wearing contact lenses. So what happens? The kids stare and ask questions. Did I break my glasses? How come I switched to contacts? I'm sure they're whispering about me, like "Doesn't she think she's something!" or, "She's just trying to look cute."

I got sick of pushing up my old glasses, and I thought contacts would make a big change for the better, but now I feel that everybody is staring and talking. I'm even more self-conscious than I was before. I've always been shy.

Why is it when you try to improve yourself, you end up feeling worse? — MISS CONTACT-ED

DEAR MISS C.:

Because you're so tied up by shyness that you're sure "everyone stares and whispers." For Heavens sake if people ask about your contacts it's because they're interested, not nosey. They'd like to give you compliments but your self-centeredness turns them off.

Now that you have a new look, open up and discuss it. Contact lenses like wigs and changes of hair color, are good conversation starters nowadays.

—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Many of my friends are on drugs and I can't stand it because it's like watching them die. They say:

Drugs make you feel happy.

Drugs can't hurt you.

They're the best things since booze.

They make you feel like you can do anything, and bring out the real you.

Drugs make the users look cool. They psych you out.

Whoever thinks these statements are true is a fool. My only words are:

Drugs are what make you cry when you see your friends using them.

I should know. My boy friend was killed by them. — T. S. R.

Bathing Needs

Begin your bath by collecting all the things you will need. Everybody should always have a personal washcloth and towel—and never share them with anyone else in the family. A shower cap will protect your hairdo from the water and steam. Be sure to use plenty of soap. Water alone cannot remove dirt.

Wash Non-Sticks

Although pots and pans treated with non—stick coatings do not need scouring, experts say that mere rinsing is not sufficient to keep them functioning at peak efficiency. It takes thorough washing in hot soap or detergent suds to prevent a build—up of food residue which would eventually cause food to stick despite the original slick surface.

FEMINIST leader Betty Friedan sees the women's liberation movement as a vital part of the whole human revolution, and calls for men and women both to become freed from their stereotyped roles imposed by today's society. "Man is not the enemy, he is the fellow victim," she says.

Betty Friedan Urges Liberation Or U. S. Women To 'Become Nothing'

rights amendment to the Constitution and "end discrimination against women in a thousand laws in the land."

"There are no blue prints to follow. It's never been done before. There are no books to tell us what to do; the revolution is by our own action.

"The only discrimination that remains morally possible in America today is discrimination against women," she emphasized.

"It would be easy for labor or blacks to turn against women if the economic situation worsens," she remarked.

"We don't have time. Anyone who says the women's liberation movement is irrelevant to today's larger questions is blind. It's essential.

"We need to confront the conditions of oppression, not by whining selfpity or hatred of men. This most powerful movement for radical change will be the target of attempts to abort it."

From her own experience since she wrote the "Feminine Mystique" and began the new women's liberation movement with the formation of the NOW, Mrs. Friedan ticked off some traps that "will keep us from getting on with it:"

Tokenism — "We were bought off when President Johnson appointed women to his administration. All were powerless jobs. The Status of Women Commission was set up as a beginning of debate, but after making its report it was disbanded and nothing enforced. Now there are state commissions with no tooth power to implement their findings."

Rationalization of status quo—"A Freudian blind spot has caused psychologists to believe that women exist in inner space, but both men and women have tuned into inner space for creativity and intuition and both being human, they must exist in society as well. We are not cows. We cannot exist in a barnyard. We can only exist in human society, which is public society and which is out there. To be human we must have a piece of the action, wherever the action is."

Continuing education for women—"It was a demand as a form of survival for my generation. It was easy for universities to sell it out. It took a woman with a very developed ego to put her own thing first. The universities dished out pablum in what became adjustment courses, evading the need to do anything real to change women's inequality in education."

Fake "options"—The theory of stages of a woman's life offering education to girls, then housewifery and motherhood, then going into the world at age 40 to continue studies or to take up a career is a fake option, said Mrs. Friedan. It is wrong, she said, to say "you can be happy as a housewife and mother" as a career. "This has turned out to be wrong in today's world, when a woman can expect to live to age 75. Age 40 is almost too late to enter educational training for anything meaningful or a real career or business position," she said, "and it takes guts for those who do it. Women today will have to move out in society most of their years." Is it moral, she asked, to tell young women today that they can choose to spend 15 years rearing small children and then go back for education and work? "It enables us to evade getting on with the real changes that need to be made." This will mean restructuring education and the professions and businesses to give women maternity leave, more realistic hours in some cases, such as changing the 24 hour a day duty required during medical internship, she said.

Another fake option, said Mrs. Friedan, is that women can choose not to marry, not have children and pay the price to choose one of the "hard professions" such as the medical, architecture, engineering, airline pilot, etc. "It is not a good option with that pricetag, which is not required of men. Only the most exceptional women can combine the wife-mother-professional roles. When they hear this talk girls are conditioned away from any ambition to be all that exceptional!"

TOMORROW: Hostility and the "Pseudo-Radical Cop-out."

'Cuckoo' Returns And It Is A Tribute To The Director

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO—Ken Kesey's "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which enjoyed a short but successful run last winter in Mill Valley, is back again—this time at the Little Fox Theater in North Beach.

To say that the Dale Wasserman adaptation of the Kesey novel about life in a mental institution is brilliant theater would be rather an exaggeration, but it's far above average.

It does present, however, many important observations on today's society such as freedom of expression vs. the Establishment.

Lee Sankowich, in his first Equity directing chore, has done a masterful job in selecting a cast which carries out its assignments very well.

In the role of the free-wheeling spirit, Randle Patrick McMurphy who upsets the applecart, is Fredric Cook, no stranger to Marin Shakespeare Festival patrons. His characterization last night at the opener was strong and sure—elements which helped lift the production out of the routine.

He should, however, be well-versed as the protagonist since he had the same part in the Mill Valley version.

Kesey's other characters in this mental institution game of charades were handled with equal authority.

John Garber as Chief Bromden the "deef and dumb" Indian gives a telling performance as the "walker" although the change into a real person is rather too abrupt—a flaw of the playwright.

Drew L. Eshelman as Dale Harding (same part he had in the Mill Valley Center of Performing Arts production) is a study in contrast to Cook's characterization. His lean frame and long gangling arms lend to the effeminacy demanded.

In his first professional assignment Lawrie Driscoll of Novato, who learned his acting chores at College of Marin, is surprisingly good as Billy Bibbit, the confused mother's boy.

Those who play the rest of the patients on the ward are also well steeped in their roles—Frank Albertson as Frank Scanlon, Barry Kraft as Charles Cheswick, Cesar Villavicencio as Martini, Joseph Napoli as Ruckly. Adding a dash of earthy sex in the "illegal" party scene are Janet McGrath as Candy and Carla LiBrizzi as Sandy. Also Roberta Callahan as Nurse Flinn and Phil Cato as Aide Turkle carry their parts well.

The small arena of the Little Fox is ideal for the production. Characterizations would be lost in a big theater. It is the intimate feeling which must be achieved to set the stage for the hollow Establishment victory.

Much of the success of this production is wrapped up in the lighting and projected media by Michael Clivner. With projected pictures and background voices the minds of the patients are projected for a better understanding of each.

The play is on the longish side, but what saves the evening is the well-paced company. Possibly some cuts could be made to bring the show in the two-hour range without destroying Kesey's prose to which Wasserman is very faithful.

However, "Cuckoo" is a welcome addition to the Bay Area theatrical scene and should be a crowd pleaser for many months to some.

Baker Chorales, Soloists In Excellent Festival Offerings

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A major event in Dominican College's week-long Festival of the Performing Arts was the successful concert last night in Angelico Hall by the Marin Winifred Baker Chorale and the San Francisco Chorale, both directed by Miss Baker.

They offered an extraordinary program consisting of the Kyrie of Antonio Vivaldie, the West Coast premiere of "Moralities"—three short satirical operas with music by the rising young German composer Hans Werner Henze and text by W. H. Auden—and Beethoven's Mass in C.

The Winifred Baker Chorale of some 45 voices opened the program with the Kyrie, featuring soprano Cwen Curatilo and alto Mildred Owen. There were more altos than sopranos so that sopranos did not dominate, quite contrary to the situation in the Beethoven mass sung by the approximately 75-voice San Francisco Civic Chorale. In that the sopranos were a little too strong for perfect balance.

Unfortunately, in the duet in the kyrie Miss Owen's alto was no match in volume for Miss Curtail so strong, clear soprano. This was regrettable because in her solo in the mass, Miss Owen's voice had a very lovely quality. But again in that same work she did not hold her own in the quartet that included Miss Curatilo, tenor Edward Jameson and bass James Tippey.

In interesting timbre combination in the accompaniment of the Kyrie was the harpsichord and organ played skillfully by Robaline Meacham and John Klobucar, respectively.

The Henze work performed by the combined choruses was especially fascinating because of its novelty, fun, exploitation of unusual sounds of the voice and antiphonal structure using a big chorus on stage with a group of altos on a side platform and group of sopranos on the other side.

The tricky timing in the passing of words and phrases back and forth among the groups was a real test of the singers' skill, which they passed with flying colors.

It was fortunate that copies of the text were given with the programs, for the work was so cacophonous that one might have missed the delightful satire on the advantages of anarchy in one opera fable, the lampooning of avant garde, music in the second and mocking of those who turn to religion only in fear in the third.

Jameson, whose fine tenor was part of the quartet in the mass, was the narrator and spoke with about the clearest diction I have heard in Angelico Hall which has its acoustical problems.

Tippey's rich bass was very good in featured parts. In fact, his singing and Miss Curatilo's were the musical highlights of the evening, together with the best of the choral passages. There were many of these and admirably flexible handling of the florid style in the Beethoven mass finale.

Judith Stross on the piano and Alice Hongell on the harpsichord were the able accompanists for "Moralities," and Klobucar's organ accompaniment for the mass was excellent.

McCarthy Gets Backing On Compensation Fund Idea

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, has succeeded in winning a key Senate committee's approval of a controversial bill to force state compensation of counties for revenue losses due to business inventory tax reduction.

Now he faces the task of convincing Gov. Reagan to change his mind about the bill and to withdraw his opposition.

McCarthy convinced the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee to approve his bill to have the state come up with $28 million over a three-year period to fully compensate counties for revenue losses due to a cut in the inventory tax.

The only opposition was expressed by the State Department of Finance.

McCarthy will need a letter from Gov. Reagan to get the bill past the Senate Finance Committee, however, and sent to the Senate floor.

Joe Jimenez, McCarthy's district coordinator, said McCarthy has made an appointment to discuss the matter with Reagan personally.

Jimenez said McCarthy is hopeful he can convince Reagan the bill represents needed tax relief for the counties which otherwise must make up lost revenues.

Marin's other legislator, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, has a similar bill. Unlike McCarthy, Bagley has a letter from Reagan to get his bill moving.

Bagley's bill would not require counties that received excess state compensation to return the excess to the state. McCarthy's bill would require repayment by the counties of any excess compensation, but this provision is certain to be opposed by powerful counties that would lose under McCarthy's bill.

WHO NEEDS IT?

An unidentified little anti-war demonstrator appears equally disenchanted with war and anti-war rallies as she concerns herself with more mundane matters like getting a little sleep. Her companions concentrated more on yesterday's noontime rally, sponsored by the New Mobilization Commitee to End the War in Vietnam, on the lawn of the old courthouse in San Rafael. The rally, attended by about 100 to 150 persons was as peaceful as the child's slumber.

QUESTIONNAIRE ANSWERS

Novatans Aware Of Problems

Novatans would shop more in their city if there were a department store there, feel they have an adequate police force, believe in spending tax money on youth activities, favor a city park, and generally consider Novato a good place to live.

These are some of the conclusions from an incomplete tabulation of a questionnaire sent out to 6,000 citizens prior to holding a Congress for Community Progress, according to Robert Larson, co-chairman of the congress.

The congress, sponsored by the chamber of commerce with the help of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., is scheduled for 8:30 a.m., May 23, at Novato High School. There will be guest speakers and public panels on seven topics.

These are: business and industry, youth, education, human relations, roads and transportation, recreation, and civic pride and beautification.

The chamber received more than 1,200 returns on the questionnaires and results are still being tabulated, Larson said.

Many of these questions and their answers were similar to previous community opinion polls taken by the Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Housewives still want a department store. People still feel that the city has a good police department and needs a park.

More than 1,000 respondents were aware of the current downtown study and 185 were not. By about four to one respondents favored a centralized shopping area rather than outlying shopping centers, and the same ratio thought that there should be light industry in the city.

With Hamilton Air Force Base the largest employer in the city, five out of eight respondents were against a joint civilian use of the base.

A small majority favored a sewer bond issue and opposed subsidizing housing for low income families and sponsoring a baby sitting service.

Youth came in for a large majority of favorable votes. A big majority favored organized youth leadership; spending tax money on youth; giving support to youth programs, and believeing youth should be elected to the city council.

By a four-to-one ratio, those who said they did not attend school board meetings felt that there should be stricter discipline in the schools, but the reverse was true for those saying they attended board meetings.

Novato should have more music festivals, a YMCA or other such organization and more recreational facilities, the majority held.

The answers were about equally divided on whether or not Novato presented a good image and needed an identifying theme. By more than six to one, respondents called for stricter regulations on litter on vacant lots.

Two Windows Broken At Furniture Store

Two windows valued at $700 at Young Brothers Furniture store at 7514 Redwood Highway, Novato, were broken some time Tuesday night or yesterday morning, police reported today.

The owners of the store have been warned to stop advertising in the San Rafael Independent-Journal by San Francisco Typographical Union 21, according to police.

Employers' Reports Deadline April 30

April 30 is the deadline for employers to file California Unemployment Insurance wage reports and contribution returns for the first quarter of 1970, Charles J. Brady, auditor in charge of the State Department of Human Resources Development office for San Rafael, has announced.

Employers who need help in preparing their returns and wage reports may contact the San Rafael Employment Tax Office at 807 E Street, he said.

Brief Confrontation Nearly Ends War Protest Program

An antiwar program that began during the lunch hour yesterday at San Rafael High School continued through the final class period after a brief confrontation in which Principal Alan Ellsberg at one point threatened to call police.

The threat came after 50 to 60 students who had gathered around the school flag pole refused to return to classes at the principal's demand.

The impasse was broken when science teacher Larry Lack proposed that the affair be turned into a special class, with him presenting the case for U. S. involvement in Vietnam and mathematics teacher Richard Delgado giving the antiwar view.

The students, who had defied an order by Ellsberg and request by student Scott McNear, organizer of the rally, that they disperse, insisted on written assurance from the principal that they would not be punished for cutting other classes to participate.

Ellsberg signed the promise, along with assurances that the students may have school bus transportation to approved activities, that they may distribute literature at school as long as it does not advocate violence, and that they may have free political expression in campus meetings outside of class time.

Young McNear said the promise also included transportation by school bus to a Vietnam Moratorium Committee rally in San Francisco on May 15, but Ellsberg denied this.

The rally began during the lunch period with Delgado and teacher Tami Bell carrying a flag-draped coffin to the school flagpole. The flag was lowered to half-staff in honor of Vietnam War dead until the end of the lunch period.

Massed students sang "We Shall Overcome" and "Give Peace a Chance" and listened to antiwar speakers.

Ellsberg said permission for the lunchtime rally had been given a week earlier to Delgado and young McNear.

When the lunch period ended, however, 75 to 100 students remained to hear a reading of the names of Bay Area dead in the Vietnam War.

Ellsberg, who had gone to San Anselmo to attend a luncheon honoring three San Rafael High School winners in the "Invest in America" contest, said he returned at 2 p.m. to find four teachers and 50 to 60 students still gathered around the flagpole. It was then that he ordered that they disperse, was defied, and threatened to call police.

McNear said the rally was inspired by the "Vietnam Moratorium Day" activities yesterday of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, but had no official connection with that committee.

One Man Battles Five Hours To Find Answer To Half-Staff Flag

When may the American flag be flown at half-staff and who has authority to so fly it?

It took Ralph K. Pedersen, Sausalito Fire Department captain, five hours of his day off yesterday to get the answers.

Pedersen began his quest when he saw the flag flying at half-staff at Marin Luther King School. He called the school to learn why, and was told it had been lowered by Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. as result of a petition signed by 200 students and teachers. The petition asked that the flag fly at half-staff "until the killing in Vietnam has stopped."

Pedersen wondered whether this was legal.

He called the Marin County schools office. No one there knew, although they had heard about the flag at King School and were trying to find out.

He called the district attorney's office and was referred to the state attorney general's office in San Francisco.

The man he got at the state attorney general's office didn't know the answers either. He suggested Pedersen try the U. S. attorney's office.

He did, and was referred to the adjutant general's office at the Presidio of San Francisco.

By that time, Pedersen decided to start over again at the local level. He called the Sausalito School District. Superintendent and assistant superintendent were both out. Nobody there knew. Neither did personnel at Marin Luther King School.

Pedersen again tried the county schools office. They were still checking.

At that point, Pedersen gave up. But not so the county schools office.

Stanley H. Friese, deputy superintendent, was poring through state and federal codes, including a flag code adopted by Congress in 1942.

At 4 p.m., Friese called Sausalito Sup. Phillip W. Schneider — and Pedersen — to report the results of his digging:

The flag can be lowered to half-staff only at the order of the President of the United States, in times of national mourning.

This may come as a surprise to many local officials, as it did to Pedersen.

Today is Thursday, April 16, the 106th day of 1970 with 259 to follow.

The moon is between its full stage and last quarter. The morning star is Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1862 Congress abolished slavery in the District of Columbia. On the same day all white men between the ages of 14 and 35 were ordered conscripted into the armed forces of the Confederate States of America.

In 1947 more than 500 persons were killed when a French freighter carrying nitrate exploded at a dock in Texas City, Tex.

In 1962 Roman Catholic Archbishop Joseph Rummel of New Orleans excommunicated three persons for attempting to stop his order to integrate the parochial schools.

In 1968 novelist Edna Ferber died in New York City at the age of 82.

A thought for the day: British novelist John Galsworthy said, "If you do not think about the future, you cannot have one."

Lagunitas Budget Cuts Only Tentative

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that Lagunitas School District trustees had set priorities to reduce the budget by cutting transportation services, paid teachers' aides, district librarian and special school supplies, in that order.

According to Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff, these items were only discussed as possible means of reducing the budget.

All The Complaining And West Held Key To Defeating Contract

Hamlet's experience simply could not have happened to a bridge player. The melancholy Dane didn't know what to do, and he doubted that anyone else knew. A bridge player always knows what to do, and when it turns out that he was wrong, his partner always gives him a pep talk in very short words, such as: "If you don't know what to do, let me play all the hands."

LEADS TRUMPS

South took the first trick with the ace of hearts and led trumps until East took the ace. East returned a heart, and South ruffed. Declarer drew the rest of East's trumps and then led a club, forcing out the king.

East saw that he would get nowhere by returning his last heart, so he shifted to the king of diamonds. Declarer won in dummy with the ace of diamonds and led another club to force out the ace.

Now East led his other diamond, and East took two diamond tricks to defeat the contract. North and East promptly delivered pep talks to their partners.

SHOULD READ LEAD

When East led the king of diamonds, North pointed out, it was clear that the East hand contained the ace of spades, the ace-king of clubs and the king of diamonds. It was also clear that East's distribution was fairly balanced.

If East had the queen of diamonds, he would have a total of 16 points and would have opened with one notrump instead of one club. If East didn't have the queen of diamonds, his lead of the king was obviously from a doubleton.

South should have refused to take the first diamond. He takes the next diamond and ruffs a heart, reducing East to clubs alone. Then South leads a club, and East must allow dummy to win two club tricks. This assures the contract.

EAST'S COMPLAINT

What was East complaining about while North was lecturing South? If West had opened a club in response to the opening bid, he would have defeated the contract by ruffing a third round of clubs. "Just lead my suit next time," East demanded. All partners are men of one syllable.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- 6 2
♥- A 9 8 2
♦- A 5 4
♣- Q J 10 9

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs.

The hand is too strong for a response of 1-no-trump, but not strong enough for a jump to 2-no-trump. Bid a suit first, and bid 2-notrump (not a jump) at your next turn if you can.

The Council does hereby submit to the qualified electors of the City at said special municipal bond election said measures, and each of them, set forth in Section 1 of this ordinance, and designates and refers to said measures as the measures to be set forth on the ballots hereinafter prescribed for use at said election.

Only qualified voters of the City shall be permitted to vote at said special municipal bond election. Section 3. The Council proposes to issue and sell bonds of the City for the objects and purposes, but not exceeding the amount, specified in said respective measures if two thirds of the qualified electors voting on each separate measure at said special municipal bond election shall vote in favor of each of said measures; provided, however, that the votes cast for and against each of said respective measures shall be counted separately and, when two-thirds of the qualified electors voting on any one of said measures vote in favor thereof, such measure shall be deemed adopted and bonds of the City in the aggregate amount specified in the measure or measures which carried by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the qualified electors of the City voting on said measure or measures at said election shall thereby be authorized to be issued and sold for the objects and purposes specified in said measure or measures which received such affirmative two-thirds vote.

Said bonds shall be negotiable in form and of the character known as serial, and shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed seven percent (7) per annum, payable semiannually (except that interest for the first year after the date of said bonds may be made payable at or before the end of said year). Provision is hereby made for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as follows: At the time of making the general tax levy after incurring the bonded indebtedness, and annually thereafter until the bonds are paid or until there is a sum in the treasury set apart for that purpose sufficient to meet all payments of principal and interest on the bonds as they become due, the Council shall levy and collect a tax sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds and such part of the principal as will become due before the proceeds of a tax levied at the next general tax levy will be available; provided, however, that if said bonds are authorized to be issued at said election, and it is expected that all or any part of said bonds will be sold at such time that the principal of or interest on such bonds will become due before the proceeds of a tax levied after such sale would be available to pay such principal or interest, the Council, at the time of fixing the annual tax levy, may levy a tax in an amount clearly sufficient to pay that portion of the principal of and interest on said bonds which it is expected will become due before the proceeds of the next succeeding tax levy will be available. If the earliest maturity of the bonds is more than one year after the date of issuance, the Council shall levy and collect annually a tax sufficient to pay the interest as it falls due and to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal on or before maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected as other City taxes and shall be in addition to all other taxes and shall be used only for payment of the bonds and the interest thereon.

Section 4. The City Clerk of the City is hereby directed (a) to publish this ordinance once in full in the Independent-Journal, which is a newspaper of general circulation published in the City, at least three days before its adoption, and (b), upon the passage and adoption of this ordinance, to publish the same once a day for at least seven (7) days in the Independent-Journal, which is a newspaper of general circulation published at least six (6) days a week in the City, and such publication shall constitute notice of said election. No other notice of the election hereby called need be given.

Section 5. This ordinance shall be forthwith entered upon the minutes of the Council and in the Ordinance Book of the City. This ordinance, being an ordinance calling and ordering an election, shall take effect from and after its final passage and approval.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Natural Stone Formers May Be Treated In Variety Of Ways

A reader writes: "My uncle is a natural stone-former and has passed six pebbles in the past 10 years. These episodes cause him to double over in pain and he is becoming despondent. His physician analyzed the stones and found that they are made of calcium. "My uncle was told to avoid foods rich in this chemical. Do you have any other suggestions?"

FOLLOWING THE prescribed diet is most important, but there is more to it. Physicians do not know why kidney stones develop and why some people are habitual stone formers.

Other important factors are infection, acidity or alkalinity, and the concentration or crystallization of certain urinary chemicals.

Calcium does not form crystals in an acid urine and it helps to keep the fluid on the acid side via diet and medication. Drinking large amounts of fluid (up to 10 glasses a day) will keep the urine dilute so that chemicals will not crystallize.

KIDNEY STONES usually are secondary to a pre-existing disease. Blood tests demonstrate whether the blood is loaded with calcium. If it is, the parathyroid glands may be too active.

Uric acid stone formers usually have gout. These people have too much uric acid in the blood and urine.

INFECTION ALSO is a culprit; bacteria acts as the nucleus or nidus upon which chemicals crystallize and enlarge to form a stone. Obstruction along the renal tract may lead to stagnation of urine with crystallization.

Anyone who has passed a kidney stone will attest to its painfulness and try to avoid a recurrence at any price.

A thorough study of the entire tract is necessary, including the uninvolved kidney.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.

RESIDUAL DRIP

R. C. B. writes: I caught cold more than two months ago and ever since I've had postnasal drip. How long does this condition last?

REPLY

The drip will last so long as the residual irritation in the nose or sinuses remains. In your case, the situation has persisted long enough to warrant a thorough examination of the nose and throat. Air pollution may also delay healing. Meanwhile, send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on postnasal drip.

HAY FEVER CARE

M. N. writes: When should a northerner begin taking hay fever shots? Last year I started too late (in April) and regretted it.

REPLY

There is no harm in starting now. Several schedules are available but many physicians have obtained best results with perennial desensitization.

BLOOD IN URINE

N. J. writes: Is blood in the urine a sign of kidney disease?

REPLY

Not necessarily, as the blood may be coming from any part of the urinary tract. Among the possible causes are tumors, ulcers, stones, infection, injury, or severe exertion.

PASSING STONES

A. R. writes: Can gallstones be passed?

REPLY

Yes, but the rocks must be tiny enough to slip through the bile ducts. This means they would have to be as small as BB shot.

NO TEARS

S. K. B. writes: What is dry eye disease?

REPLY

In this condition, the tear glands are so inefficient that the outer surfaces of the eyes have no moisture.

Both War, Peace In National Rally Day

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vietnam Moratorium rallies Wednesday drew tens of thousands for generally peaceful protests in cities across the nation. But in a number of instances groups of radical youths rampaged afterward and clashed with police.

The worst violence came in Cambridge, Mass., where some 1,100 riot police used tear gas, dogs and clubs to battle 6,000 demonstrators who set fires, broke windows and threw rocks from rooftops in Harvard Square.

They had assembled after an earlier peaceful rally by 60,000 persons on Boston Common—the day's largest crowd.

As a result of the disorders, the city of Cambridge notified Harvard authorities that "Earth People's Day" activities and parades slated for this weekend would be canceled in the interest of public safety.

Other disorders occurred at Columbia University in New York City, Miami University of Ohio and Pennsylvania State University and in the nations capital, and in Berkeley.

The latest moratorium was timed to coincide with the April 15 federal income tax filing deadline. Many demonstrations protested the use of taxes to support the war.

Turnouts were generally less than the first moratorium last Oct. 15.

Moratorium organizers expressed dismay that the voices of antiwar "moderates" were submerged by the strident demands of smaller groups of radicals.

In New York City some 20,000 demonstrators turned out in Bryant Park but radicals in the crowd pushed forward to try and take the stage and shift the focus from Vietnam to the cause of imprisoned Black Panthers.

At Columbia University Wednesday night 200 youths, many not students, broke windows, splattered red paint and set off stink bombs after a rally demanding that the university put up bail for 11 jailed Panthers.

For the first time since the massive Columbia student strike in the spring of 1968, city police were called onto the campus by acting President Andrew Cordier. There was no clash but the radicals vowed a strike today.

At Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, 700 National Guardsmen were on the campus today ready to put down any repetition of the Wednesday night disorders which brought about 130 arrests.

The trouble began after highway patrolmen ejected demonstrators from the ROTC building. Police cruisers were pelted with rocks as policemen from several nearby communities moved in and dispersed the crowd with tear gas.

At University Park, Pa., about 200 persons sat in the street and stoned state police in front of a bus removing antiwar demonstrators from the Pennsylvania State University campus. Ten troopers were injured.

About 50 troopers had moved onto the campus minutes earlier to remove 125 sit-in demonstrators from the main administration building. At least 50 were arrested, some were carried bodily from the building to the buses.

In Washington, about 200 antiwar demonstrators marched from the Capitol across town to Dupont Circle leaving a scattering of broken windows and burning trash baskets. Police dispersed them after an hour-long stand off.

At the Capitol earlier, pacifist David Dellinger told a crowd of some 2,000 to withhold payment of federal income taxes as a war protest measure.

"I advocate overthrowing the government by force but not by violence," he said, "and tax refusal is but one of the cutting edges and forces that are available to us."

In Providence, R.I., several hundred demonstrators surged through the downtown area, breaking windows and shouting anti-police slogans.

Peaceful demonstrations took place at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, at nearby Mt. Holyoke and Smith Colleges, at Bowdoin in Brunswick, Maine, and in Andover, Mass.

Ohio Governor Sues Magazine For $10.3 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio today filed a $10.3 million libel suit against Time Inc. and reporter Denny Walsh over a May 2 article in Life magazine entitled, "The Governor and the Mobster."

Life magazine is owned by Time Inc.

Rhodes contended through his lawyer, Louis Nizer, that the article contained false and defamatory statements that the defendants know were untrue.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court here.

Rhodes said the article attempted to link him with the Mafia because of his commutation from first degree to second degree murder in the life sentence of Thomas Licavoli, making him eligible for parole.

Life magazine said today the information appearing in the article was "thoroughly researched and documented by the editors of Life magazine before it was published."

Fire Commission Drafts Policy

The Kentfield Fire District Board last night reviewed a final copy of proposed changes in department operating rules and sent it to the county counsel's office for review, Fire Chief Kenneth T. Kamp reported.

The rules will be up for final action at the April 29 meeting, he said.

The board also agreed to ask district voters to increase the board from three to five members. The proposition probably will be on the November ballot, Kamp said.

The preliminary 1970-71 budget was discussed, but no decisions made. The board also approved sending Kamp to the conference of California fire chiefs May 18-22 at El Segundo, Los Angeles County.

Douglas Attack Dividing House

WASHINGTON (AP) — An impeachment resolution and call for a special investigation of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas have reached the House in the wake of charges the 71-year-old jurist may be unfit for his post.

House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford touched off a vitriolic, parliamentary wrangle Wednesday night after asserting Douglas, who has served on the bench since 1939, may be unfit to serve as a justice because of questionable outside interests and possible associations with underworld figures.

Ford threw his support to creation of a special House committee to study the Douglas case to see if there is cause for impeachment.

Under terms of a resolution proposed today, the special investigative panel would be required to submit its report in 90 days.

When Ford finished his speech Rep. Andrew Jacobs of Indiana, a liberal Democrat, said the GOP leader had a duty to file an impeachment resolution since he "has stated publicly that he favors impeachment of Justice Douglas."

"Since he (Ford) refuses to do so and since he raises grave questions, the answers to which I do not know, but every American is entitled to know," Jacobs told the House, "I introduce at this time the resolution of impeachment in order that a proper and dignified inquiry into this matter might be held."

Jacobs' resolution was referred to the House Judiciary Committee, headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

"It is obviously triggered by the defeat of Judges (G. Harrold) Carswell and (Clement) Haynsworth," said Celler of Ford's attack.

The Judiciary Committee would be considered friendlier toward Douglas than the House Rules Committee, to which the investigation resolution goes.

Ford said Douglas twice was on the dissenting side when the Supreme Court ruled against magazine publisher Ralph Ginzburg.

He said that while the second case was before a federal court, "clearly on the way to the highest court in the land," one of Ginzburg's magazines, Avant Garde, paid Douglas $350 for an article on folk singing.

Ginzburg, in a statement issued Wednesday, said he hoped Ford's speech would be met "with the contempt it deserves."

The investigation resolution charged that Douglas:

—In published writings, speeches, lectures and statements has declared a personal position on issues to come before the court "indicative of a prejudiced and non-judicial attitude."

—Has served and reportedly still serves as director and chairman of the executive committee of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Santa Barbara, Calif. The resolutions call this "a politically-oriented action organization which has organized national conferences designed to seek detente with the Soviet Union and openly encouraged student radicalism."

—"Has repeatedly engaged in political activity while an incumbent of the high court."

—From time to time over the last 10 years had dealings with, involved himself with and may actually have received fees and travel expenses either directly or indirectly "from known criminals, gamblers, and gangsters or their representatives and associates, for services, both within the United States and abroad." This particular allegation mentions no names.

Annex Approved For Restaurant

The Novato Plan Review committee last night approved plans for an addition to the Tijuana Taco restaurant on the east side of Seventh Street north of Novato Creek.

The addition will be 15 by 18 feet and will eliminate two parking spaces in the restaurant parking lot.

The committee approved the landscape design for Ross Department Store in the Downtown Shopping Center adjacent to Long's drug store and a free-standing, illuminated 88-square-foot sign for Young Brothers mobile home sales on Highway 101 north of Olive Avenue.

Shoplift, Weed Counts Pending

An 18-year-old Portland youth was booked into Marin County jail yesterday on suspicion of shoplifting and possessing marijuana after he was arrested in a Mill Valley market for taking a package of bologna, according to police.

Ralph Leonard Human was arrested at Golden Valley Market, 64 East Blithedale Avenue, on a complaint by owner Alan I. Frank. Police said a small quantity of hashish was found in the suspect's pocket.

He was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today. Bail was set at $625.

While Pero Bozovich, owner of Mr. Scalapinos Restaurant at 508 Third Street, was in the kitchen yesterday cooking a chicken dinner for three men customers, the trio slipped out of the restaurant taking a $128 television set with them, San Rafael police reported today.

Arms Session Opens With Nixon's Early Pact Plea

VIENNA (UPI)—The Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) between the Soviet Union and the United States opened today with an appeal from President Nixon for "an early, equitable, verifiable agreement" to curb the nuclear arms race.

The Soviets responded with a pledge of "good will and efforts" and repeated its appeal for a "reasonable accommodation" beween the super powers.

The talks—the first full two-day effort by the two nations to limit their nuclear arsenals — opened in televised splendor in Vienna's baroque Belvedere Castle. But the meetings to come will be held in strictest secrecy in the Soviet and American embassies.

Nixon's message called on the Soviets to show "determination to bring about a mutually acceptable agreement." The letter had been sent to Gerard C. Smith, chief U.S. negotiator, who read it at the opening ceremony following a welcoming statement from Austrian Foreign Minister Kurt Waldheim.

Nixon reaffirmed his statement to the preliminary SALT talks in Helsinki that he hopes "that an agreement can be reached on the limitation and eventual reduction of strategic arsenals with proper recognition of the legitimate security interests of the United States and the soviet Union and other nations.

Vladimir S. Semenov, chief Soviet delegate, said the Soviet Union hopes the Vienna portion of the talks—expected to last two to three months—will "lead to meaningful, positive results."

The Soviets, he said, "stand for peace, cooperation and coexistence. It is from these positions of principal that we also approach the curbing of the strategic arms race, the intensification of which serves the interests of aggressive imperialist circles."

After the formal opening in the historic Viennese Castle, the delegations met briefly and privately to set the time and place for their first working session. A flip of an Austrian coin decided which embassy would host the first session.

A bright sun shone and huge American and Soviet flags flapped in the breeze as the talks opened. The opening ceremony was held beneath an azure ceiling fresco—an allegorucal depiction of victory—in the marble hall where Austrian independence was signed 15 years ago.

Motorcyclist Is Injured, Cited

A 22-year-old San Rafael man was treated at Hamilton Air Force Base hospital yesterday for a cut lip and head bruises after a motorcycle accident at 2:15 p.m. on North San Pedro Road, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Officers said James L. Perry, of 16 Welch Street, Apt. 4, was rounding a curve just east of Bucks Landing when his motorcycle left the road, went into a ditch and flipped.

He was cited for driving a motorcycle with a Class 3 license when a Class 4 license is required, the patrol said.

'SALUD CASALS'

93-Year-Old Master Of Cello Directs An Encore

NEW YORK (AP) — Pablo Casals, 93, conducted the final work of a three-hour "Salud Casals" benefit concert at Philharmonic Hall Wednesday night, and the ovation was so great that he conducted it again.

The work was "Sardana," which Casals wrote in 1926, in eight-part harmony, for a variable number of cellos. On Wednesday night, 100 cellists carried instruments with a combined worth of more than $1 million onto the stage and played the piece. The cellists had come from 14 states and from Yugoslavia, Denmark, Japan, Canada, Switzerland and Israel to play.

In "Sardana" Casals used folk and dance tunes and rhythms of his native Catalonia. The first time through, "Sardana" was played in about seven minutes; the second time it went faster—about five.

After the second playing, applause called Casals back for four bows, for which he walked on and off the stage unaided. He sat to conduct but stood for the more dramatic passages, and throughout conducted vigorously, using both hands.

The rest of the program was played by the American Symphony Orchestra and conducted by its regular conductor, Leopold Stokowski, who is 89.

Coloratura soprano Beverly Sills sang arias by Bellini, Rossini and Donizetti. As an encore, she sang a Catalonian song,accompanied by two harpists.

Money realized from the concert was $151,000, believed to be the largest amount ever made by one benefit classical concert. One hundred tickets were sold at $1,000 each and 100 at $500. The next price was $125. There also were 200 tickets sold to students at $5 each.

Proceeds will be divided between the American Symphony's free youth concert program and the United Nations International School scholarships.

"Sardana" was played by 120 cellists in Zurich on Casal's 75th birthday, but for this performance, the first time the cellist-composer had conducted an all-cello orchestra, he requested no more than 100. One cellist on the stage, Milly Stamfield of Millburn, N.J., had played in the world premiere of "Sardana," in London in 1927, for which John Barbirolli conducted 32 cellists.

Five hundred were invited to a party after the concert at the Juilliard Building. Catalonian food was served, and the exhibition "Years of Casals" could be seen in the upper lobby. Maestro and Mrs. Casals attended.

Some 237 solar eclipses occur each century, according to National Geographic. About one-fourth are total, and on the average two total eclipses occur every three years.

TV REVIEW

Scott Plans To Be Major Voice Now

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — In terms of popular acclaim, critical praise and salary, George C. Scott is probably at the peak of his career.

In the past, he has appeared on television in series and specials, directed several New York plays, starred in the Broadway comedy "Plaza Suite" and won admiration in such movies as "The Hustler," "Antomy of a Murder" and "Petulia."

Nothing, however, has matched the consummate success he has achieved in his latest motion picture, "Patton," about the controversial World War II general. It is a monumental performance, and he is already a strong bet to win the Academy Award.

NEW INTEREST

Amid all this, however, it is fascinating to note that one of his key interests at present is television. Despite his position in the more prestigious theatrical arts, and his criticism of video, the home screen appears to figure greatly in his future.

To begin with, on May 14, Saul Levitt's "The Andersonville Trial," directed by Scott, and starring Richard Basehart, Buddy Ebsen, William Shatner, Albert Salmi and Cameron Mitchell, will be the Hollywood Television Theatre's first production on the public broadcast network. More than 150 non-commercial stations are expected to air the two-and-a-half-hour work, in color.

Furthermore,he says, "I hope to get back into TV next year as a producer-director rather than an actor." Scott, who once starred in CBS-TV's "East Side-West Side" series as a social worker, says he is planning a series of American history programs —"Theatrical Biographies" —for commercial television.

Non-commercial video, of course, may well get a tremendous lift from his prestige and the actors he attracted for "The Andersonville Trial." For if "educational" television needs anything, it is star power to attract a national audience of size, and it is money-shy.

LAUDS MEDIUM

But, aside from his interest in this particular play, what is luring him back to video anyway? Says Scott: "Television is the most powerful medium in the world. It is my firm belief commercial TV is going to undergo great changes in the next decade. Networks will diminish in power. Pressures from the money people and the public are too strong. Internationalism will be a factor.

"What happened to the movie industry will happen to commercial TV. It will be more an open market of syndication. And pay TV —I don't see how it can be kept out much longer. It's kind of like four columns advancing on you from different directions. I don't see how the networks can help but be revamped and revitalized."

In terms of the future, says Scott, "I'm thinking Television can't help being the ultimate theatrical way of presenting things. Among other things, home screens will get bigger." As for his rather recent television roles, he says he has continued to do them when they were "fun," and indicates he has no plans at all to change his attitude toward the medium.

The name of the Cotati Mayor is Frank J. Dolinsek, not Dolsinek, as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Jail Term Set In Check Spree Case

Jerry Eugene Sharpnack, 26, of Hermosa Beach, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to three misdemeanor counts of possessing checks with intent to defraud others.

Judge Peter Allen Smith sentenced him to a jail term to run concurrently with the one he is serving in Los Angeles County and also ordered him to make $387 restitution.

Sharpnack and a woman companion, Patricia B. Whitaker, 20, of Palm Harbor, Fla. were accused of a spree of cashing stolen checks which began in Southern California where Sharpnack, working as a painter, gained access to homes where checks were stolen.

The defendants then worked their way north and were accused of passing checks in three Marin cities last summer. They were finally arrested in Monterey last September while riding a stolen motorcycle.

Miss Whitaker has not been brought to face the Marin County charges.

Federal Pay Hike Signed Into Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation granting a six per cent across-the-board pay increase for all civilian salaried employes of the federal government has been signed into law by President Nixon.

The pay boost for civil service workers and employes of the Post Office Department is retroactive to Dec. 27.

The comparable increase for military personnel is retroactive to Jan. 1 and will apply to the serviceman's total compensation that makes it roughly equivalent to a 8.1 per cent increase in basic pay.

Cost of the pay boost over a full year is expected to total $2.6 billion for 5.3 million employes.

Union Leader Urges Pressure Upon I-J

By ERIC M. INGRAM

A spokesman for striking San Francisco Typographical Union 21, speaking yesterday before the San Rafael Lions Club, called on the Marin business community to apply pressure to the Independent-Journal in an effort to get the dispute settled.

Addressing a luncheon meeting held at the Elks Club, Donald H. Abrams said, "If major stores indicated to the I-J that they were setting a time limit for negotiations to start, the I-J would negotiate."

Abrams, who is a union organizer, told the group of about 40 businessmen that the union doesn't feel there is any issue in the dispute that can't be resolved, "but rather the I-J is simply trying to force the union out."

"Every newspaper between Redwood City and Santa Rosa has agreed to the same conditions that we are asking from the I-J" he said.

"In fact, Santa Rosa has agreed to reproduction (a process by which old copy is set, only to be thrown away) and has even agreed to more stringent discharge procedures than we are asking from the I-J," he added.

By not accepting the items other papers have, Abrams said the I-J was demanding "a preferred agreement better than what the union has given other papers."

Abrams said the strike was the result of the newspaper's refusal, in January, to negotiate on three items which he claimed the I-J has purposely blown out of proportion.

He listed the three as reproduction, employee discharge procedures and appeal methods, and grievance procedures.

Claiming other unions have traded away their negotiating items for more benefits and better pay, the printers' union representative said reproduction has been kept at the expense of other items to insure employment.

Abrams said reproduction, while outdated, is a vital part of any agreement the union signs, as it maintains employment.

"But it is a negotiable item," he added. "We want to know what the publisher is going to offer as a substitute, because we're not going to just give it away."

Abrams added that the union would consider extra vacation time, sabbatical leaves or less hours.

Of the second item, discharge procedures and appeals, he said, "All we are asking is that the shop foreman, when he fires an employee, justify why he did it."

"If the local union decides the firing was not justified," he added, "The man would remain on the job, and the publisher would go to the next higher court — the union international — for a review of the case."

On the third point, grievance procedures, the union representative said the union was asking that whatever conditions are in effect at the time a dispute arises between the union and the newspaper, remain unchanged during the negotiations.

"The publisher now insists that whatever conditions he chooses be in effect during the dispute," he said.

During a brief question and answer session, Abrams said the violence which has rocked Marin is the result of the I-J's hiring of professional strikebreakers.

"We can document the names, dates, and occurrences of these strikebreakers," he added. "Where professional strikebreakers are used there is nothing but chaos. This is where I attribute a lot of the violence."

Asked about the damage to numerous Marin store windows since the strike began, Abrams commented that "someone is doing us in."

"We've had store owners call us saying they had stopped advertising, or reduced their advertising and still had their windows broken," he said. "After reporting windows broken the I-J infers that it was done by the union by saying 'this is the latest in a series of incidents since the I-J was struck Jan. 7 by San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21.'"

"It doesn't make sense for us to do it," he said, adding that the union would join in the prosecution of anyone caught.

Grading Team Takes Close Bayside Look; Some Praise

San Quentin Prison's Bayview schools took the good with the bad yesterday as school and prison officials heard a preliminary report of an accreditation committee which had been studying the schools since Monday.

Among the committee's recommendations were greater staff and faculty participation in professional organizations and conferences; financial stipends for student progress to offset the attraction of paid work in prison industries; more and better classroom facilities, and the addition of business and electronics courses.

The school's literacy training program and its concern and development of programs for minority group students drew praise from the committee.

The report was read by Lindley S. Allen, director of adult education in Mountain View and Los Altos and chairman of the six-member committee from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

The committee will revise and formalize its report before submitting an accreditation recommendation to the association.

The Bayview elementary, high and vocational schools, which serve about 2,500 San Quentin inmates, were first accredited in 1965 for three years. Accreditation was renewed in 1968 for two years.

Daryl A. Hopkins, Bayview principal, said he is hoping for full five-year accreditation this time.

Banner Survives Trip From Japan To Fairfax

That famous "Eat at Rubini's" banner, displayed on television via satellite from Japan during the San Francisco Giants' exhibition series last month, is now prominently displayed and properly autographed at the Fairfax restaurant.

Co-owners Gordon Jones and Dick Templeton, who cleverly gained free international advertising for their eatery while in Japan with the Giants Boosters Club, brought the banner home and had it on display for last night's meeting of the Boosters.

First Booster to autograph the sign was Rita Kennedy of New York, long-time Giant fan who goes on many of the trips with President Arran Murraykami's Boosters.

GOLF DIGEST gets this month's award for perfect timing. Its newest issue, off the presses this week, has a cover photo of Billy Casper who only Monday won the Masters. The layout was planned well in advance of Casper's triumph. Billy is quite cooperative that way.

Incidentally, Golf Digest also has a curiously titled story: "If You REALLY Want To Score, You'd Better Understand The Geometry Of Impact."

But, down, boys, it's about golf.

THREE ENTERPRISING young men—John Armstrong of San Francisco, Dave Shanahan of Illinois and Mickey Sinnerud of Oregon—will use Stinson Beach as the setting for a unique record smashing attempt next Sunday at 1 p.m.

Really Getting Up There

They will attempt to fly a kite more than six miles into the sky to beat the all-time record of 31,995 feet set, according to the Guiness Book of World Records, in 1919 in Lindenburg, Germany.

The three will use heavy fishing line and have already received Federal Aviation Agency approval for their attempt. They will use 15 self-constructed kites about two to three times the normal store bought size. They will stagger these kites every 1,000 feet with four high box kites. Other necessary equipment will be spring tension relievers and iron-workers gloves, according to Alvin T. Guthertz of Corte Madera, who is helping promote the historic event as a publicity stunt for Earthquake McGoon's in S.F.

What kite flying and earthquakes have in common is beyond me. Maybe McGoon told three of his customers to go fly a kite and. . .naw.

Anyway, it's the time of year when everyone in Petaluma is up in arms.

White Sox Rookie Shackles Athletics

OAKLAND (AP) — If rookies of the year were picked in April, Chicago White Sox pitcher Gerry Janeski would be in the running. He hopes he will still be in contention for the honor next October.

ODOM TONIGHT

The teams meet again tonight with John Odom, 0-1, pitching for the A's against southpaw Tommy John, 0-2, of Chicago.

Janeski came to the White Sox in an unusual way. The White Sox sent pitcher Gary Peters to Boston for infielder Syd O'Brien and pitcher Billy Farmer in a winter trade.

But Farmer came up with a sore arm and Chicago was given a choice of another Red Sox player to replace him. They selected Janeski, who compiled a 15-10 record last season with Louisville in the International League.

NEEDED STARTER

"We wanted a starting pitcher to replace Paul Edmundson, who was killed in an auto accident," Chicago manager Don Gutteridge said.

Janeski was happy with the trade. "I figured I would have a chance to be a starter with the White Sox and I wouldn't have with Boston."

His best pitches are a fast ball that sinks, and a slider.

"When I'm pitching a good game, I don't have many strikeouts. I try and make them hit the ball," he said.

He struck out only two Oakland batters but retired 15 others on ground balls to the infield. Roberto Pena got two of the three Oakland hits. Slugger Reggie Jackson was retired four straight times without getting the ball out of the infield.

THEY'RE EVEN

"I really don't know what to throw these batters because I've never seen them before," Janeski said. "But that makes us even because they have never seen me before."

Janeski, who is 6-4 and weighs 200 pounds, defeated the Milwaukee Brewers in his first major league start last Friday night.

The White Sox blasted five Oakland pitchers for 10 hits, including homers by rookie John Matias, Buddy Bradford and Duane Josephson. Chuck Dobson was the losing pitcher.

COSTLY OUT—Giants catcher Dick Dietz was thrown out on this crucial play in last night's game at the Houston Astrodome as he tried to score from second base on a hit by Bob Heise. Catcher is John Edwards. Giants eventually lost to the Astros, 7-6 in 10 innings. (UPI Telephoto)

Astro Rookie 'Big John' Too Much For The Giants

HOUSTON (AP) — Big John Mayberry, Houston's rookie first baseman, showed how he made it to the big leagues by hitting two home runs and scoring the final run which gave the Astros a 7-6 victory over San Francisco in the 10th inning Wednesday night.

The two teams meet again tonight, with Mike McCormick hurling for the Giants against the Astros' Jim Bouton.

Mayberry's second homer, a three-run shot off the Giants' Gaylord Perry in the eighth, tied the score at 6-6. His four-bagger in the third came with the bases empty.

Joe Pepitone also hit a bases-empty homer for the Astros in the fifth.

Then catcher John Edwards ripped a sharp single to right and big John, running for all he was worth, made it to third.

Next came Jim Beauchamp who, with the outfield pulled in, cracked a long drive to right that Bobby Bonds tried to glove with his back to the plate. It went through and Mayberry scored.

Houston opened the scoring in the first when Joe Morgan tripled to left field and Jim Wynn sent him home with a single to right.

The Giants struck back in the second when Tito Fuentes walked, went to second on a single by Bob Heise and scored on another single by Bobby Bonds, who wound up stealing three bases in the game.

Hiller Hurls Hiller's To Softball Victory

Gene Hiller's three-hit pitching and Moe Walker's two singles led Hiller's Men's Wear to a 10-0 triumph over the Patio Club last night in the San Rafael Recreation Department's Adult Softball League at Albert Park.

In the evening's other game, Cain's Tires rolled over the Doves, 8-4, with Bob Berry's first inning triple leading the way.

Police Needed At Chicago's Wrigley Field

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, answering a plea for help from Chicago Cubs' General Manager John Holland, has pledged "full cooperation" in preventing a recurrence of disturbances that took place in Wrigley Field Tuesday.

The game — the season home opener for the Cubs—was played before 36,316 persons and was an artistic success, with the Cubs winning.

However, the mob scene outside the park and the rowdyism inside the brick ballyard on the North Side caused the Cubs a great deal of embarrassment.

POLICE CALLED

Holland said Wednesday: "There will be uniformed police in the park Saturday and Sunday and any other days that we feel might be necessary. Whether they will be off-duty police or some specially assigned has not yet been determined. But we have offered to pay for them."

The Cubs general manager added, "Meanwhile, the mayor has ordered a full investigation made of the situation, assigning men who are experienced in this type of thing. A plain clothes detail will be making a study of just what's going on and by next week recommends will be made how to combat this situation."

The detailing of police inside Wrigley Field rescinds an or-

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Kite-Flying Rookie Keeps Opposing A's On Ground

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gerald Janeski, a scholarly Chicago White Sox rookie who enjoys flying kites as a hobby, did a job on Oakland in grounding the hard-hitting A's on a masterful pitching performance.

The 23-year-old right-hander, obtained from the Boston Red Sox in spring training as a replacement in the Gary Peters deal, stifled the A's Wednesday night for his second straight major league victory and first complete game.

TWO OF THREE

Janeski, a 6-foot-4, 200-pounder, scattered three hits and only walked one while striking out two in the White Sox' 7-0 blanking of the A's. Janeski, 15-10 with Louisiville of the American Association last year, owns two of Chicago's three victories this season.

In the only other scheduled American League games, Minnesota tripped California 8-2 and Boston stopped New York 6-2. The Washington at Baltimore twi-night doubleheader was postponed by bad weather.

Janeski, two days shy of his 24th birthday, beat Milwaukee last Friday in his major league debut.

BOOK READER

Wednesday night, the rookie, who says he read about 30 books last year at Louisville and intends to make it 40 this year, got long-ball support off the bats of John Matias, Buddy Bradford and Les Josephson, each slamming homers, and a two-run double by Carlos May.

Janeski figures he got a break when the White Sox obtained him from Boston and the California State College student means to make the most of it. However, he misses former teammate Billy Conigliaro, now with the Red Sox. Conigliaro was his kite flying partner.

"Some people see you flying a kite and they think you're crazy," Janeski says. But who says you can't fly a kite? And anyway, Chicago should be good kite flying territory."

BIG SIXTH

Unbeaten Minnesota, held to one hit through five innings, exploded for eight runs in the sixth off Angels' loser Andy Messersmith. The big inning was keyed by Brant Alyea's grand slam homer, his third blast of the year and 11th run batted in.

The Twins, winning for the fourth time, also got homers from Leo Cardenas and Cesar Tovar. Jay Johnstone connected for the Angels, who lost for the second straight time after five straight triumphs.

LONGBORG

Jim Lonborg cracked his second major League home run and checked the Yankees with late relief help from Sparky Lyle in Boston's easy victory.

Lonborg had a three-hit shutout for seven innings before tiring and giving up both Yanks runs.

The Red Sox took a 2-0 edge in the first inning on Carl Yastrezemski's run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by George Scott and increased it on Gerry Moses' scoring single and RBI by Yastrzemski and Rico Petroceli before Lonborg's sixth inning homer.

ABA Ready To Begin Playoffs

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Basketball Association, the so-called Lively League, wound up its third regular season Wednesday night with Indiana and Denver, the East and West Division champs respectively, each posting victories.

In addition, Spencer Haywood of Denver set an ABA single game scoring record of 59 points.

The ABA playoffs, for the first four teams in each division, start Friday night. If each of the playoff series goes the full seven-game route, June will be close to busting out before the champion is crowned.

Indiana downed Miami 118-111, New York trimmed Kentucky 123-112, New Orleans defeated Dallas 154-127, Denver beat Los Angeles 152-116 and Pittsburgh thrashed Carolina 132-110.

Los Angeles' loss dropped the Stars from a third-place tie with Washington but the Stars still made the playoffs, finishing a full game ahead of New Orleans, which had led the Western Division for the first half of the season but now will miss the ABA playoffs for the first time.

Haywood, Denver's celebrated rookie, got his league record 59 points against Los Angeles on 23 field goals and a perfect 13-of-13 from the foul line. He broke the old ABA single game high of 57 points set by Connie Hawkins of Minnesota against the New York Nets on Nov. 27, 1968.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Home Run-Happy Braves Leave Manager Punchy

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The homer-happy Atlanta Braves have Manager Luman Harris punchy but that's nothing compared to the Kayo Mike Torrez delivered over the Montreal Expos with his arm and bat.

The Braves tagged two more four-baggers Wednesday night, stretching their start of season homer streak to nine games and downing San Diego 7-5. Torrez, meanwhile, limited Montreal to an eighth inning single and stroked three of his own, leading St. Louis to a 10-0 romp over the Expos.

In other National League games Wednesday, Houston edged San Francisco 7-6 in 10 innings, Cincinnati shaded Los Angeles 3-2 and Chicago dropped Philadelphia 5-1. Pittsburgh and the New York Mets had the day off.

Orlando Cepeda tagged three hits including a homer and Clete Boyer also hit one as the Braves continued their long-ball assault on enemy pitchers. They are four games short of matching the record for homers in consecutive games at the start of a season set by the Chicago Cubs in 1954.

It was an ordinary single by Cepeda that broke the tie against the Padres in the seventh inning. Then Bob Priddy came out of the bullpen in the ninth to nail down the victory for George Stone, who gave up two homers to Nate Colbert and one to Clarence Gaston early in the game.

"We're in a rut on home run balls," said Harris, who has seen his team hit 11 homers and his pitchers surrender 13 in the first nine games. "I've seen them hit everywhere, right, center, left, domed stadium, cow-pasture, it doesn't make any difference. We must be playing with those 5-X balls."

The Braves may be using the lively ball but Torrez certainly wasn't throwing one at Montreal. The tall Cardinal right-hander gave the Expos nothing until Adolfo Phillips singled in the eighth for Montreal's only hit.

Meanwhile, Torrez cracked three singles and was involved in all of the Cardinals' scoring innings. His hit touched off a four-run third and he drove in a run in the fifth with another single. Then, he was hit by a pitch leading off the eighth and the Cards wrapped up the victory with four more runs, three of them on Richie Allen's homer.

It was the 11th straight victory over two seasons for Torrez, a hard-throwing right-hander.

Bobby Tolan's two-run single capped a three-run Cincinnati rally in the third inning and the Reds held on to edge the Dodgers. Jim Merritt was working on a shutout until the ninth when Andy Kosco jolted a two-run homer. After Wes Parker doubled, Clay Carroll came out of the bullpen to get the final out.

Billy Williams, shackled by an 0-for-19 slump at the start of the season, snapped out of it in a hurry with four straight hits including his 250th career homer as the Cubs beat the Phillies.

"You never can stop a hitter like Williams for long," said Chicago Manager Leo Durocher.

Togetherness Can Go A Little Too Far

Mantle Calls Aaron Era's Greatest Player

Houston—At one of the baseball banquets during the winter, Mickey Mantle, a legend in his own right, declared that Hank Aaron was the greatest ball player of his era.

"He's never received the credit he's due," said Mantle. "And you know what? Nobody would recognize him if he walked through the door this minute. It's tragic."

PERHAPS MANTLE overstated the lack of credit received these past years by Aaron but certainly it was not tragic. And, as for recognition, Atlanta fans readily recognize Aaron in or out of uniform just as Milwaukee fans did before the Braves moved south.

Bill Bartholomay, president of the Braves, recognized Aaron at the outset of this 1970 baseball season in a way Aaron appreciated more than any universal adulation of baseball fans. Bartholomay signed a two-year contract with Aaron for $250,000, making him the highest paid player in the history of the Braves.

"THE TWO-YEAR contract should end speculation that I might retire after this season," said Aaron.

Aaron was 36 on Feb. 5. There's not an excess ounce of fat on him. He is lean and strong as a bull. He already has 16 major league campaigns behind him. He probably will add four more seasons to that total before he retires.

Going into his 17th season, Aaron had 554 home runs and 2,956 hits. Before the end of next month, Aaron should be a member of baseball's 3,000 hit club. Before he retires he may break Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714 homers.

WILLIE MAYS, who hit his 600th homer last Sept. 22, believes Aaron has a chance to break the Babe's mark. "He's three years younger than I am, and he should play until he's as old as me, maybe longer."

Aaron, after hitting 44 homers last season, personally believes he has a good shot at Ruth's record and he also believes the wind in Candlestick Park robbed Mays of a chance of catching Ruth.

"If Willie had played in some place that was a little fairer to him than Candlestick—a place like Atlanta or Chicago or Philadelphia—he would have had a chance to beat Ruth's record," said Aaron.

"WILLIE HAD to adjust to Candlestick which still robs him of homers. It's not like Willie McCovey (home run and RBI champ of the National League the past two seasons) hitting with Candlestick's wind. McCovey's so powerful anyway but he's not hitting against the wind like Willie has to most of the time."

Aaron may not have received the universal recognition due him these past years but that soon will change. Had Aaron started his career in New York, as Mays did, he would have been exposed to the kind of publicly that creates sports heroes overnight.

der by former Supt. of Police Orland Wilson who pulled all police out of Wrigley Field and White Sox Park when he was in office. He permitted a detail only outside the ball parks.

The crowd situation inside the parks has been handled by ushers and private security guards. They have no power to arrest or detain unruly customers and Tuesday they took a beating.

A spokesman for the ushering firm said the list of injuries to ushers included a knocked out tooth, a chipped tooth, a fractured thumb and severe cuts and bruises.

Cub second baseman Glenn Beckert told of one youth with a "wild look in his eyes" trying to grab his head as he left the field. "He acted like he wanted to claw at my face," said Beckert.

SPOOKY

"Earlier," the young second baseman said, "I was hit by a thrown orange as I was standing in the batters' circle . . . But that was nothing compared to this guy. eH was spooky."

Before the game, the crush in front of the ticket windows was unbearable. A leg was broken, along with several ribs, and several persons who fainted were passed over the heads of the mob to the rear.

The crowd was made up in great part of young persons, many of them playing hooky from school for opening day. Some of them ran wild Tuesday. The Cubs don't want to let it happen again.

Ed Adams Has High Hopes For Novato's Park Vote

By RALPH CHATOIAN

If Edward Williams Adams' hopes come true, Novato in the near future will have a park of which to be proud.

Adams, Novato's director of parks and recreation, has been spending much of his time in efforts to get public backing for a nearly $3 million park and community center bond issue to go before the city's voters June 2.

ACTIVITIES

"I'm optimistic about the election," he said. "I feel it provides a variety of activities and facilities to satisfy the major needs of our community—from horse back riding to all kinds of activities for sports enthusiasts."

The 67-acre proposed site for the park is on the corner of Sutro Avenue and Novato Boulevard. The bond issue for the park acquisition and development is $2,365,000, and a bond proposal for a community center to be located within the park is $600,000.

Adams, an enthusiastic man of 38, has been head of Novato's park and recreation for five years. Before that he was a recreation supervisor in Mountain View for five years, following two years as recreation supervisor for the Tantau Park and recreation District in Cupertino.

BALBOA HIGH

Ed was reared in San Francisco and attended Balboa High School there. He played some football and baseball and quips, "As a 132-pound defensive end there wasn't much future in that."

ED ADAMS
Optimistic

He worked in the accounting department for Southern Pacific Railroad prior to going into the Army. Stationed in Okinawa during the Korean conflict, Ed became a first sergeant and quite active in training and then started recreation activities for the soldiers. His volleyball team won the championship of the Far East. This is where he got his first real taste of the recreation game.

After the Army, he returned to S.P. for a year or so but then decided on college. His early plans were for engineering, but he later switched to recreation at San Jose State College. Married, he worked part time while wife Carol worked and kept up their home in Cupertino.

"I got interested in Little League and helped start the program in Cupertino," he said, although at the time he and Carol had no children of their own. They now have two boys, Glenn, 8, and Chris, just 7 weeks old.

"I enjoyed working with kids and liked sports," said Adams, "so going into recreation was just right for me. I have never been great in any one sport, but I like them all and do a lot. I'm a 14 handicapper in golf, bowl about 180 average and play a fair game of ping-pong. I like all sports and don't want to spend all my time in just one, although the golf bug is really getting to me."

"I'm looking forward to working with a citizen's bond committee for the June 2 election," he said. "Right now there isn't a public baseball diamond in Novato and there are no basic facilities a community our size should have."

Analy Nips Sonoma Baseballers

Analy High School of Sebastopol picked up two unearned runs in the late innings yesterday to hand Sonoma High its first league loss, dumping the Dragons 2-1 in a key North Bay League II contest.

Lefty Bill Weyl tossed a one-hitter for Sonoma but his mates committed four errors behind him and it had tragic consequences. As a result, Sonoma drops into a first-place tie with Piner (Santa Rosa), both teams with identical 3-1 marks.

In other North Bay II action yesterday, Cardinal Newman (Santa Rosa) scored twice in the fourth inning to nip Rancho Cotate (Rohnert Park) 2-1.

Dane Jacobsen turned in a fine pitching performance for Rancho Cotate despite the loss as he yielded just five hits while striking out six.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

Trevino Leads Field In New Orleans Golf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lee Trevino says he won't let one of his major ambitions get in the way of his quest for the top spot in the $125,000 New Orleans golf tournament.

"I want to win every time I go out," the swashbuckling Trevino said today before setting out in first round play at the Lakewood County Club course.

"That's what this game is all about, winning. If I didn't want to win, if I didn't think I could, I wouldn't be here.

CHAMPIONS

"But one of my biggest ambition is to win the Tournament of Champions.

"Oh, sure, I'd like to win another U.S. Open. But the Tournoment of Champions is really something. I really want to win that one."

The tournament of Champions is scheduled next week in Rancho La Costa, Calif. Its restricted field of about 30 includes only tournament winners from the last 12 months.

"That's something to get excited about," Trevino said, "beating all the other champions."

The 1968 U.S. Open champion already has won over $84,000 this year, took the titles in both the Tucson and National Airlines Opens and tops the list both in money winnings and points. And he's been in contention in every tournament he's played this year.

Billy Casper, who won the 1970 Masters title, is the only other double winner of the year. Casper, also one of the leading contenders for the $25,000 first prize here, also won the Los Angeles Open.

South African Gary Player, winner of $57,000 in only five weeks on the American tour, rounded out the top three picks going into the first round.

Corvus, Crater Seen On Moonless Nights

By SHERMAN WALKER

Crater, the Cup is a rather dim figure but easily seen on a clear, moonless night. To modern ogservers it looks more like a goblet that stands a little crooked.

Corvus, the Crow is a little brighter and looks like nothing more than a four-sided figure.

To find these two constellations, face southward at 9 p.m. and look at the region that is one-third of the distance up from the southern horizon to overhead.

According to mythology this is the cup that belonged to various heavy drinkers of history—Bacchus, Hercules and even Noah who used it as a wine cup.

Alpha Crateris, according to its name, should be the brightest of the figure and no doubt was when the stars were classified. Now, 300 years later, it is magnitude 4 and is no longer the brightest.

Corvus, the Crow, also rests on the back of Hydra, and it is hard to see a bird of any kind here. It is merely a lopsided figure with four unequal sides.

There are many legends about Corvus. In one version this was originally a nymph who was changed into a crow for revealing certain actions of Jupiter that she had seen. In another story she was changed into a crow to enable her to escape from Neptune.

In Corvus the stars have also changed in brightness since they were classified and now are not in proper order.

Pauling Urges Halt In Arms Race, End To ABM

STANFORD (AP) — Nobel Peace Prize winner Linus Pauling says the United States should halt further arms buildup, including the controversial antiballistic missiles system.

"Continued development of weapons and defense systems increase the danger of war breaking out," Pauling said Wednesday as a participant on a panel discussion at Stanford University.

"It is a waste of resources of the country which prevents our using them for the benefit of human beings as we should —to relieve poverty, unemployment and to improve education and housing."

He added: "While there is a balance now between the United States and Soviet Russia, continued development of weapons and defense systems prevents this balance from becoming stable and increases the possibility of a devastating war."

Dr. Pauling said he "reluctantly" had come to the conclusion that "the statements of our leaders are not always reliable, and that there is a considerable amount of chicanery in statements about the ABM system."

Another panelist, Prof. Wolfgang Panofsky, director of the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center, said the Safeguard ABM system President Nixon seeks to expand is technically ineffective and will jeopardize the new Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT), to be held in Vienna.

Panofsky said the U.S.-Soviet arms race is "one of the great tragedies of human history which the SALT talks offer some hope of ending."

"If our side strengthens its defense, their side will want to increase its offensive weaponry," Panofsky said. "Our side then counters with further buildup, and so on."

Thomas Bartman, a foreign policy adviser in the 1968 Nixon campaign and author of the book, "Can We Win in Vietnam!", defended the ABM system. He said "it would be unreasonable to be 'naked' in a world community where a number of other countries may develop nuclear weaponry."

Sixth Grade Readers In Kentfield, Ross Rank High

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Two Marin County school districts ranked among the top 10 in the state in sixth grade reading scores last year.

One Marin County school district ranked among the top 10 in costs of instruction per pupil. It ranked 228 in sixth grade reading, in which the worst possible rank was 301.

These are among disclosures in a new report on the reading tests, including also much other data about the school districts, issued by the California Department of Education.

The reading tests were given in 1,061 districts. However, because of many ties, there are only 301 different rankings.

Among the top 10 were Kentfield district, which placed seventh, and Ross, which tied with Beverly Hills for 10th. The rankings of other Marin districts in which the tests were given were:

Larkspur, 28; Lagunitas, 33; San Anselmo, 33; Dixie, 34; Mill Valley, 37; Reed, 44; San Rafal 51; West Marin, 105; Novato, 119; Tomales Bay, 140; Fairfax, 149; and Sausalito, 228.

Sausalito had the highest cost of instruction per pupil (which includes most, but not all, of the costs of school operation) of any district in Marin, and 10th highest statewide among those districts given the reading tests.

Reed district had the second highest cost per pupil in Marin, followed in order by Kentfield, San Rafael, Larkspur, Ross, Mill Valley, West Marin, San Anselmo, Dixie, Novato, Lagunitas, Fairfax, and Tomales Bay.

The state report also showed the rankings by median IQ scores of the sixth grade pupils. In this list, with 232 possible rankings, Ross headed the entire state. Kentfield placed No. 3. Rankings of other Main districts tested were:

Dixie, 22; Reed, 28; Lagunitas, 29; San Anselmo, 34; Larkspur, 37; Mill Valley, 38; San Rafael, 39; Novato, 67; Fairfax, 88; West Marin, 99; Sausalito, 110, and Tomales Bay, 121.

Generally, reading accomplishment went rather closely with IQ, but there were exceptions.

Since there were only 232 rankings in IQ as compared with 301 in the reading tests — due to more ties in the IQ medians — gauging the accomplishment of Marin's students in reading as compared with their intelligence quotient ratings requires weighting the IQ rankings by adding one-third to each.

With this done, it is found that sixth grade pupils in five Marin districts scored appreciably higher in reading than in IQ. In six other districts, there was a spread of nine places or less between IQ and reading ranks—a minimal difference. In three districts, the reading scores fell far below the corresponding IQ rankings.

On this basis, West Marin scored 27 places higher in reading than in IQ scores. Larkspur and Tomales Bay both scored 21 places above their IQ rankings; Mill Valley, 14 places; San Anselmo, 12 places.

In the middle group were Lagunitas, with reading rank five spots above the weighted IQ rank; San Rafael, reading one place up; Kentfield, reading three places down; Dixie and Reed, reading five places down, and Ross, reading nine places down.

Falling much farther down the list in reading scores than in IQ scores were Novato, down 29 places; Fairfax, down 32, and Sausalito, down 81.

The report showed Reed district with the smallest pupil-teacher ratio in the county. It ranked No. 21 in this respect, with the largest possible rank on the list being 162. Rankings of other Marin districts in pupil-teacher ratios were:

West Marin, 35; Larkspur, 39; San Anselmo, 39; Sausalito, 42; Ross, 58; Tomales Bay, 63; Lagunitas, 67; Dixie, 68; San Rafael, 71; Kentfield, 74; Mill Valley, 94; Fairfax, 98, and Novato, 118.

San Rafael Elementary School District had the largest number of nonteaching certificated personnel as compared with classroom teachers. The highest possible rank on this list—most nonteachers as compared with teachers—was 197. San Rafael ranked 179.

Not far behind was Sausalito, with 149, followed in order by: Kentfield, 141; Novato, 107; Mill Valley, 98; Larkspur, 97; Fairfax, 93; San Anselmo, 79; Dixie, 73; Reed, 62; Tomales Bay, 51; Lagunitas, 43; West Marin, 18, and Ross, 3.

James H. Crandall, chief of the California Department of Education's bureau of evaluation and instructional research, said the report, the first of its kind, is intended to provide information useful to the state Board of Education, the legislature, and local school districts.

FLAG OR YO-YO?

Apollo 13 On Target For Splash

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 13's astronauts recharged a weak battery and prepared other systems in their command ship today for the unique and critical maneuvers needed to bring their crippled craft back to earth Friday.

TRIGGERS ENGINE

With the veteran Lovell at the controls, they triggered their lunar module engine 15 seconds and successfully changed course. Had that firing and later course corrections failed, Apollo 13 would have missed earth by 104 miles and skipped off into space.

With that hurdle cleared, the spacemen turned all attention to Friday's re-entry and landing, scheduled for 10:07 a.m. (PST).

Using flashlights to find their way in the dark and chilly cabin, the astronauts checked the three batteries in the command ship that will provide the power for the blazing dive through the atmosphere. They found two of them at full strength, but the third with only about half that power available.

GETTING POWER

On a normal re-entry, they would require 70 to 80 amp hours. So Mission Control told them to hook up a cable to the power system of the lunar module and recharge the weak battery. This process will take about 15 hours and draw eight amps from the LM.

Although the temperatures in the command ship, which was drawing oxygen from the sturdy LM, were down around 50 de-

Staffers Strike Sausalito School

By PAT ANGLE

Twelve of the 26 teachers at Sausalito's Martin Luther King School, called in sick this morning and did not report to classes, beginning an employees strike at the school to protest certain recent actions of the district's board of trustees.

King Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. and Vice Principal James T. Toliver Jr. did not come to work and black teaching aides and clerical, cafeteria and maintenance personnel were also absent.

Students who wanted to go were sent home, after they received parental permission, according to Supt. Phillip W. Schneider, who said the school would hold a minimum day today, letting all students out by 1:30 p.m.

Schneider said the school would hold classes as usual tomorrow after the district obtained substitutes to replace the strikers. Other schools in the district were operating without incident, he said. There was no indication how long the strike would last.

The absent teachers are: Elizabeth Jones, Julie Whitten, Eleanor Spells, Ajaib Sidhu, Armando Flores, Mae Wellman, Gene Willis, Cynthia Butler, Jane Pokorny, Connie White, Robin Tyler and Margarita Johnson.

The atmosphere at King School today was one of excitement, with most students rejoicing at the chance for a free day. Although the majority of youngsters were in classes by 9 a.m., a few refused to attend classes until the black staff members

Nixon Compromise On Postal Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to raise the cost of mailing a letter to eight cents—instead of 10 cents as originally proposed—and called for establishment of a new United States Postal Service.

In a special message to Congress, Nixon laid out the terms of an agreement between negotiators for the government and the postal unions that couples higher wages with a revised plan to reorganize the Post Office Department.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, after conferring with Nixon at the White House, welcomed the agreement as "one of the most significant events in the history of collective bargaining." Meany said the AFL-CIO now aims at extending collective bargaining procedures to all federal workers.

Nixon altered his 1969 recommendation that the postal service be transformed into a corporation. Instead, he said it should be revamped "as an independent establishment" controlled by nine public members of a bipartisan commission who would hire the postmaster general.

"The postmaster general would no longer be a member of the Cabinet, under this proposal," said Nixon, "and the postal service would be insulated from direct control by the President, the Bureau of the Budget and the Congress."

A key provision of the agreement which Congress is asked to ratify would give postal workers an eight per cent pay boost, over and above the government-wide increase of six per cent which Nixon signed into law only Wednesday. In addition, postal service employes would reach top salary in eight years instead of the present 21 years.

Having proposed only April 3 that postal rates be increased immediately to offset the $2.5

Berkeley Riot Brings Curbs On Campus

BERKELEY (UPI)—Chancellor Roger Heyns declared a state of emergency Wednesday on the University of California campus, where police fired hundreds of tear gas canisters to disperse rampaging radicals after an anti-war rally.

At least 22 persons were arrested and 16, including 11 policemen, were injured.

The declaration by Heyns requires interim suspension of any student, employe or faculty member suspected of breaking laws on campus or within one mile of the university.

During the outbreak, several windows were broken at the home of the chancellor, who also withdrew permission for Sunday speeches by Chicago Seven attorney William Kunstler and Yippie leader Jerry Rubin.

Three Cities, Maybe Four Due Council Vote Recounts

Losers in three closely contested city council elections have asked for recounts, and a fourth recount may be sought, Marin municipal officials said today.

Herber C. Leney, who lost a seat on the Corte Madera Town Council by one vote Tuesday, said today he has filed a written request at town hall for the recount, and posted $100 to meet the recount costs.

Also seeking recounts are Alvin R. Kuhn, who lost in the Tiburon City Council race by two votes, and Robert D. Bauerle, who lost in Sausalito by 27.

Councilman Robert R. Souza of Fairfax, who lost by three votes Tuesday, may seek a recount but has not yet decided, his wife said today.

Candidates seeking recounts must post deposits to meet the recount costs. If they win a council seat in the recount, the cost is paid by the city, but if they lose they must meet the cost themselves.

Bauerle filed his request this morning, and Kuhn was to bring his request in today.

Leney drew 860 votes to incumbent Holmes S. Norville's 861. Kuhn had 662 against M. Carlisle Becker's 664, Bauerle had 699 to Stephen A. Fraser's 726, and Souza had 978 to Albert E. Gately's 981.

The Tiburon City Council will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. today to order Kuhn's requested recount, and also will discuss Mill Valley's bid to annex the

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Golden Gate Bridge District directors voted 15-2 today to buy a ferry boat immediately and to run it between Sausalito and San Francisco.

The vote by the "committee of whole" must be ratified at the board's regular meeting a week from tomorrow.

The $558,673 ferryboat is the Point Loma, commissioned late last year in San Diego. She is 111 feet long, cruises at 15 knots and will carry about 500 passengers.

She is very similar in design to the Harbor Emperor that now serves Tiburon, but is about 50 per cent faster.

The vote came after 90 minutes of debate. Director Daniel F. Del Carlo of San Francisco, exasperated by the long debate, said. "If Christopher Columbus had to come before this board, America would have never been discovered."

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said that service to downtown Sausalito could begin by July 1, and to a proposed Marinship terminal by Sept. 1. He said he

Champagne Throwing Leads To Fraser Being Charged

Stephen A. Fraser, elected Tuesday to the Sausalito City Council, was charged yesterday in Marin Municipal Court with two misdemeanor offenses, stemming from a champagne throwing incident at a victory celebration.

Fraser did not appear in court but his attorney, A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr., said that the councilman-elect wanted to "dispose of the matter as quickly as possible." A trial without jury was set for April 30.

Fraser is accused of a battery against Sausalito artist Stella Popowski as well as disturbing her peace.

According to bystanders, Miss Popowski approached Fraser Tuesday night at a Sausalito bar where he and supporters were drinking champagne to celebrate his victory.

The artist claimed that Fraser, who formerly operated a Sausalito gallery, owed her $319 for paintings of hers which he sold in 1968. Words ensued when she asked for the money, and Fraser's glass of champagne ended up flowing down Miss Popowski's front.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Credit Card Curb

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-passed bill banning distribution of unsolicited credit cards through the mails has been shuttled to a House committee which already has indicated it frowns on the practice.

The measure, hailed by sponsors as one of the most important consumer protection proposals before the current session of Congress, swept through the Senate 79 to 1 Wednesday.

Taking it over in the House is the Post Office Committee, which last month approved a bill requiring that unsolicited credit cards be sent by registered mail, thus giving the public a chance to refuse them.

The Senate-passed measure covers all creditors, including banks, retailers, oil companies and airlines.

Reds Accuse U.S.

PARIS (UPI) — North Vietnam and the Viet Cong blamed the United States today for the murder of Vietnamese citizens in Cambodia and warned Cambodians to stop the massacres or face the consequences.

Deputy negotiator Nguyen Minh Vy of North Vietnam and his Viet Cong counterpart, Dinh Ba Thi, lodged a protest at today's 63rd weekly Vietnam peace talks session against what they called wholesale massacre of Vietnamese citizens in Cambodia.

Thi said the United States plotted the coup in which Prince Norodom Sihanouk was overthrown March 18 and "must be held responsible for the criminal acts of its henchmen in Cambodia and for their consequences."

U. S. delegation chief Philip C. Habib and Saigon's deputy delegate, Nguyen Xuan Phong rejected the accusations and urged their opponents to engage in "meaningful negotiations."

Newsday Sale Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Times Mirror Co., publisher of the Los Angeles Times, says an agreement has been reached for it to acquire a controlling interest in Newsday, Inc., publisher of the nation's largest suburban newspaper.

A spokesman said Wednesday specific terms would not be disclosed pending preparation of a definitive agreement. But he said they had been agreed to by Times' Mirror management and Harry F. Guggenheim, president and majority stockholder of the Long Island, N.Y., newspaper.

Tito Names Envoy

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito today named a new ambassador to Red China, the first in 12 years, marking improvement in relations between the two Communist countries.

The official gazette said Col. Gen. Bogdan Orescanin, 54, serving at present as member of the upper house of the legislature, was the man appointed.

Shone Urges Law Changes To Aid Peace Officers

Raymond H. Shone of Nicasio, candidate for the Republican nomination for state Senate, last night said that one of his main goals if elected would be "stronger legislation, particularly in respect to search and seizure and the control of uncurbed demonstrations and riots."

Shone, addressing the Peace Officers Research Association of California at a San Rafael restaurant, said law enforcement officers needed "the tools with which to work."

Shone said he had been advocating the establishment of a legislative committee of the bar association to work with police in reviewing bills before the Legislature and county boards of supervisors, and to aid police in drafting new legislation.

"We must consider an attack upon a peace officer as an attack upon every decent individual," Shone said.

Red Efforts Keeping U.S. Losses High

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist Command's spring offensive kept American battle losses at a seven-month high for the second successive week with 141 Americans killed in action last week, the U.S. Command reported today.

The toll was three more than the number killed the week before and the highest since the week of last Sept. 1-7, when 143 died in battle.

The number of Americans wounded fell by more than half, from 1,179 the previous week to 457. The decrease was attributed to a decline in the number of rocket and mortar attacks, which had increased sharply as enemy forces began their offensive on April 1.

SAIGON LOSSES

The Saigon government said 542 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 1,336 wounded last week, compared with 754 killed and 1,716 wounded the week before. Enemy casualties rose to 3,458 killed from 3,366 the previous week, the U.S. Command said.

In battle action Wednesday, U.S. spokesmen said, American fighter-bombers attacked North Vietnamese mortar positions inside Cambodia after a Vietnamese outpost in Chau Doc Province, in the western Mekong Delta, was hit by several rounds.

BORDER PAID

The mortar site was destroyed, the Americans said, in the sixth reported retaliatory strike into Cambodia by U.S. planes and artillery this year. The United States and South Vietnam claim an "inherent right of self defense" to attack across the border when their forces are fired on from outside Vietnam.

Allied forces reported killing 333 enemy troops Wednesday, 61 of them in three engagements involving South Vietnamese forces in the Mekong Delta. But 14 Americans were killed and 32 were wounded when a Viet Cong booby trap made from a U.S. artillery shell exploded and triggered further blasts among stockpiled mortar shells.

More Viet Bodies In Cambodian River

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Cambodian Army spokesman said today he knew nothing about the hundreds of Vietnamese bodies seen in the Mekong River southeast of Phnom Penh for the past two days. But he said the killing of Vietnamese civilians in Cambodia "could be considered punitive actions because of Viet Cong attacks in Cambodia.

"If Vietnamese go with the Viet Cong they must take the consequences for this is our country," Lt. Col. Kim Eng Kouroudeth told newsmen at the inauguration of regular military briefings by the leaders who overthrew Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

The colonel said Vietnamese are being rounded up for security checks, and "we will take measures against the other Vietnamese to insure they remain quiet. It is not racial, it is just a precautionary move."

Another 30 Vietnamese bodies floated this morning past the Mekong River ferry point at Neak Leung, 50 miles down the river from Phonm Penh. Like the hundreds that passed there Wednesday, the bodies had bullet wounds in several places and the hands of many were bound.

Nobody would say where the bodies came from. But foreign sources in Phnom Penh said an estimated 600 Vietnamese men had been arrested early Monday in the village of Xon Bien, near the Cambodian capital, loaded on boats and taken away.

Cambodian control of the Neak Leung crossing is threatened by Viet Cong troops who have occupied a river town six miles to the south and are using 75 MM recoilless rifles to protect their new positions. The commander of a Cambodian flotilla of gunboats operating on the river said his boats were under constant fire from both banks during patrols.

Cambodian military sources at Neak Leung said 200 Cambodian troops were trapped on the Mekong banks farther south near the frontier, and South Vietnamese helicopter gunships, ground troops and tanks had pushed across the border in an attempt to help the Cambodian troops.

This was the first report that South Vietnamese troops are operating in that part of Cambodia, west of the Plain of Reeds. Previous cross-the-border operations have been reported in the Parrot's Beak area some 70 miles to the east, where the Viet Cong have been pushing the Cambodian army steadily back toward Phnom Penh and threatening to capture Svay Rieng, the provincial capital in the area.

'Joe Egg' Is Next Mill Valley Play

"Joe Egg" will be the next production of the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts. It will open May 8 at 8:30 p.m. at 267 Buena Vista Avenue, Mill Valley, and will run four weeks.

The Peter Nichol's play about a young couple's adjustment to their spastic child won the Tony award for the best Broadway play of the 1967-68 season.

The cast features Albert Cingalini, Phyllis Courtney, both of Ross; Jessie Diffley, Dea Belrose and Mel Berman, all of San Rafael, and Rita Knox of San Anselmo.

Avalanche Buries 94 In French Alps

PASSY, France (UPI)—An avalanche thundered down a mountainside in the French Alps early today into a sanitorium for children suffering from tuberculosis. Loss of life was heavy, and the disaster could be the worst in French Alpine history.

The prefect of the French Alpine Department in which the avalanche struck in the middle of the night said the mass of snow and rocks apparently buried 94 persons when it swept away the boys' ward of the sanitorium and nearby chalets housing their nurses.

Henry Courey, prefect of the department of Haute Savoie, said 15 bodies had been recovered—11 children and four adults—and that 56 children and 23 members of the medical staff were still unaccounted for.

There were 185 children staying in the sanitorium, but the avalanche struck only the boy's ward and two cottages housing medical personnel. Survivors were evacuated because of the threat of still another avalanche.

Shortly before noon rescue operations were halted while French police threw grenades from a circling helicopter to collapse another wall of snow that was threatening to slide onto rescue workers.

Police officials said the explosions did not succeed and they would try later with more powerful explosives.

Rescue officials said they feared the death toll would surpass the Feb. 10 avalanche at nearby Val D'Isere where 39 youths were killed as they ate breakfast at a ski resort.

The avalanche struck at 12:30 a.m. 3:30 p.m. PST Wednesday), sending a wall of snow down the western slope of the 8,345-foot Auguilles de Varens Mountain near the village of Passy, 280 miles southeast of Paris and 17 miles west of the point where the boundaries of Switzerland, France and Italy meet.

Sheet Metal Apprentices Take Awards

The contest is identical to a national competition conducted by the National Joint Apprenticeship and Training Committee for the Sheet Metal Industry.

Technicalities prevent the prison apprentices from competing in the national competition, but their own contest follows exactly the rules of the national one.

Judging is performed by members of the Trades Advisory Council and the Joint Apprenticeship Committee, along with members of various sheet metal unions in the Bay Area.

The contest presented a project for each of the four years of apprenticeship training. The apprentices had to develop and draw up plans for the project and then manufacture it.

Winners receiving certificates at yesterday's judging: Fourth Year, Danzil Rubens, first place; DeAudry Roquemore, second place; and Thomas Stover, third place; third year, William A. Price, first place; second year, Carl Simons, first place; James McGoogin, second place; and Robert Romero, third place; first year, Herman Bormann, first place, and Walter Walls, second place.

Cambodia Asks U.S. For Arms, Material

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said today the United States is examining a request from Cambodia for military assistance — understood to be in the form of arms and material.

Officials said the request was for such things as guns and ammunition and not for troops.

After several days of speculation that the regime which overthrew Prince Sihanouk weeks ago was seeking U.S. help, press officer Robert J. McCloskey gave this reply to a news conference question:

"Through our embassy in Phnom Penh the Cambodian government has requested military assistance from the United States. The request is being examined."

McCloskey said he had no details and refused to provide any information on what kind of arms or ammunition the Cambodians might want—for example such things as artillery and aircraft.

On April 14 Prime Minister Gen. Lon Nol made a public appeal to "all countries of all blocs" for help.

McCloskey was asked whether the U.S. had a position on the reported massacre of Vietnamese living in Cambodia—and whether such killing might have an influence on the U.S. decision on arms.

"We have no information of our own to confirm such reports," McCloskey said. "Any mass killing of innocent people is abhorrent and warrants condemnation."

As to the possible impact of the alleged massacres on U.S. consideration of the aid request, McCloskey said, "I wouldn't want to make a judgment."

Motel Trespass Leads To Arrest

Le Roy Everett Southard, 21, of no known address, was booked into Marin County Jail today on suspicion of possessing marijuana and trespassing after he was discovered occupying what should have been a vacant motel room, San Rafael police reported.

Southard jumped out the rear window and was arrested outside the Bermuda Palms Motel at 1:32 a.m. A plastic bag containing vegetable matter, possibly marijuana, and cigarette papers were found in his pocket, police said.

Southard was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Balky Motorist Faces Charges

A 43-year-old San Rafael man sustained a cut lip and was arrested for drunken driving and resisting arrest today after his car slammed into San Rafael's Grand Avenue bridge at 1:50 a.m., police reported.

Freed on $625 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow was Harry Albert Telander Jr. of 400 Canal Street.

According to police Telander fell asleep at the wheel and ran into the concrete bridge. He refused to leave his car, police said, and had to be carried to the patrol car.

RIOT

Beal said at least four of those arrested Wednesday were "positively identified" as members of The Weatherman, a militant off-shoot of the Students for a Democratic Society.

The violence broke out after a rally of about 2,000 persons on the 27,000-student campus. The speeches included a fiery call to "smash the ROTC" from former student body president Dan Siegel.

A small band of radicals began hurling objects at police guarding a naval ROTC building. The ranks of the troublemakers were soon swelled by an estimated 300 to 4000 students and off-campus radicals who spread throughout the campus, breaking windows and throwing rocks at officers. Beal said a $2,000 fire was set in the Life Sciences Building, hoses were turned on inside Wheeler Hall, and several false fire alarms were pulled on campus.

Police retaliated with tear gas barrages which sent a 40-foot cloud over Sproul Plaza in the center of the campus and the nearby Telegraph Avenue business area.

Both rockthrowers and police broke into small bands and scattered around the campus. Officers prevented any groups from forming, but were unable to keep radicals from running off campus and then back again.

A patrol car sprayed tear gas on the block of Telegraph Avenue adjacent to the university, forcing businesses to close and driving away youths who had gathered there. By nightfall the vast majority of demonstrators had left the campus, but Highway Patrol cars cruised the area.

The antiwar day began with 8,000 young people listening to the music of "Hair" at an outdoor rally on the Stanford University campus. About half of them remained for speeches by Congressmen John Tunney and George Brown, two Democrats running for the U.S. Senate. Both men condemned the war in Southeast Asia.

A crowd of nearly 7,000 persons attended a lengthy afternoon rally at the San Francisco Civic Center. They heard six hours of speeches by the Rev. James Groppi of Milwaukee, poet Alan Ginsberg, playwright Jean Genet, Tom Hayden and other radicals.

"Our country is no different than Nazi Germany," Groppi told the crowd.

Luehring said the ferry would make the trip from downtown Sausalito to the Ferry Building in 25 minutes, thus making possible almost hourly service seven days a week. Weekday departures from Sausalito would begin at 7 a.m. with returns approximately each hour from San Francisco until 7 p.m.

Weekend service may have to be less frequent because of heavy small craft traffic, Luehring said.

Revenue projection showed that the service could break even after three months with a 50-cent one-way fare, he said. He figured monthly operating costs at $32,154.

Luehring estimated the cost of the vessel with modifications to close the upper deck and stern and radar would bring the total cost of the vessel to about $600,000.

The downtown Sausalito terminal would be near the Spinnaker restaurant, and would cost about $30,000. The Marinship terminal including a parking area for about 1,500 cars, would cost $72,000.

This would bring the total cost of the capital investment to $702,000.

The district's ferry consultant, Philip F. Spaulding, said the vessel "would fit beautifully" into Sausalito service that he will be described in his long range master plan for ferry service, due in May.

According to Spaulding's study, at least 500 to 1,300 commuters from Sausalito to Mill Valley would use the Sausalito ferry.

Luehring suggested commuter parking in the Marinship ferry terminal could be free.

The only directors who voted against the purchase were Ben K. Lerer of San Francisco and Lowell Edington of Napa County.

Spaulding termed the purchase "an extremely small investment" that should prove there is a market for a ferry system. If the service did not work the vessel might even be sold for a profit, he said.

RECOUNT

Strawberry Town and Country shopping center, City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose said.

Tiburon has considered Mill Valley's move an open declaration of war for the tax-rich area.

The Sausalito City Council will take up Bauerle's request at its scheduled meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, and will set the recount date then. Cost of the recount will be $82, City Clerk Miriam Ansell said.

The Corte Madera Town Council has scheduled a meeting for 8 p.m. Tuesday when it was to canvass Tuesday's ballots. The council will seat councilmen Edward W. Colthurst and Harold B. Wagstaff, but not Norville, and will set the recount for 9 a.m. Wednesday, City Clerk Betty Behel said.

Colthurst and Wagstaff were elected by substantial margins, drawing 1,005 and 976 votes respectively. The seating procedure was approved by the town attorney, Mrs. Behel said.

Souza, or other candidates seeking a recount, have four days after the ballot canvass to apply. The canvass must be made by Tuesday night, a week after the election.

billion a year pay raise, Nixon announced that he was compromising on his earlier postal rate proposals, which had scant chance of passage by Congress.

"In the interest of making realistic progress toward the objective of bringing postal expenditures into balance with postal revenues," he said, "I now propose to:

"—Increase the price of the first class stamp by one-third, from six cents to eight cents.

"—Keep the price of the air mail stamp at ten cents.

"Increase third class bulk and single piece rates by one-third . . ."

The President said these increases would generate more than $1.5 billion a year in additional revenues.

The rest of the money to finance higher pay, he proposed, should come from temporary federal subsidization of the postal service he wants to create.

TEACHERS

return.

"I won't go to school until Mr. Walton and Mr. Toliver come back," said Rudy Hall, 14, an eighth grader. Seventh grader David Williams, 13, said he would go to class, but "I don't really want to."

Although Schneider, who remained at the school to see order was maintained, said he has received no official notice of the reason for the strike, teachers who came to work today found unsigned, mimeographed statements in their mailboxes.

The statement accused the superintendent and the school district board of ignoring the ideas of "a body of professionally qualified people with solutions to some problems."

It said employees, teachers and citizens groups had attempted to communicate "in good faith" with the administration, "only to be met by indifference, predetermined decisions, lies, deceits, chicanery and hostility.

"People are tired of the games," the statement continued. "They are sick and tired of bureaucratic manipulation. They are ill from not being taken seriously by a board which has gotten its expertise and instruction from an administrator who has indicated by resigning his incompetence and inability to solve district problems."

Schneider resigned, effective December 30, Monday night.

Although no specific demands were spelled out in the statement, most observers felt the strikers are protesting such board actions as the decision to eliminate the positions of Toliver, community worker Gabe Jackson, the district's multi-ethnic coordinator and the letting go of some teachers for economic reasons.

Another issue in the strike is the board's decision, being reconsidered, to close Bayside School next year and move students to Central School. Many teachers have appeared at board meetings to protest the action saying it is not in the interests of good education.

grees, flight director Gerald Griffin said the craft's systems all appeared to be in good shape.

"LOOKS FINE"

The pressures and temperatures in the plumbing system looked fine," he reported. "Two of the thrusters have temperatures low enough so we'll have to heat them before pressurizing the system. But all these temperatures are going to rise when we apply some power to the command module with the batteries. The whole command module looks good." he said.

The command ship was disabled Monday night by an oxygen tank rupture in the attached service module. The accident knocked out fuel cells which would have provided long-life power. Without the cells, the moon landing had to be canceled and the astronauts turned to the lunar module supplies to keep them alive and bring them home.

OXYGEN RATIONING

Lovell, Haise and Swigert continued to ration vital oxygen, water and power as they raced closer to earth. They had ample margins in all systems to complete the flight. But they knew a sudden loss of any system would imperil them in the final hours of their abortive journey.

At midmorning they were 140,000 miles from home and accelerating as earth's gravity tugged them on an increasing speed.

By the time Apollo 13 hits the atmosphere at 400,000 feet Friday, they'll be traveling 24,623 miles an hour.

The landing site in the Pacific is about 580 miles southeast of Samoa. The carrier Iwo Jima was steaming toward the area and expected to be on station Friday morning.

A tropical storm was about 700 miles from the splashdown point, but was not expected to pose any threat.

WEATHER BETTER

"The entry and weather tomorrow is looking better all the time," Mission Control radioed.

"Very good," replied commander Lovell.

All the astronauts slept for about six hours today as they rested for the return home. Due to the drop in temperature, they slept in their LM where it was much warmer.

Haise was in good spirits.

"FIDO (flight dynamics officer) is really busy today," he said to Mission Control.

"He's having a ball," replied the ground.

"Bet he hasn't had a chance to work on his stereo all week," Haise said.

A MAJOR DUTY

Before re-entering the atmosphere, the astronauts must discard the powerless service module and the lunar module which has been their lifeboat.

Then they must power up the command ship on its re-entry batteries for the blazing drive back to earth, the last act in the most perilous drama in the history of space flight.

A team of Mission Control specialists has been working around the clock to perfect the highly technical procedures for bringing the spacemen back from the brink of disaster.

Astronauts on the ground were to practice the procedures in simulators here this afternoon before instructions are relayed to Apollo 13.

Mental Status Leads To Charge Dismissals

Two felony charges were dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Jon Frederick Bangert, 31, of Tiburon, when it was reported that he had been mentally ill at the time of the offenses.

Bangert has been under the care of doctors since he tried to set fire to his cell at the Hall of Justice Jan. 31. He was being held there on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and burglary. He was arrested Dec. 19 after allegedly striking a San Rafael store manager with a newly purchased rifle. His car contained articles reported stolen earlier from a Sausalito residence.

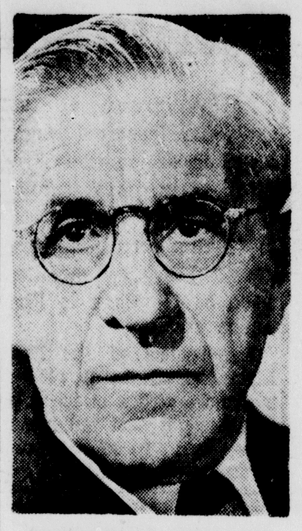
OBITUARIES



FREDERIC I. DREXLER

Frederic I. Drexler Dies At 92

Dr. Frederic I. Drexler of Mill Valley, Baptist minister, former publisher of the Mill Valley Record and educator, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness. He was 92.

Drexler, who resided at 18 Buena Vista Avenue, purchased the Mill Valley Record in 1935 after moving to Mill Valley. He operated the newspaper, aided by his sons, Day and Frederic I. Drexler Jr. until 1942.

A native of Hungary, Drexler was brought to Chicago by his parents in 1884 when he was 6.

As a boy he sold newspapers on Chicago street corners and worked as a cash boy in a department store and a printer's devil after being forced to leave school in the seventh grade.

At 19 Drexler began to study for the ministry at the American University in Harriman, Tex. After completing his studies at Crosier Theological Seminary near Philadelphia, Pa. in 1904, Drexler married Jessie Day.

The couple celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1954, four years before Mrs. Drexler died.

Senior Citizen Advocate Quits Parks Panel

Roy R. Rhodes, an advocate for senior citizens, resigned from the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last night in a brief, dramatic and bitter appearance before startled commissioners.

Rhodes arrived an hour late at 9 p.m. and 15 minutes later he was gone, his resignation, written on a piece of note paper, in the hands of chairman Charles L. Tacchi.

His unexpected outburst came while commissioners were discussing the upcoming move from the temporary community center at Second and Brooks streets to the old courthouse annex.

Rhodes, who has opposed combining youth and senior citizens activities at the annex, said he wasn't worrying about that anymore.

CHANGES MIND

"I changed my mind this afternoon," he said. "You can have all the kids you want in the annex."

Then, he explained, there was a chance that the American Legion "would build us a home to our specifications."

He felt the legion would build if the city would donate its property at Fourth and Union streets, now up for sale.

Tacchi said the legion had been approached in the past and lengthy discussions got nowhere. "I hope you do better," he said.

"If you want my resignation, I'll be happy to give it," Rhodes replied.

Rhodes spoke out alone. There were four senior citizens in the audience, but the only comment was from a woman who felt the annex would be "fine."

Rhodes asserted that he was dedicated to senior citizens, and as far as the proposed $560,000 recreation center before the voters June 2, the commission "can take the plan drawn and burn it."

He said the senior citizens could get their own place through the legion and then Andrew J. Snyder Jr., parks and recreation director, and Nancy Person, recreation center supervisor, "can devote all their time to youth."

HAPPY TO COMPLY

Again he turned to Tacchi and said: "If you want my resignation, I'll be happy to give it."

"I'll be happy to accept it, if you wish," said Tacchi.

As commissioners discussed a previous matter, Rhodes wrote his resignation note, tossed it two seats down the table to Tacchi, picked up his hat and left saying, "Good luck to the annex."

Councilman Frederick C. Robbins Jr., also a commissioner, commented: "I'm speechless, which is something."

Tacchi observed later that commissioners have to consider all programs and not direct their efforts to "a particular thing."

However, he said, since the commission deals primarily with youth it has to be youth oriented. He hoped that the city council would appoint a "young adult," but not a minor to succeed Rhodes.

Rhodes, traffic director at the Bank of Marin office in San Rafael, was appointed to the commission in February 1969.

Purchase Of Fire Trucks To Be Eyed

Purchase of surplus fire trucks will be discussed by the Tiburon Fire Protection District board in a special meeting today at 8 p.m. in the main Tiburon fire station, according to Franklin J. Buscher, fire chief.

The board also will hear a progress report on condemnation of a small parcel of Northwestern Pacific Railroad property located behind the main fire station, Buscher said. The district plans to use the land for parking areas and future station expansion, he reported.

Terra Linda Rec Events Held Lacking

San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission got a petition last night carrying 92 signatures requesting an increase in the recreation program in the Terra Linda sector of the city.

Robert J. Ramage of 842 Las Pavadas Avenue, who presented the petition, contended there were inequities since people in the Terra Linda area had to travel to downtown San Rafael for certain activities.

Andrew J. Snyder Jr., parks and recreation director, said the department has attempted to "provide a relatively balanced program" in both areas, but faces budget limitations.

For example, he said, to conduct the department's baseball program, now at San Rafael High School, would take more funding.

Ramage told of the difficulties involved in transporting youngsters downtown from the Terra Linda area. The Terra Linda area represents one-quarter to one-fifth of the assessed valuation of the city, and isn't getting its fair share in light of the property taxes paid, he asserted.

Snyder said the city has put in the Santa Margarita Valley Park and is completing Freitas Park in the Terra Linda area, indicating that residents there aren't being neglected. There are programs at elementary schools in the area and at Terra Linda High School, he reported.

Snyder said if the San Rafael Board of Education eliminates its annual $25,000 contribution to recreation, there would be cuts rather than expansion.

Commissioner George S. Burton suggested the commission seek volunteers to pick up the workload if the school board cuts off the funds. This, he said, would be an indication if the people really want the programs.

Commissioners also got a first look at a "working budget" for the recreation division for 1970-71 totaling $190,202.

The budget total is $40,202 higher than last year's budget, but includes additional programs that will be financed by fees, so it wouldn't result in a $40,202 increase in cost to the city, Snyder explained.

Last year the programs financed by fees were in a special fund, but this year there is a different budget format and they have been included in the total, he said.

The budget, yet to be submitted to City Mgr. James H. McGown for review, has no provision for cost-of-living pay raises.

It provides for an additional recreation supervisor at $9,312 a year and an additional typist clerk at $4,436 a year.

Commissioners adjourned until 8 p.m. May 14 at San Rafael City Hall.

Innocent Plea To Pot Possession

Robert Doyle Fuller, 20, of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and being a minor having an alcoholic beverage. A preliminary hearing was set for May 12.

Fuller was arrested April 30 by Novato police after being stopped for a traffic violation. A search of the car revealed beer and a plastic bag of suspected marijuana.

Novato Chamber Set Move Into New Home

The office of the Novato Chamber of Commerce will be moved from its present location in the Locke plumbing building at 867 Sweetser Avenue to 1123 Grant Avenue, sometime before May 1, accroding to secretary Billie Garl.

The chamber has leased its new home, formerly occupied by Novato TV for five years, she said. The new location puts the chamber offices closer to the center of the business community on Grant Avenue, she added.

Sausalito Citizen's Garage Plan Approved

The Sausalito Planning Commission last night granted a variance to John Carmack to build a garage to his property line at 63 Sunshine Avenue, according to Miriam Ansell, city clerk.

The commission approved the application subject to the resolution of a question about a lot split that was granted to Carmack in 1965 but later declared invalid because it did not meet certain conditions.

The commission decided last night that no building permit would be issued until the lot split problem was cleared up, Mrs. Ansell said.

In other business the commission approved the division of a parcel of land at 270 Sausalito Boulveard into three lots. Owner Wilfred A. DeCook said he planned to build on the undeveloped parcels.

The commission postponed until its May 8 meeting action on a request by the Sausalito Arts Center and the Sausalito Little League for a free-standing sign at Nevada Street and Bridgeway. The city council previously had approved a request by another party for a sign there and Mrs. Ansell said the commissioners wanted to avoid having too many signs on that corner.

Psychiatrist Loses Round On Records

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Supreme Court upheld Wednesday a contempt citation against an Orinda psychiatrist who refused to produce treatment records of a former patient.

The unanimous decision said Dr. Joseph E. Lifschutz, 45, did not have a constitutional right to refuse to disclose the records without regard to the patient's wishes.

Housek claimed severe mental and emotional distress as well as physical injury resulted from the alleged assault.

The doctor was ordered jailed indefinitely for contempt by San Mateo Superior Court Judge James T. O'Keefe last Dec. 5 when he refused to answer questions at the hearing.

The Supreme Court three days later ordered him freed pending its decision.

Housek, Lifschutz's patient some 10 years earlier, did not object to the questions.

The psychiatrist claimed absolute confidentiality and said even the limited exception in the case would make the successful practice of psychotherapy impossible.

The owner of a Petaluma firm which performs printing services for the Independent-Journal reported to police yesterday that five windows at his business had been smashed overnight with steel nuts and rocks.

The I-J was struck Jan. 7 by San Francisco Typographical Union local 21.

Truck Strike Cost Soars; Classes Fade

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The trucking industry was losing $4 million a day because of 75,000 striking teamsters, and the Los Angeles school system was losing more and more students today because of a crippling teacher strike in its fourth day.

Tensions heightened again between publishers of New York City's four major newspapers and 10 unions representing 13,000 employes as negotiations entered a "very critical stage" following rejection of the latest wage hike offer.

In the airways, airlines were operating on virtually normal schedules again as 93 per cent of the nation's air traffic controllers returned to their rada screenc. Control centers at Oakland, Denver, Kansas City and Minneapolis, however, only were operating with about 70 per cent of the normal shift.

At Oak Ridge, Tenn., the production of nuclear weapons ground to a halt as 4,400 members of the Atomic Trades and Labor Council walked off their jobs at the Y-2 plant operated by the Union Carbide Corp. in rejection of a 7 per cent wage increase.

The worst labor crisis in the nation centered on violence-marked wildcat strikes by teamsters who are protesting a tentative national settlement two weeks ago of wage increases totaling $1.10 an hour over three years.

In the nation's second largest school system, an estimated 150,000 of Los Angeles' 650,000 students were expected to stay away from 616 schools again in a worsening attendance problem spurred on by striking teachers of their 22,000-member union.

Jordan Mobs Protesting Sisco Visit

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Demonstrators protesting the Middle East visit of U.S. Asst. Secretary of State Joseph Sisco stoned an American life insurance building in Amman today, but armed Arab guerrillas helped keep them away from the U.S. Embassy.

Windows were shattered in the insurance building before guerrillas armed with submachine guns could disperse the demonstrators.

The guerrillas managed to steer hundreds of protest marchers away from streets leading to the embassy and the march finally broke up without incident.

The guerrillas patroled streets adjacent to the embassy as a company of Jordan's Bedouin soldiers protected the compound itself.

Coils of barbed wire were thrown around the embassy compound following a mob attack Wednesday on the embassy and the American Cultural center. The center was bombed and gutted by fire.

The unified command of the guerrilla movement has distributed leaflets calling for a general strike Friday to coincide with Sisco's scheduled arrival from Israel. Today more than 1,000 banner-waving demonstrators marched through the streets of Amman chanting "Sisco, Sisco, go home, Sisco." It was the third day of anti-American demonstrations in the city.

American diplomats refused to speculate whether Sisco's visit will go ahead as planned. They said that if he comes to Jordan, his movements will be kept secret.

Students Turn Old Papers Into A Profit

Yesterday's news may not be worth much to some people, but its worth $5 a ton to two student groups at Redwood and Sir Francis Drake high schools.

Collecting about 10 tons of old newspapers every 10 days in bins placed at school entrances, the students are not only filling club coffers, but are helping the cause of conservation and reducing the mounting problem of waste disposal.

The papers are picked up by a San Francisco salvage company which in turn sells them for $7.50 a ton to a pulp firm which makes roofing material, cardboard boxes and paper cups.

LOOKS TO FUTURE

A spokesman for the salvage company has said it can handle a far greater volume of old newspapers than the two collection points are supplying, and added that the firm is prepared to send trucks daily to Marin County if county residents can supply the goods.

While the high schools have been collecting since last November, the importance of their operation is reflected in an experiment now under way in San Francisco to find out whether or not San Franciscans will support a citywide newspaper collection operation.

A successful demonstration of public interest could prove the existence of a sufficient source of supply to support a commercially feasible recycling operation in the Bay Area to convert old newspapers into useable newsprint.

The recycling process is a going commercial enterprise. A plant is operated in Southern California by the Garden State Paper Co. of New Jersey, which now processes 24 tons a week from the Bay Area.

TREE SAVING

Organizers of the San Francisco experiment estimate that for every ton on of reprocessed newsprint, the equivalent of 17 trees will be saved.

If the San Francisco experiment evokes as large a scale of enthusiasm as the operation of the Marin high school students, not only would trees be saved, but countless tons of used newspapers would become a resource instead of merely tons of waste to be disposed of.

While Marin is not participating in the experiment, Marinites, according to spokesmen for the two student drives, can add their weighty contribution to the county's own well-established program by bundling papers and depositing them at the school bins. No magazines can be included, they added.

Sewage Outfall Line Awaiting Bay Hearing

San Rafael Sanitation District's bid for approval to construct an outfall line for the Peacock Gap sewage treatment plant may be delayed in getting a hearing before the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, told sanitation district directors yesterday their request may not be taken up at the next meeting of the regional board next Thursday, but delayed a month.

Rawles said the regional board is busy dealing with the sewage problems in San Francisco.

The district is seeking an outfall line because the Peacock Gap plant is at capacity and no building permit can be issued until the capacity is increased.

The plant now has a capacity of 400 connections, and John Jenks of Palo Alto, consulting engineer, has estimated that an outfall line would increase the capacity by about 200 connections.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the district board is at 5 p.m. May 6 at San Rafael City Hall.

Director C. Paul Bettini was absent.

Theodore Roosevelt was the first president to ride in an airplane although he made the trip after his term of office.

Civic Affairs Council Asks Dougherty Planning Shift

The Marin Council for Civic Affairs is proposing a reshuffling of positions on the Marin County Planning Commission so that Commissioner Hugh Dougherty can stay on the commission when his present term expires in April of 1971.

Geroge Ellman, vice chairman of the council suggested to the county supervisors that Dougherty, who is in Supervisor Louis H. Baar's Fourth District, be appointed to the at-large position now held by Michael Praszker. Praszker resigned this week because of pressure of work.

Ellman explained that the civic affairs council is not at all sure that Supervisor Baar would reappoint Dougherty to the commission next year. Therefore, said Ellman, the council's executive committee suggested making Dougherty an at-large member and having Baar reappoint another man now.

"We kind of think Mr. Dougherty is a good man on the commission and would like to keep him there," said Ellman. "By having him fill the at-large position, we would continue to have Mr. Dougherty, and Supervisor Baar would be able to make his appointment now instead of waiting until Mr. Dougherty's term expires next April."

The two at-large members of the planning commission are Praszker and Walter F. Freitas. Their terms were to expire next Monday, but county supervisors extended their terms to July 1, 1971. Thereafter, at-large members will serve for two years, while the five other planning commissioners will serve four years.

The only commissioner whose term actually expires next Monday is Niels Schultz Jr., who is in Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni's second district. Arrigoni can either reappoint or name a new planning commissioner.

Minibike Stolen

James P. Larkin of 506 Fairway Drive, Novato, reported to the sheriff's department that his $299 minibike had been stolen Monday when it was parked in front of a pool hall on Highway 101 in Ignacio, deputies said yesterday.

Pinkerton Calls For New Surveys Of Canal Problem

Don Pinkerton, candidate for the Republican nomination for state Senate, warned yesterday that new studies must be made to protect the ecology of the Delta from the peripheral canal.

The canal is part of the State Water Plan to divert Northern California to Southern California, a plan that has been under attack for its alleged failure to leave enough water for the Delta and bay.

Pinkerton, a member of the Delta division of the State Water Resources Control Board, spoke at a lunch meeting of the San Anselmo Rotary Club.

Criteria to protect the Delta were set in 1965, but were no longer "sufficient to protect all uses in the Delta," he said.

The canal was "not just an irrigation ditch delivering water to farmlands," Pinkerton said, but "a $200 million earth channel cutting through 43 miles of Northern California.

He said it must be proven that there will be full protection against pollution and salt water intrusion.

THIRD WORLD BUSINESS

Black-Brown Stamps Making A Million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A year ago, financial district executives laughed when former Oakland Raiders football star Art Powell opened an Oakland office and said his all-black firm was going to sell Black and Brown trading stamps.

Today, his stamps are handled by 1,000 merchants in 40 California communities and new offices are being opened in Los Angeles, Chicago, Atlanta, Baltimore, Washington, Brooklyn and Harlem. And Powell, 33, has his own office right there in the financial district among those who didn't take him seriously.

"I must admit I didn't think it would last six months, says Oakland lawyer Donald Warden, 34, chairman of the board. "But in one year, we have done more than $1 million in business."

The firm was launched in April 1969, with an investment of $60,000 put up by "soul music" singer James Brown, investor Bill Johnson of Warden, Ohio, and Powell, who became president of the company.

The stamps, orange in color, bear a picture of Brown, who put up most of the money.

WHITES WANTED IN

But they began to gather support from black and Mexican-American businesses, Warden said in an interview, "and the white businessman wanted in when they found out it was a good deal."

Warden, who grew up in a middle-class Negro family in Pittsburgh, Pa., and recently received a law degree from the University of California, says he was inspired by the late President Kennedy to get involved in "black dignity."

Although Black and Brown started out as an all-black company, Mexican-American Jose Vuequera is now a part owner, and the firm recently added a Mexican-American office in Oakland called La Cadena, or "The Link."

The name, Black and Brown, was picked to represent "Third World" or nonwhite, capitalism, Warden said.

NO MIDDLEMAN

Aside from hard work by 50 salesmen, 12 of whom are white, the secret behind the rapid expansion, Warden says is that "we've eliminated the middleman."

"The merchants don't have to compete with the stamp redemption centers," explains Warden. "A customer cashes in his stamps where he got them in the first place, for more groceries, gasoline, even another haircut."

Customers in a participating store receive a stamp for each 25 cents of their purchase. When they redeem a book of 1,200 stamps, representing $300 in purchases it's worth $3 in merchandise.

The merchant is also paid $3 a book when he returns it to Black and Brown. But to get the stamps in the first place, a merchant pays Black and Brown $8 for a pad of 2,000 stamps.

The company promises to put 20 per cent of its profits back into the community through grants and scholarships.

"Whites who deal with our stamps gain respect for a black-owned business, and we can say to young blacks: "Look, you can work within the system."

Powell, who still holds several Raiders' pass catching records says flatly:

"We're going to be the biggest stamp company in the country."

News Depressing To Big Board's Traders

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks fell sharply today on a combination of factors, including a softer bond market, some disappointing first quarter corporate earnings, and concern over Cambodia's request for U.S. arms.

A turnover of around 10 million shares compared with 9,410,000 shares Wednesday. In the news budget, Cabriel Hauge, president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., said that there is little reason to anticipate to strong surge in the economy in the last half of the year, although he conceded that growth may resume a bit later in the year.

Electronics and oils were among the softest issues, while steels and motors traded in fractions.

IBM closed at 320 3-4, off 2 1-2, jersey standard lost 3-4 to 55 1-4 and Texaco was off 3-8, closing at 25 5-8.

Du Pont attracted demand in the chemical group, gaining 1 3-4 to close at 108 1-4. But most other such issues were in reverse gear.

Building materials were weak despite a Commerce Department report of a rise in March housing starts.

Rails, airlines, aircrafts and conglomerates generally traded in narrow ranges.

Which Best To Purchase: Old Or New Bond Issue?

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am interested in buying bonds but confused about whether to stick to newly issued bonds or buy older, cheaper ones. Can you clarify? — M.R.

A. If you are interested in high current return guaranteed over a number of years, a newly issued call-protected bond would be preferable. As a matter of self-protection, the issuing company usually retains the right to redeem a bond issue prior to maturity in order to secure cheaper money if and when it becomes available. But to facilitate marketing, a 5 or 10-year call-protection feature is added to attract buyers.

While new issues, bearing high-interest coupons, can appreciate if money rates decline, they are usually limited at the top by their call price. Deeply discounted bonds, on the other hand, offer appreciation opportunities of 50 per cent or greater.

Good quality bonds bearing 3 per cent to 4.5 per cent coupons are available at $550 and higher with about 15 years to maturity. Current yields are, of course, lower than on new issues, ranging up to 7 per cent but, when held to maturity, yield can reach close to 9 per cent There is a tax consideration in that the difference between the price paid and redemption price will be taxed as long-term capital gains rather than as income.

Q. I bought Stanwick Corp. at 15 one year ago. Will it recover? — P.P.

A. Stanwick's most recent acquisition, a hospital and health facility evaluating and planning company, represents an attempt to reduce dependence on government business. A small company—sales under $13 million—Stanwick is seriously affected by reductions in military spending.

In the nine months through January, sales were off 25.9 per cent. Margins were badly squeezed by the reduced volume, and per share results of 4 cents versus 32 cents a year earlier were reported. Of the 1.3 million shares outstanding, 40 per cent are held by management.

With such a limited floating supply, news either good or bad, has an exaggerated effect on price action. Recovery possibilities center on air pollution and management survey work, plus the successful assimilation of newly acquired firms.

PROPERLY CONDUCTED by both franchisor and franchisee, small businesses operated on a franchise are often quite successful. But there is a great volume of unforeseen problems and disappointment which can beset the franchisee from the start. Thousands of dollars are lost each year in investments which have not been carefully studied.

Free literature about franchising is available from the National Association of Franchised Businessmen, 1404 New York Avenue Northwest, Washington, D. C. 20005.

GIFT STORES are high on the list of small business openings and the retail gift industry does more than $2 billion worth of business each year.

Bank of America's latest Small Business Reporter is devoted to a study of the practical problems of the modern gift shop. Copies are available from any Bank of America branch office.

ANOTHER ONE-DAY WORKSHOP for small business owners and managers has been announced by the U. S. Small Business Administration, to be held next Monday. It will be at the Federal Building, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco and is planned to cover organization, marketing strategy, advertising, financial planning, legal aspects, insurance and business taxes. Four separate discussions during the afternoon will be devoted to manufacturing, wholesaling, retailing and service.

Attendance (no fee) is by advance reservation with the San Francisco regional office of the Small Business Administration.

INSURANCE: S. D. Menist of Kentfield, executive vice president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, has been reelected president of the Pacific Coast Automobile Underwriters Conference . . . Robert Maney, San Rafael general agent of Mutual Benefit Live Insurance, has received awards from his company for surpassing his 1969 sales production quota and for surpassing his manpower recruitment quota.

Marin Voters Once More Demonstrate Independence

In San Anselmo, three candidates chose to run as a ticket — termed the "revolt slate" although one of the three is the incumbent mayor. But Hub City voters proved they are not about to have their city elections turned into partisan ticket affairs under any label. They re-elected Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro but turned down the other two "revolt slate" candidates.

In Fairfax, only one of three incumbents seeking re-election was successful: Frank J. Egger. But the two others winning election, Lee Nelder and Albert E. Gately, did not link their campaigns and on many things appear considerably apart in their thinking. Fairfax citizens again demonstrated that as they are not of one mind, they don't want a city council that is of one mind.

IN MILL VALLEY, two candidates strong for conservation and protection of the environment won thumping victories. But lowering the voting age to 18, which those who like to neatly catalogue by labels would lump with environment control as a "liberal" aim, was rejected in an "advisory" vote that was purely a straw ballot.

Voters in Corte Madera showed they are satisfied with the city council they have, as three incumbents won over three challengers — provided the canvass does not change the single vote by which Holmes S. Norville edged out Herber C. Leney.

But in Novato, two incumbents seeking re-election — one of them M. E. Babe Silva, who has served on the council for eight of the 10 years since the city's incorporation — were rejected in favor of two planning commissioners who have been at odds with the council over trends of development.

VOTERS IN TIBURON and Belvedere could not have kept their councils intact if they had desired to do so. Only one incumbent ran in Tiburon, and none in Belvedere. The one, Branwell Fanning, was a winner.

Sausalito kept the one incumbent seeking re-election, and to the surprise of some, again turned down a council bid by Marsha Owen (Sally Stanford), who ran fourth despite a vigorous campaign.

TAX INCREASE elections in two school districts pointed up that success of such measures depends more on the people's confidence in their school system than on the depth of the tax bite.

Voters in Dixie district, which has the highest elementary school tax rate in Marin County, approved raising it still higher by a substantial margin. But those in Novato Unified district, which has a rate well below the combined elementary and high school rates in most of Marin, turned down an increase.

THE VOTER TURNOUT varied widely. It topped 56 per cent in Fairfax, and Novato, but fell below 50 per cent in Mill Valley, Tiburon, Sausalito, Corte Madera, and Larkspur. Of the cities with contests for council seats, Larkspur had the lowest turnout at 29 per cent of those registered.

The Tough Seeds

Some seeds are amazingly rugged. Acacia and tomato seeds are some of the toughest we have run across.

We had heard that acacia seeds often came up after being through forest fires in their native Australia. Just recently we sterilized some soil in our kitchen oven at 250 degrees for an hour and a half preparatory to planting some flower seeds. The first seeds up were not the flowers, however. Instead, a few acacia seeds that were in the oven-baked soil were up within a week.

The amazing viability of tomato seeds is something of a legend. They survive the acids and the enzymes of the human digestive tract, go to the sewage disposal plant where they undergo rigorous bacterial and chemical action, eventually become a part of the sludge. Sludge makes excellent garden fertilizer, but in its undiluted, raw state it is far too powerful and burns most plants. But tomato seeds sprout and grow in the sludge. We are told some of the most beautiful tomato plants in Marin are growing wild at the Larkspur sewage disposal plant.

Fairfax Example In Deterring Crime

I am writing to suggest a bouquet of thanks and appreciation to our Fairfax Police Department's recent example of preventive medicine directed towards crime. Their recent very efficient canvass of all business establishments in Fairfax requesting the cooperation of each business establishment in leaving at least one light burining from dusk 'til dawn in each store, office or other business establishment, is in my opinion, a very worthy example of crime prevention in action.

It is is a well established fact, attested to by eminent law enforcement authorities, that proper lighting is a deterrent to crime.

Isn't it quite possible that other police departments nationally could very easily profit from the Fairfax Police Department's fine example of crime prevention through better night lighting of business establishments.

Insurance Man Rebuts Columnist

I refer to the article of April 13 by Arthur E. Rouse: "You Can't Make Money On Ordinary Life Insurance".

Ordinary life insurance was not designed to make money on. It was designed primarily:

1. To help keep it's owner from being poor; and

2. To provide immediate cash when needed for such purposes as estate taxes, college education, etc.

Neither of these objectives can be guaranteed by term insurance. Fortunately, most people recognize this, which is why so much ordinary life insurance is sold. A look at the estates filed for probate at City Hall and the percentage of life insurance proceeds to the whole will emphasize this.

The gross ignorance on this, just displayed by your writer, is not particularly disturbing to us in the industry, to other informed individuals, or sophisticated investors. What does concern us, however, and what concerns you as a molder of public opinion, is the impression the unsophisticated person might get — the poor fellow who doesn't know better and believes what he reads.

Were it not for the premiums these people pay on their permanent insurance program, which provides savings and eventually a guaranteed life income, the dole and welfare lines would be much more crowded than they are now. Further, there would be many more "forced" sales because the fellow with the term insurance, whose estate needed liquidity, would not happen to die at the right time.

Death Toll In Nixon's War Exposes 'Vietnamization'

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

How long are the American people going to allow themselves to be fooled by the charade of President Nixon's Vietnam "withdrawal policy?

So far, we must admit, the public has shown an extraordinary willingness to be fooled. Mr Nixon came into office on the strength of a promise to end the war. He has not ended it, but he has gulled a great many Americans into accepting a substitute for what he promised to deliver—the substitute of "Vietnamization" combined with slow and carefully calculated American withdrawals.

JUST WHAT the Nixon policy means may be gathered by reflecting for a moment on some casualty figures recently published in the Congressional Record by Representative Paul H. Findley, the Republican congressman from the Illinois 20th district.

A year ago Mr. Findley published in the Record the names of the 31,379 young Americans who had died in Vietnam up to the end of January, 1969. Last week he recorded the latest death list, and noted that as of the end of December, 1969, the toll of war dead stood at 40,551.

It may well be that casualties during Mr. Nixon's conduct of the war have declined from the awful peak they reached during Mr. Johnson's term, but this must be small comfort to the families of the 9,172 and more who died during Mr. Nixon's first year. The fact is that 9,172 dead are 9,172 too many. And it is time that Americans waked up to the deception that is being practiced upon them by the Nixon Administration.

PART OF THE deceiption consists of managing the news of troop withdrawal announcements in such a way as to make the public think the withdrawals amount to more than they do. Another part consists of downgrading the Paris talks and rejecting any proposals from Hanoi for a settlement, and then pretending that no proposals have been made. A third consists of simply refusing to discuss the basic issues, such as a coalition government, with the American people. . .

We repeat: when are the American people going to cease letting themselves be fooled by the charade of "Vietnamization"?

Highway Fund Bill Brings North-South Split To Fore

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The battle between Northern and Southern California, simmering for a couple of years, broke out in the state Senate this week.

Since the state Senate was reapportioned on the basis of the "one-man, one-vote" dictum of the United States Supreme Court in 1966, the groundwork has been laid for the take over of the north by the south, in line with the predictions made when the court decisions were announced.

Although this has been better than four years, these predictions started coming true in the Senate this week when Sen. James Mills, D-San Diego, brought up his bill, SB 85, to divest the state legislature of authority to control the north-south split of highway funds and turn it over to the highway commission.

THE MILLS BILL failed to pass the first time by a single vote. However, two southern California senators were absent. Mills moved to reconsider the following day, and the bill passed 21 to 13. The vote was strictly on north-south lines.

The Assembly, with a majority of Southern California members, is expected to follow the Senate in adopting the Mills bill eventually. When and if he receives the measure will be the itme Gov. Ronald Reagan will have to decide whether he is a governor for all of California or whether he wants to become known as the governor who split the state.

THE BILL, of course, does not split California except insofar as there is a division of the funds collected for highway purposes, but many senators feel this is the first step toward eventual division.

Some argument is being carried against the Mills bill on the ground that its passage would abrogate the powers of the legislature in the delegation of authority to the highway commission.

However, there is plenty of precedent for such action. There was a time when the legislature fixed the areas of fish and game districts, and the seasons and bag limits as well for fishing and hunting.

TRY AND STOP ME

A mother, with six obstreperous brats in tow, boarded a packed bus at the height of the rush hour. The brats immediately began screaming and tripping over angry passengers. The exasperated driver finally suggested. "Next time, lady, why don't you leave half of your obnoxious kids at home?" The mother answered grimly, "I did."

MARQUIS CHILDS

Most Of World Indifferent While Fate Hangs In Balance

TAROUDANT, Morocco—The historian of, say, 50 years from now, assuming that in 2020 the historian has the privilege of detachment and perspective, will have to untangle one puzzle in particular. Why was so much of mankind indifferent to the overriding issue of survival in the face of the threat of nuclear holocaust — Armageddon that will inflict death and disaster on even the farthest removed?

As this is written, the second round of the strategic arms limitation talks is about to open in Vienna. The outcome of this round — the first stage beyond the initial exploration at Helsinki in November — is of critical importance. In the view of this observer it involves scarcely less than the future of every man, woman and child on the planet.

THAT IS NOT to say that the use in an immediate future of the instruments of annihilation will be in question at Vienna. What is immediately at stake is a new upward spiral in the nuclear arms race. The cost in billions, eventually perhaps hundreds of billions of dollars, will inflame all the ills presently plaguing mankind.

It will feed the fires of inflation undermining stability in almost every nation. It will take more and more of the surplus that might go to raise the level of peoples in the developing world. It will accentuate the divisiveness that in the West has alienated many elements while polarizing the politics of extremism on the right and the left. In short, even if the new expanded weapons of destruction are never used the burden will be all but intolerable.

Yet that such a crossroads for humanity lies ahead is remote from the consciousness of all but a few individuals. This reporter has just been in the Middle East where attention is completely centered on the conflict between Jew and Arab. The Israelis believe they are fighting for survival, the Arabs are convinced that a religious state based on Judaism must not be allowed to exist in the heart of the Arab world. This self-centeredness, inevitable though it may be under the circumstances, shuts out all other considerations.

SELF-CENTEREDNESS, regional and national, is the factor which, for the historian of 2020, is likely to explain the indifference, the unawareness of what is transpiring between the nuclear giants and their success or failure in reaching agreement on a pause in the race to the abyss. There is, to be sure, another obvious factor.

The scientists and the technicians have carried the art of destruction to a point of complexity far beyond the comprehension of most of us. The mysteries of multiple warheads, anti-ballistic missiles with radar guidance that only a few individuals have mastered, underwater long-range missiles — this sounds like the stuff of science fiction. It is impossible to believe that the destiny of man is in the hands military - scientific - technological elite on both sides of the great divide — the elite responsible for these instruments.

The white-bearded Arab, jogging through the bazaar on his small donkey with panniers of mint leaves swung on either side, might, insofar as the decision between life or death is concerned, be on another planet. But this is, after all, only a matter of degree. The American housewife discovering at the supermarket that her weekly grocery bill has jumped another four dollars can hardly be expected to penetrate the mysteries of Mirvs, Abms and Ulms and their effect on the cost of living.

Active, concerned public support for those who want to achieve at least a pause in the arms race is limited, to say the least. That is hardly surprising. The game at Vienna is like an international chess match. Only the masters can follow the moves. Yet the final score will be reckoned in the lives of each and every one of us.

Ian Smith Sings Triumph But Rhodesia In Trouble

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Salisbury, Rhodesia, Premier Ian Smith broke into lusty song to celebrate an election which, to the surprise of no one, gave his white supremacist Rhodesian Front party a landslide victory.

Nor would the Zulu battle song he sang ". . . Hold him down you Zulu chief . . ." lend comfort to the nearly five million blacks doomed to second class citizenry by a constitution designed to keep 225,000 whites in power indefinitely.

The reasons for Smith's elation were obvious. In defiance of most of the world's nations, his regime had survived four years of sanctions, on March 1 had proclaimed Rhodesia a republic and now had climaxed it with the roaring approval of Rhodesian whites.

But beyond the victory there were others who saw trouble ahead.

The new Rhodesian constitution provides for a parliament in which 50 seats are reserved for whites, and 16 for blacks, eight to be elected and eight to be named by tribal council.

In theory, blacks could achieve power as their wealth and tax contributions increase.

The present contribution is less than one per cent and among their total numbers only 8,300 black votes were registered.

Those who see trouble ahead do so primarily on the basis of future population growth, in which the blacks are outdistancing the whites by more than four to one.

It means more and more educated blacks will be competing for sources of income already limited.

Smith once declared, "You can find more happy black faces here than anywhere else in Africa."

To this his critics reply that as the gulf between populations increase, the white minority will be forced to increasingly repressive measures to stay in power. They add that the former easy relationship between black and white already is disappearing.

Another source of future unrest is the new Land Tenure Act which divides the land roughly equally between blacks and whites despite the huge disparity in the two populations. In the economic, social and educational fields, Rhodesia has suffered a brain-drain among its youth. A campaign to bring in white settlers of uncertain talents has failed to offset it.

There is the continuing hostility of other African nation: The Rhodesian government limits reports of guerrilla raids against its territory by black nationalists trained in Algeria, Red China, Cuba and elsewhere. These Communist-trained forces are estimated at about 2,000 with more in training.

In Salisbury, only South Africa and Portugal continue to maintain consulates.

Despite the unfriendliness of other nations, Rhodesia has been able to adjust to sanctions. Agriculture has been hurt but more than 1,000 new businesses have been started, there is a building boom and Salisbury's busy streets have the look of prosperity.

Movie Epic At Redwood; Landlord Troubles At College

Some people like old Bogart films, some the late-show De Mille epics, but for all movie nuts there something special showing tomorrow night.

"M," a classic early-30s German flick by Fritz Lang, will be seen at 8:30 p.m. in the Redwood High School little theater.

Some felt that the movie was an allegory, showing the nascent Nazi party as collective murderers. Whether it was or not, Lang left Germany after the movie came out.

THE COLLEGE OF MARIN trustees are reluctantly taking on the role of landlords. On May 7 they will open bids for tenants on the undeveloped north campus site, and they worried aloud quite a bit last week over getting "the right kind of tenant."

Some sort of occupant is needed to keep squatters, tree cutters and vandals off the land. But the board doesn't want to rent it to hippies, sex cultists or weirdies who might give the college a bad name. Not in these days of rising taxes and falling reputations.

There must be a thousand landlords in Marin who know just how they feel. But the trustees are probably more limited in who they can reject — they can't do it on the basis of long hair, as some do these days.

DIALOGUE DAY at Redwood High School last week showed several things, not least that young and old people have a lot of quirky behavior in common.

Adults in the drugs session kept asking "why do you take it?", as if the question hadn't been answered several thousand times before in every medium except smoke signals. Maybe they just can't accept the reasons given.

And the students in Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr.'s session were floored by his proposal to ban cars from campuses. One suspects Goldstein put the idea forward as something to chew on, not something he really expected to happen.

He cited studies, which most of us have heard of secondhand, which show a correlation between car ownership and lower grades for students.

The students didn't believe it. Not only that, they disbelieved in typical adult fashion—that is, they ignored what was really said and attacked what they thought was implied.

One girl accused Goldstein of saying "every student who gets a car is going to make all Fs, and go out and steal things and not do his homework." A much easier proposition to attack, of course.

This is carping, of course. In the main, both young and old at the session showed good flexible minds, and if they didn't settle anything at least they had some good talk sessions, and the next time they hold a dialogue day about four times as many people should show up and let their brains work for a while.

ART BUCHWALD

How Ghost Of Justice Carswell Brought Back The Old Nixon

WASHINGTON—I can now reveal why President Nixon made his bitter attack on the Senate after the Judge Carswell defeat. From Talking to inside White House sources and putting bits and pieces together, I have learned that this is what happened.

Wednesday night after Carswell had been defeated, everyone in Washington had gone to bed except the President at the White House and Martha Mitchell at the Watergate, who was still trying to rouse someone at the Arkansas Gazette.

The President was in a despondent mood and was pacing up and down his bedroom, when out of the clothes closet came the Old Nixon.

THE OLD NIXON seemed jubilant. "Well, you see what happens when you're Mr. Nice Guy."

"Oh, go away," the New Nixon said. "You always come around to gloat when something goes wrong."

The Old Nixon said, "You wouldn't listen to me, would you? You wanted to remain above politics, a statesman, a man of all the people. I told you it wouldn't work."

"How could I do otherwise?"

"You thought you could let Spiro do all the name calling and the mud slinging," the Old Nixon said. "But it wasn't that easy, Dicky."

"What can I do now?" the New Nixon protested loudly.

"HUSH, YOU'LL wake up Pat," the Old Nixon said. "This is what you can do. You can call the press and say that both Haynsworth and Carswell were victims of assaults on their honesty and racial beliefs because they were from the South. And you can hint that you will make it perfectly clear that anyone who voted against the Carswell appointment will be treated very roughly by the administration."

"Haven't you learned anything since you've been in the White House?" the Old Nixon shouted, exasperated.

"Now you're going to wake up Pat," the New Nixon said.

"SORRY," the Old Nixon said. "Look, Dick, What is the most important thing in the whole wide world to you?"

The New Nixon thought for a moment. "Winning the South in 1972."

"Right. And the only way you can do it is by publicly stating tomorrow morning that both your nominees for the Supreme Court were defeated by a concerted effort of civil rights groups and liberals because they were southerners."

"Can't Spiro do that?"

"No," the Old Nixon said. "The South wants to hear it from you. If you don't show them how mad you personally are, you can watch your whole southern strategy go up in smoke."

"I CAN'T DO IT," the New Nixon said. "I'm President of the United States. It would be lowering myself to make the Supreme Court a partisan political issue."

"All right," the Old Nixon said. "If you won't do it, I'll do it."

"You?"

"Why not? I've been holed up in that damn closet for over a year. Give me a chance, Dick."

The New Nixon thought hard for a few moments. "All right," he finally said. "Go ahead, but keep me out of it."

"Thanks, Dick. You won't regret this," the Old Nixon said, slapping him on the back. "Hey, let me borrow your razor. I need a shave before the press conference."

Convict Stabbing Fracas In Prison

A fight between three Mexican-American prisoners at San Quentin ended with two men in meximum security cells and one in the prison hospital recovering today from nine knife wounds.

According to James W. L. Park, associate warden, the fight Tuesday was the result of bad feelings between Chicano factions at the prison.

Park said Frank P. Padilla, 33, received the wounds on his back, chest and side before a warning shot from a prison guard stopped the fight. Padilla is in good condition at the prison hospital, Park said today.

Three prison-made knives were found at the scene, according to Park, who withheld the names of the other two men pending further investigation.

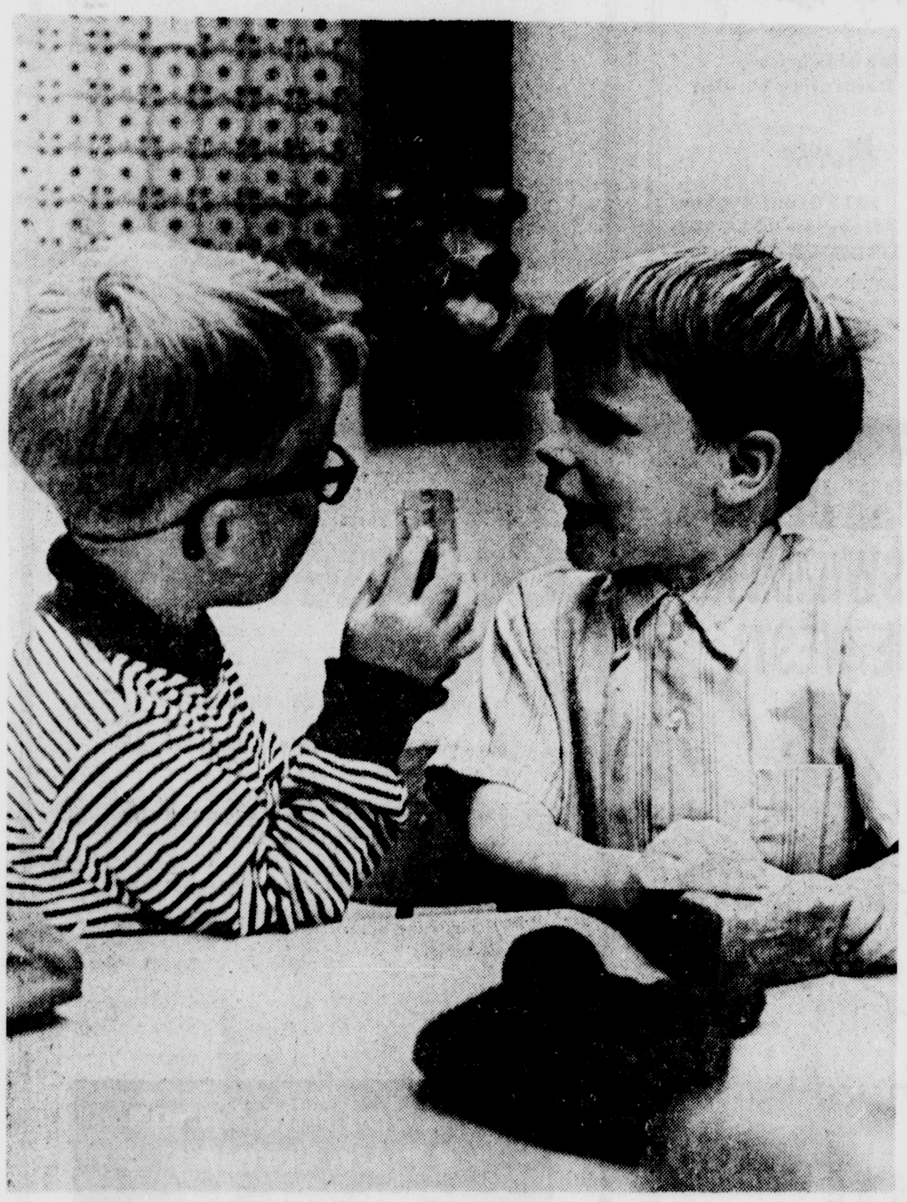
FINDING A PROJECT OF THEIR VERY OWN

Little boys can't knit? They wanted to at the Tamalpais Nursery School in Mill Valley when little girls were learning, but the girls said No!—besides who wants to have older brothers tease? Instead they are making "Feelies"—pieces of hardwood sanded to a satin finish. The activity has some surprising benefits. From left, Russell Lee, Evan Bowen, Michael Roggenbuck, Chris Kitts, Michael Weber, David Noren, Stephen Simpkin, Gregory Felt, Ty Williams and Michael Fuller.



"FEEL MINE," SAYS Gregory Felt, left, to Ty Williams, adding, "Bet it's smoother than yours." Joyce Zimmerman, the teacher, reports that working on and handling the satiny-smooth pieces of wood has a psychologically calming effect on the class.

GREGORY FELT finds rubbing and sanding his "Feelie" has a good rhythm. Children take naturally to work that has good rhythm, says teacher Joyce Zimmerman. She started the project at Mill Valley's Tamalpais Nursery School as a counter activity for boys when the culture and little girls wouldn't allow the boys to knit.

Friedan Spells Out Women's Rights

By BARBARA HOSMER

There is an urgency for women to get on with their own liberation or they will be nothing, says Betty Friedan, author of "The Feminine Mystique" and principal leader of the spreading national movement for full equality of women.

Speaking at a day long program at Mills College in Oakland last week, Mrs. Friedan stated that the "woman question" is a vital part of the whole human revolution.

She urged that men as well as women be liberated from their stereotypes to clear the way for a new society in which parents and children can share a new human closeness and freedom to realize their potential, unfettered by role limitations imposed by social institutions.

Women for too long have, like the blacks, been forced to accept (white male) society's definition of themselves, Mrs. Friedan said.

"The first task is to transcend the denigration breathed into us from birth. We are all oppressed. There are no 'exceptional women'. As long as you or I are still scarred by the doubts, then no women are free."

"We must be selfish in this before we can devote ourselves to the larger philosophical questions of our age. We can't until we have the sure sense of self and have the energy free us to ask the larger questions.

"Woman has not had the experience of self as a full human being. 'Who am I' is a necessary step to get on with it, but we shou'd not get stuck here," she warned.

"Revolution begins for each of us in definition of our selves; then we must redefine our selves in action. Always we must begin where we are," stressed the 49 year old founder and former president of the National Organization for Women. She cautioned against the cop-out that women have used to run out to liberate somebody else in the ghetto instead of themselves.

"This revolution will change society more completely than any previous revolution—it will change the family, politics, economic and educational structures.

"The human similarities of men and women outweigh sexual difference," Mrs. Friedan emphasized. "Bearing of children can not be the defining fact of women. Her average lifespan is 75 years—who's she going to mother for 75 years?" she asked. "Crowding of cities now dictates that we control fertility and furthermore, childbearing can only occupy a very few of a woman's years on earth.

"Women will become nothing," she said, if they don't break down the political, economic and social barriers that now confine and define them as second class citizens. She called for a whole restructuring of education to give women the confidence and training for whatever adult life they wish to pursue, of the economic system to let women get the good jobs for which they have the ability to hold equally with men, the hidebound family system that "traps" women at home in the feminine mystique and builds up hostility, and the whole social structure that prescribes female subservience from birth.

Mrs. Friedan called for woman studies, like black studies, on every campus so that women can become aware of their history. But action, she said, is the test of what is valid to borrow from other revolutions, and that the women's revolution is not the same as the black freedom movement. There can be no separatism between the sexes, she said.

"You can't deny that as affirmation of self grows, love of men grows also. Separatism is invalid. To say women are superior is ridiculous. It's just a cop-out from confronting reality," Mrs. Friedan told the Mills students.

She warned them that machines are taking over lower echelon jobs which are held by a large percentage of working women, and that as the job market tightens, men are taking good jobs in traditionally female professions—teaching, counseling, social agencies.

She added that women's qualities of humaness and nurturing must be used in service jobs, or women will become a social and psychological menace with no outlets for their abilities.

The mechanics of the liberation movement must be political, first of all, to change institutions in frontiers where human values cannot be replaced by machines, Mrs. Friedan said, adding that women must gain political priority for day care centers, to revamp social security regulations that discriminate, to pass the equal

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Living With His Parents Saves Money But She's Losing Her Mind

DEAR HELEN:

I am a young wife expecting her first child. My husband doesn't make much, but I think it's enough so we could afford our own place.

Instead, we live with his folks. They have two children still in school and my mother-in-law babysits her grandson, so it's a mad house. We have no privacy. People walk right into our bedroom. No one knocks. My father-in-law is disabled and home all the time. I constantly hear about how hard up they are, and the blame somehow is put on us. An older sister-in-law says she was treated the same way until they moved away.

Helen, I'm practical and sensible. I could manage a budget. My husband can't see it my way. He's all for saving money, while I'm losing my mind. Help. — NO PRIVACY

DEAR N. P.:

I'd suggest you go apartment-hunting, find a place that fits your husband's salary, work up a budget, and then present the idea to him. Sometimes it takes decisive action to make a man move. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I recently started wearing contact lenses. So what happens? The kids stare and ask questions. Did I break my glasses? How come I switched to contacts? I'm sure they're whispering about me, like "Doesn't she think she's something!" or, "She's just trying to look cute."

I got sick of pushing up my old glasses, and I thought contacts would make a big change for the better, but now I feel that everybody is staring and talking. I'm even more self-conscious than I was before. I've always been shy.

Why is it when you try to improve yourself, you end up feeling worse? — MISS CONTACTED

DEAR MISS C.:

Because you're so tied up by shyness that you're sure "everyone stares and whispers." For Heavens sake if people ask about your contacts it's because they're interested, not nosey. They'd like to give you compliments but your self-centeredness turns them off.

Now that you have a new look, open up and discuss it. Contact lenses like wigs and changes of hair color, are good conversation starters nowadays.
—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Many of my friends are on drugs and I can't stand it because it's like watching them die. They say:

Drugs are fun, exciting, they make things seem beautiful.

Drugs make you feel happy.

Drugs can't hurt you.

They're the best things since booze.

They make you feel like you can do anything, and bring out the real you.

Drugs make the users look cool. They psych you out.

Whoever thinks these statements are true is a fool. My only words are:

Drugs are what make you cry when you see your friends using them.

I should know. My boy friend was killed by them. — T. S. R.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Wash Non-Sticks

Although pots and pans treated with non—stick coatings do not need scouring, experts say that mere rinsing is not sufficient to keep them functioning at peak efficiency. It takes thorough washing in hot soap or detergent suds to prevent a build—up of food residue which would eventually cause food to stick despite the original slick surface.

FEMINIST leader Betty Friedan sees the women's liberation movement as a vital part of the whole human revolution, and calls for men and women both to become freed from their stereotyped roles imposed by today's society. "Man is not the enemy, he is the fellow victim," she says.

rights amendment to the Constitution and "end discrimination against women in a thousand laws in the land."

"There are no blue prints to follow. It's never been done before. There are no books to tell us what to do; the revolution is by our own action.

"The only discrimination that remains morally possible in America today is discrimination against women," she emphasized.

"It would be easy for labor or blacks to turn against women if the economic situation worsens," she remarked.

"We don't have time. Anyone who says the women's liberation movement is irrelevant to today's larger questions is blind. It's essential.

"We need to confront the conditions of oppression, not by whining selfpity or hatred of men. This most powerful movement for radical change will be the target of attempts to abort it."

From her own experience since she wrote the "Feminine Mystique" and began the new women's liberation movement with the formation of the NOW, Mrs. Friedan ticked off some traps that "will keep us from getting on with it:"

Tokenism — "We were bought off when President Johnson appointed women to his administration. All were powerless jobs. The Status of Women Commission was set up as a beginning of debate, but after making its report it was disbanded and nothing enforced. Now there are state commissions with no tooth power to implement their findings."

Rationalization of status quo—"A Freudian blind spot has caused psychologists to believe that women exist in inner space, but both men and women have tuned into inner space for creativity and intuition and both being human, they must exist in society as well. We are not cows. We cannot exist in a barnyard. We can only exist in human society, which is public society and which is out there. To be human we must have a piece of the action, wherever the action is."

Continuing education for women—"It was a demand as a form of survival for my generation. It was easy for universities to sell it out. It took a woman with a very developed ego to put her own thing first. The universities dished out pablum in what became adjustment courses, evading the need to do anything real to change women's inequality in education."

Fake "options"—The theory of stages of a woman's life offering education to girls, then housewifery and motherhood, then going into the world at age 40 to continue studies or to take up a career is a fake option, said Mrs. Friedan. It is wrong, she said, to say "you can be happy as a housewife and mother" as a career. "This has turned out to be wrong in today's world, when a woman can expect to live to age 75. Age 40 is almost too late to enter educational training for anything meaningful or a real career or business position," she said, "and it takes guts for those who do it. Women today will have to move out in society most of their years." Is it moral, she asked, to tell young women today that they can choose to spend 15 years rearing small children and then go back for education and work? "It enables us to evade getting on with the real changes that need to be made." This will mean restructuring education and the professions and businesses to give women maternity leave, more realistic hours in some cases, such as changing the 24 hour a day duty required during medical internship, she said.

Another fake option, said Mrs. Friedan, is that women can choose not to marry, not have children and pay the price to choose one of the "hard professions" such as the medical, architecture, engineering, airline pilot, etc. "It is not a good option with that pricetag, which is not required of men. Only the most exceptional women can combine the wife-mother-professional roles. When they hear this talk girls are conditioned away from any ambition to be all that exceptional!"

DRAMA REVIEW

'Cuckoo' Returns And It Is A Tribute To The Director

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO—Ken Kesey's "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which enjoyed a short but successful run last winter in Mill Valley, is back again—this time at the Little Fox Theater in North Beach.

To say that the Dale Wasserman adaptation of the Kesey novel about life in a mental institution is brilliant theater would be rather an exaggeration, but it's far above average.

It does present, however, many important observations on today's society such as freedom of expression vs. the Establishment.

Lee Sankowich, in his first Equity directing chore, has done a masterful job in selecting a cast which carries out its assignments very well.

In the role of the free-wheeling spirit, Randle Patrick McMurphy who upsets the applecart, is Fredric Cook, no stranger to Marin Shakespeare Festival patrons. His characterization last night at the opener was strong and sure—elements which helped lift the production out of the routine.

He should, however, be well-versed as the protagonist since he had the same part in the Mill Valley version.

Kesey's other characters in this mental institution game of charades were handled with equal authority.

John Garber as Chief Bromden the "deef and dumb" Indian gives a telling performance as the "walker" although the change into a real person is rather too abrupt—a flaw of the playwright.

Drew L. Eshelman as Dale Harding (same part he had in the Mill Valley Center of Performing Arts production) is a study in contrast to Cook's characterization. His lean frame and long gangling arms lend to the effeminacy demanded.

In his first professional assignment Lawrie Driscoll of Novato, who learned his acting chores at College of Marin, is surprisingly good as Billy Bibbit, the confused mother's boy.

Those who play the rest of the patients on the ward are also well steeped in their roles—Frank Albertson as Frank Scanlon, Barry Kraft as Charles Cheswick, Cesar Villavicencio as Martini, Joseph Napoli as Ruckly. Adding a dash of earthy sex in the "illegal" party scene are Janet McGrath as Candy and Carla LiBrizzi as Sandy. Also Roberta Callahan as Nurse Flinn and Phil Cato as Aide Turkle carry their parts well.

The small arena of the Little Fox is ideal for the production. Characterizations would be lost in a big theater. It is the intimate feeling which must be achieved to set the stage for the hollow Establishment victory.

Much of the success of this production is wrapped up in the lighting and projected media by Michael Clivner. With projected pictures and background voices the minds of the patients are projected for a better understanding of each.

The play is on the longish side, but what saves the evening is the well-paced company. Possibly some cuts could be made to bring the show in the two-hour range without destroying Kesey's prose to which Wasserman is very faithful.

However, "Cuckoo" is a welcome addition to the Bay Area theatrical scene and should be a crowd pleaser for many months to some.

MUSIC REVIEW

Baker Chorales, Soloists In Excellent Festival Offerings

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A major event in Dominican College's week-long Festival of the Performing Arts was the successful concert last night in Angelico Hall by the Marin Winifred Baker Chorale and the San Francisco Chorale, both directed by Miss Baker.

They offered an extraordinary program consisting of the Kyrie of Antonio Vivaldie, the West Coast premiere of "Moralities"—three short satirical operas with music by the rising young German composer Hans Werner Henze and text by W. H. Auden—and Beethoven's Mass in C.

The Winifred Baker Chorale of some 45 voices opened the program with the Kyrie, featuring soprano Cwen Curatilo and alto Mildred Owen. There were more altos than sopranos so that sopranos did not dominate, quite contrary to the situation in the Beethoven mass sung by the approximately 75-voice San Francisco Civic Chorale. In that the sopranos were a little too strong for perfect balance.

Unfortunately, in the duet in the kyrie Miss Owen's alto was no match in volume for Miss Curtail so strong, clear soprano. This was regrettable because in her solo in the mass, Miss Owen's voice had a very lovely quality. But again in that same work she did not hold her own in the quartet that included Miss Curatilo, tenor Edward Jameson and bass James Tippey.

In interesting timbre combination in the accompaniment of the Kyrie was the harpsichord and organ played skillfully by Robaline Meacham and John Klobucar, respectively.

The Henze work performed by the combined choruses was especially fascinating because of its novelty, fun, exploitation of unusual sounds of the voice and antiphonal structure using a big chorus on stage with a group of altos on a side platform and group of sopranos on the other side.

The tricky timing in the passing of words and phrases back and forth among the groups was a real test of the singers' skill, which they passed with flying colors.

It was fortunate that copies of the text were given with the programs, for the work was so cacophonous that one might have missed the delightful satire on the advantages of anarchy in one opera fable, the lampooning of avant garde, music in the second and mocking of those who turn to religion only in fear in the third.

Jameson, whose fine tenor was part of the quartet in the mass, was the narrator and spoke with about the clearest diction I have heard in Angelico Hall which has its acoustical problems.

Tippey's rich bass was very good in featured parts. In fact, his singing and Miss Curatilo's were the musical highlights of the evening, together with the best of the choral passages. There were many of these and admirably flexible handling of the florid style in the Beethoven mass finale.

Judith Stross on the piano and Alice Hongell on the harpsichord were the able accompanists for "Moralities," and Klobucar's organ accompaniment for the mass was excellent.

McCarthy Gets Backing On Compensation Fund Idea

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, has succeeded in winning a key Senate committee's approval of a controversial bill to force state compensation of counties for revenue losses due to business inventory tax reduction.

Now he faces the task of convincing Gov. Reagan to change his mind about the bill and to withdraw his opposition.

McCarthy convinced the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee to approve his bill to have the state come up with $28 million over a three-year period to fully compensate counties for revenue losses due to a cut in the inventory tax.

The only opposition was expressed by the State Department of Finance.

McCarthy will need a letter from Gov. Reagan to get the bill past the Senate Finance Committee, however, and sent to the Senate floor.

Joe Jimenez, McCarthy's district coordinator, said McCarthy has made an appointment to discuss the matter with Reagan personally.

Jimenez said McCarthy is hopeful he can convince Reagan the bill represents needed tax relief for the counties which otherwise must make up lost revenues.

Marin's other legislator, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, has a similar bill. Unlike McCarthy, Bagley has a letter from Reagan to get his bill moving.

Bagley's bill would not require counties that received excess state compensation to return the excess to the state. McCarthy's bill would require repayment by the counties of any excess compensation, but this provision is certain to be opposed by powerful counties that would lose under McCarthy's bill.

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—Traffic accidents killed 875 Danes and injured 26,472 during 1969, according to the Statistics Department. The comparable figures for 1968 were 821 and 26,137.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION — SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1970 — 17

WHO NEEDS IT?

An unidentified little anti-war demonstrator appears equally disenchanted with war and anti-war rallies as she concerns herself with more mundane matters like getting a little sleep. Her companions concentrated more on yesterday's noontime rally, sponsored by the New Mobilization Commitee to End the War in Vietnam, on the lawn of the old courthouse in San Rafael. The rally, attended by about 100 to 150 persons was as peaceful as the child's slumber.

QUESTIONNAIRE ANSWERS

Novatans Aware Of Problems

Novatans would shop more in their city if there were a department store there, feel they have an adequate police force, believe in spending tax money on youth activities, favor a city park, and generally consider Novato a good place to live.

These are some of the conclusions from an incomplete tabulation of a questionnaire sent out to 6,000 citizens prior to holding a Congress for Community Progress, according to Robert Larson, co-chairman of the congress.

The congress, sponsored by the chamber of commerce with the help of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., is scheduled for 8:30 a.m., May 23, at Novato High School. There will be guest speakers and public panels on seven topics.

These are: business and industry, youth, education, human relations, roads and transportation, recreation, and civic pride and beautitication.

The chamber received more than 1,200 returns on the questionnaires and results are still being tabulated, Larson said.

Many of these questions and their answers were similar to previous community opinion polls taken by the Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Housewives still want a department store. People still feel that the city has a good police department and needs a park.

More than 1,000 respondents were aware of the current downtown study and 185 were not. By about four to one respondents favored a centralized shopping area rather than outlying shopping centers, and the same ratio thought that there should be light industry in the city.

With Hamilton Air Force Base the largest employer in the city, five out of eight respondents were against a joint civilian use of the base.

A small majority favored a sewer bond issue and opposed subsidizing housing for low income families and sponsoring a baby sitting service.

Youth came in for a large majority of favorable votes. A big majority favored organized youth leadership; spending tax money on youth; giving support to youth programs, and believeing youth should be elected to the city council.

By a four-to-one ratio, those who said they did not attend school board meetings felt that there should be stricter discipline in the schools, but the reverse was true for those saying they attended board meetings.

Novato should have more music festivals, a YMCA or other such organization and more recreational facilities, the majority held.

The answers were about equally divided on whether or not Novato presented a good image and needed an identifying theme. By more than six to one, respondents called for stricter regulations on litter on vacant lots.

Two Windows Broken At Furniture Store

Two windows valued at $700 at Young Brothers Furniture store at 7514 Redwood Highway, Novato, were broken some time Tuesday night or yesterday morning, police reported today.

The owners of the store have been warned to stop advertising in the San Rafael Independent-Journal by San Francisco Typographical Union 21, according to police.

Employers' Reports Deadline April 30

April 30 is the deadline for employers to file California Unemployment Insurance wage reports and contribution returns for the first quarter of 1970, Charles J. Brady, auditor in charge of the State Department of Human Resources Development office for San Rafael, has announced.

Employers who need help in preparing their returns and wage reports may contact the San Rafael Employment Tax Office at 807 E Street, he said.

Brief Confrontation Nearly Ends War Protest Program

An antiwar program that began during the lunch hour yesterday at San Rafael High School continued through the final class period after a brief confrontation in which Principal Alan Ellsberg at one point threatened to call police.

The threat came after 50 to 60 students who had gathered around the school flag pole refused to return to classes at the principal's demand.

The impasse was broken when science teacher Larry Lack proposed that the affair be turned into a special class, with him presenting the case for U. S. involvement in Vietnam and mathematics teacher Richard Delgado giving the antiwar view.

The students, who had defied an order by Ellsberg and request by student Scott McNear, organizer of the rally, that they disperse, insisted on written assurance from the principal that they would not be punished for cutting other classes to participate.

Ellsberg signed the promise, along with assurances that the students may have school bus transportation to approved activities, that they may distribute literature at school as long as it does not advocate violence, and that they may have free political expression in campus meetings outside of class time.

Young McNear said the promise also included transportation by school bus to a Vietnam Moratorium Committee rally in San Francisco on May 15, but Ellsberg denied this.

The rally began during the lunch period with Delgado and teacher Tami Bell carrying a flag-draped coffin to the school flagpole. The flag was lowered to half-staff in honor of Vietnam War dead until the end of the lunch period.

Massed students sang "We Shall Overcome" and "Give Peace a Chance" and listened to antiwar speakers.

Ellsberg said permission for the lunchtime rally had been given a week earlier to Delgado and young McNear.

When the lunch period ended, however, 75 to 100 students remained to hear a reading of the names of Bay Area dead in the Vietnam War.

Ellsberg, who had gone to San Anselmo to attend a luncheon honoring three San Rafael High School winners in the "Invest in America" contest, said he returned at 2 p.m. to find four teachers and 50 to 60 students still gathered around the flagpole. It was then that he ordered that they disperse, was defied, and threatened to call police.

McNear said the rally was inspired by the "Vietnam Moratorium Day" activities yesterday of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, but had no official connection with that committee.

One Man Battles Five Hours To Find Answer To Half-Staff Flag

When may the American flag be flown at half-staff and who has authority to so fly it?

It took Ralph K. Pedersen, Sausalito Fire Department captain, five hours of his day off yesterday to get the answers.

Pedersen began his quest when he saw the flag flying at half-staff at Marin Luther King School. He called the school to learn why, and was told it had been lowered by Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. as result of a petition signed by 200 students and teachers. The petition asked that the flag fly at half-staff "until the killing in Vietnam has stopped."

Pedersen wondered whether this was legal.

He called the Marin County schools office. No one there knew, although they had heard about the flag at King School and were trying to find out.

He called the district attorney's office and was referred to the state attorney general's office in San Francisco.

The man he got at the state attorney general's office didn't know the answers either. He suggested Pedersen try the U. S. attorney's office.

He did, and was referred to the adjutant general's office at the Presidio of San Francisco.

By that time, Pedersen decided to start over again at the local level. He called the Sausalito School District. Superintendent and assistant superintendent were both out. Nobody there knew. Neither did personnel at Marin Luther King School.

Pedersen again tried the county schools office. They were still checking.

At that point, Pedersen gave up. But not so the county schools office.

Stanley H. Friese, deputy superintendent, was poring through state and federal codes, including a flag code adopted by Congress in 1942.

At 4 p.m., Friese called Sausalito Sup. Phillip W. Schneider — and Pedersen — to report the results of his digging:

The flag can be lowered to half-staff only at the order of the President of the United States, in times of national mourning.

This may come as a surprise to many local officials, as it did to Pedersen.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, April 16, the 106th day of 1970 with 259 to follow.

The moon is between its full stage and last quarter. The morning star is Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1862 Congress abolished slavery in the District of Columbia. On the same day all white men between the ages of 14 and 35 were ordered conscripted into the armed forces of the Confederate States of America.

In 1947 more than 500 persons were killed when a French freighter carrying nitrate exploded at a dock in Texas City, Tex.

In 1962 Roman Catholic Archbishop Joseph Rummel of New Orleans excommunicated three persons for attempting to stop his order to integrate the parochial schools.

In 1968 novelist Edna Ferber died in New York City at the age of 82.

A thought for the day: British novelist John Galsworthy said, "If you do not think about the future, you cannot have one."

Lagunitas Budget Cuts Only Tentative

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that Lagunitas School District trustees had set priorities to reduce the budget by cutting transportation services, paid teachers' aides, district librarian and special school supplies, in that order.

According to Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff, these items were only discussed as possible means of reducing the budget.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

All The Complaining And West Held Key To Defeating Contract

Hamlet's experience simply could not have happened to a bridge player. The melancholy Dane didn't know what to do, and he doubted that anyone else knew. A bridge player always knows what to do, and when it turns out that he was wrong, his partner always gives him a pep talk in very short words, such as: "If you don't know what to do, let me play all the hands."

LEADS TRUMPS

South took the first trick with the ace of hearts and led trumps until East took the ace. East returned a heart, and South ruffed. Declarer drew the rest of East's trumps and then led a club, forcing out the king.

East saw that he would get nowhere by returning his last heart, so he shifted to the king of diamonds. Declarer won in dummy with the ace of diamonds and led another club to force out the ace.

Now East led his other diamond, and East took two diamond tricks to defeat the contract. North and East promptly delivered pep talks to their partners.

SHOULD READ LEAD

When East led the king of diamonds, North pointed out, it was clear that the East hand contained the ace of spades, the ace-king of clubs and the king of diamonds. It was also clear that East's distribution was fairly balanced.

If East had the queen of diamonds, he would have a total of 16 points and would have opened with one notrump instead of one club. If East didn't have the queen of diamonds, his lead of the king was obviously from a doubleton.

South should have refused to take the first diamond. He takes the next diamond and ruffs a heart, reducing East to clubs alone. Then South leads a club, and East must allow dummy to win two club tricks. This assures the contract.

EAST'S COMPLAINT

What was East complaining about while North was lecturing South? If West had opened a club in response to the opening bid, he would have defeated the contract by ruffing a third round of clubs. "Just lead my suit next time," East demanded. All partners are men of one syllable.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- 6 2
♥- A 9 8 2
♦- A 5 4
♣- Q J 10 9

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs.

The hand is too strong for a response of 1-no-trump, but not strong enough for a jump to 2-no-trump. Bid a suit first, and bid 2-notrump (not a jump) at your next turn if you can.

Section 3. The Council proposes to issue and sell bonds of the City for the objects and purposes, but not exceeding the amount, specified in said respective measures if two thirds of the qualified electors voting on each separate measure at said special municipal bond election shall vote in favor of each of said measures; provided, however, that the votes cast for and against each of said respective measures shall be counted separately and, when two-thirds of the qualified electors voting on any one of said measures vote in favor thereof, such measure shall be deemed adopted and bonds of the City in the aggregate amount specified in the measure or measures which carried by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the qualified electors of the City voting on said measure or measures at said election shall thereby be authorized to be issued and sold for the objects and purposes specified in said measure or measures which received such affirmative two-thirds vote.

Said bonds shall be negotiable in form and of the character known as serial, and shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed seven percent (7) per annum, payable semiannually (except that interest for the first year after the date of said bonds may be made payable at or before the end of said year). Provision is hereby made for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as follows: At the time of making the general tax levy after incurring the bonded indebtedness, and annually thereafter until the bonds are paid or until there is a sum in the treasury set apart for that purpose sufficient to meet all payments of principal and interest on the bonds as they become due, the Council shall levy and collect a tax sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds and such part of the principal as will become due before the proceeds of a tax levied at the next general tax levy will be available; provided, however, that if said bonds are authorized to be issued at said election, and it is expected that all or any part of said bonds will be sold at such time that the principal of or interest on such bonds will become due before the proceeds of a tax levied after such sale would be available to pay such principal or interest, the Council, at the time of fixing the annual tax levy, may levy a tax in an amount clearly sufficient to pay that portion of the principal of and interest on said bonds which it is expected will become due before the proceeds of the next succeeding tax levy will be available. If the earliest maturity of the bonds is more than one year after the date of issuance, the Council shall levy and collect annually a tax sufficient to pay the interest as it falls due and to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal on or before maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected as other City taxes and shall be in addition to all other taxes and shall be used only for payment of the bonds and the interest thereon.

Section 4. The City Clerk of the City is hereby directed (a) to publish this ordinance once in full in the Independent-Journal, which is a newspaper of general circulation published in the City, at least three days before its adoption, and (b), upon the passage and adoption of this ordinance, to publish the same once a day for at least seven (7) days in the Independent-Journal, which is a newspaper of general circulation published at least six (6) days a week in the City, and such publication shall constitute notice of said election. No other notice of the election hereby called need be given.

Section 5. This ordinance shall be forthwith entered upon the minutes of the Council and in the Ordinance Book of the City. This ordinance, being an ordinance calling and ordering an election, shall take effect from and after its final passage and approval.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Natural Stone Formers May Be Treated In Variety Of Ways

A reader writes: "My uncle is a natural stone-former and has passed six pebbles in the past 10 years. These episodes cause him to double over in pain and he is becoming despondent. His physician analyzed the stones and found that they are made of calcium. "My uncle was told to avoid foods rich in this chemical. Do you have any other suggestions?"

FOLLOWING THE prescribed diet is most important, but there is more to it. Physicians do not know why kidney stones develop and why some people are habitual stone formers.

Other important factors are infection, acidity or alkalinity, and the concentration or crystallization of certain urinary chemicals.

Calcium does not form crystals in an acid urine and it helps to keep the fluid on the acid side via diet and medication. Drinking large amounts of fluid (up to 10 glasses a day) will keep the urine dilute so that chemicals will not crystallize.

KIDNEY STONES usually are secondary to a pre-existing disease. Blood tests demonstrate whether the blood is loaded with calcium. If it is, the parathyroid glands may be too active.

Uric acid stone formers usually have gout. These people have too much uric acid in the blood and urine.

INFECTION ALSO is a culprit; bacteria acts as the nucleus or nidus upon which chemicals crystallize and enlarge to form a stone. Obstruction along the renal tract may lead to stagnation of urine with crystallization.

Anyone who has passed a kidney stone will attest to its painfulness and try to avoid a recurrence at any price.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.

RESIDUAL DRIP

R. C. B. writes: I caught cold more than two months ago and ever since I've had postnasal drip. How long does this condition last?

REPLY

The drip will last so long as the residual irritation in the nose or sinuses remains. In your case, the situation has persisted long enough to warrant a thorough examination of the nose and throat. Air pollution may also delay healing. Meanwhile, send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on postnasal drip.

HAY FEVER CARE

M. N. writes: When should a northerner begin taking hay fever shots? Last year I started too late (in April) and regretted it.

REPLY

There is no harm in starting now. Several schedules are available but many physicians have obtained best results with perennial desensitization.

BLOOD IN URINE

N. J. writes: Is blood in the urine a sign of kidney disease?

REPLY

Not necessarily, as the blood may be coming from any part of the urinary tract. Among the possible causes are tumors, ulcers, stones, infection, injury, or severe exertion.

PASSING STONES

A. R. writes: Can gallstones be passed?

REPLY

Yes, but the rocks must be tiny enough to slip through the bile ducts. This means they would have to be as small as BB shot.

NO TEARS

S. K. B. writes: What is dry eye disease?

REPLY

In this condition, the tear glands are so inefficient that the outer surfaces of the eyes have no moisture.

Both War, Peace In National Rally Day

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vietnam Moratorium rallies Wednesday drew tens of thousands for generally peaceful protests in cities across the nation. But in a number of instances groups of radical youths rampaged afterward and clashed with police.

The worst violence came in Cambridge, Mass., where some 1,100 riot police used tear gas, dogs and clubs to battle 6,000 demonstrators who set fires, broke windows and threw rocks from rooftops in Harvard Square.

They had assembled after an earlier peaceful rally by 60,000 persons on Boston Common—the day's largest crowd.

As a result of the disorders, the city of Cambridge notified Harvard authorities that "Earth People's Day" activities and parades slated for this weekend would be canceled in the interest of public safety.

Other disorders occurred at Columbia University in New York City, Miami University of Ohio and Pennsylvania State University and in the nations capital, and in Berkeley.

The latest moratorium was timed to coincide with the April 15 federal income tax filing deadline. Many demonstrations protested the use of taxes to support the war.

Turnouts were generally less than the first moratorium last Oct. 15.

Moratorium organizers expressed dismay that the voices of antiwar "moderates" were submerged by the strident demands of smaller groups of radicals.

In New York City some 20,000 demonstrators turned out in Bryant Park but radicals in the crowd pushed forward to try and take the stage and shift the focus from Vietnam to the cause of imprisoned Black Panthers.

At Columbia University Wednesday night 200 youths, many not students, broke windows, splattered red paint and set off stink bombs after a rally demanding that the university put up bail for 11 jailed Panthers.

For the first time since the massive Columbia student strike in the spring of 1968, city police were called onto the campus by acting President Andrew Cordier. There was no clash but the radicals vowed a strike today.

At Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, 700 National Guardsmen were on the campus today ready to put down any repetition of the Wednesday night disorders which brought about 130 arrests.

The trouble began after highway patrolmen ejected demonstrators from the ROTC building. Police cruisers were pelted with rocks as policemen from several nearby communities moved in and dispersed the crowd with tear gas.

At University Park, Pa., about 200 persons sat in the street and stoned state police in front of a bus removing antiwar demonstrators from the Pennsylvania State University campus. Ten troopers were injured.

About 50 troopers had moved onto the campus minutes earlier to remove 125 sit-in demonstrators from the main administration building. At least 50 were arrested, some were carried bodily from the building to the buses.

In Washington, about 200 antiwar demonstrators marched from the Capitol across town to Dupont Circle leaving a scattering of broken windows and burning trash baskets. Police dispersed them after an hour-long stand off.

At the Capitol earlier, pacifist David Dellinger told a crowd of some 2,000 to withhold payment of federal income taxes as a war protest measure.

"I advocate overthrowing the government by force but not by violence," he said, "and tax refusal is but one of the cutting edges and forces that are available to us."

In Providence, R.I., several hundred demonstrators surged through the downtown area, breaking windows and shouting anti-police slogans.

Peaceful demonstrations took place at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, at nearby Mt. Holyoke and Smith Colleges, at Bowdoin in Brunswick, Maine, and in Andover, Mass.

Ohio Governor Sues Magazine For $10.3 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio today filed a $10.3 million libel suit against Time Inc. and reporter Denny Walsh over a May 2 article in Life magazine entitled, "The Governor and the Mobster."

Life magazine is owned by Time Inc.

Rhodes contended through his lawyer, Louis Nizer, that the article contained false and defamatory statements that the defendants know were untrue.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court here.

Rhodes said the article attempted to link him with the Mafia because of his commutation from first degree to second degree murder in the life sentence of Thomas Licavoli, making him eligible for parole.

Life magazine said today the information appearing in the article was "thoroughly researched and documented by the editors of Life magazine before it was published."

Fire Commission Drafts Policy

The Kentfield Fire District Board last night reviewed a final copy of proposed changes in department operating rules and sent it to the county counsel's office for review, Fire Chief Kenneth T. Kamp reported.

The rules will be up for final action at the April 29 meeting, he said.

The board also agreed to ask district voters to increase the board from three to five members. The proposition probably will be on the November ballot, Kamp said.

The preliminary 1970-71 budget was discussed, but no decisions made. The board also approved sending Kamp to the conference of California fire chiefs May 18-22 at El Segundo, Los Angeles County.

Douglas Attack Dividing House

WASHINGTON (AP) — An impeachment resolution and call for a special investigation of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas have reached the House in the wake of charges the 71-year-old jurist may be unfit for his post.

House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford touched off a vitriolic, parliamentary wrangle Wednesday night after asserting Douglas, who has served on the bench since 1939, may be unfit to serve as a justice because of questionable outside interests and possible associations with underworld figures.

Ford threw his support to creation of a special House committee to study the Douglas case to see if there is cause for impeachment.

Under terms of a resolution proposed today, the special investigative panel would be required to submit its report in 90 days.

When Ford finished his speech Rep. Andrew Jacobs of Indiana, a liberal Democrat, said the GOP leader had a duty to file an impeachment resolution since he "has stated publicly that he favors impeachment of Justice Douglas."

"Since he (Ford) refuses to do so and since he raises grave questions, the answers to which I do not know, but every American is entitled to know," Jacobs told the House, "I introduce at this time the resolution of impeachment in order that a proper and dignified inquiry into this matter might be held."

Jacobs' resolution was referred to the House Judiciary Committee, headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

"It is obviously triggered by the defeat of Judges (G. Harrold) Carswell and (Clement) Haynsworth," said Celler of Ford's attack.

The Judiciary Committee would be considered friendlier toward Douglas than the House Rules Committee, to which the investigation resolution goes.

Ford said Douglas twice was on the dissenting side when the Supreme Court ruled against magazine publisher Ralph Ginzburg.

He said that while the second case was before a federal court, "clearly on the way to the highest court in the land," one of Ginzburg's magazines, Avant Garde, paid Douglas $350 for an article on folk singing.

Ginzburg, in a statement issued Wednesday, said he hoped Ford's speech would be met "with the contempt it deserves."

The investigation resolution charged that Douglas:

—In published writings, speeches, lectures and statements has declared a personal position on issues to come before the court "indicative of a prejudiced and non-judicial attitude."

—Has served and reportedly still serves as director and chairman of the executive committee of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Santa Barbara, Calif. The resolutions call this "a politically-oriented action organization which has organized national conferences designed to seek detente with the Soviet Union and openly encouraged student radicalism."

—"Has repeatedly engaged in political activity while an incumbent of the high court."

—From time to time over the last 10 years had dealings with, involved himself with and may actually have received fees and travel expenses either directly or indirectly "from known criminals, gamblers, and gangsters or their representatives and associates, for services, both within the United States and abroad." This particular allegation mentions no names.

Annex Approved For Restaurant

The Novato Plan Review committee last night approved plans for an addition to the Tijuana Taco restaurant on the east side of Seventh Street north of Novato Creek.

The addition will be 15 by 18 feet and will eliminate two parking spaces in the restaurant parking lot.

The committee approved the landscape design for Ross Department Store in the Downtown Shopping Center adjacent to Long's drug store and a free-standing, illuminated 88-square-foot sign for Young Brothers mobile home sales on Highway 101 north of Olive Avenue.

Shoplift, Weed Counts Pending

An 18-year-old Portland youth was booked into Marin County jail yesterday on suspicion of shoplifting and possessing marijuana after he was arrested in a Mill Valley market for taking a package of bologna, according to police.

Ralph Leonard Human was arrested at Golden Valley Market, 64 East Blithedale Avenue, on a complaint by owner Alan I. Frank. Police said a small quantity of hashish was found in the suspect's pocket.

He was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today. Bail was set at $625.

Restaurant Patrons Flee With TV Set

While Pero Bozovich, owner of Mr. Scalapinos Restaurant at 508 Third Street, was in the kitchen yesterday cooking a chicken dinner for three men customers, the trio slipped out of the restaurant taking a $128 television set with them, San Rafael police reported today.

The trio and TV set were last seen moving west on Third Street shortly after 3:10 p.m., police said.

Arms Session Opens With Nixon's Early Pact Plea

VIENNA (UPI)—The Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) between the Soviet Union and the United States opened today with an appeal from President Nixon for "an early, equitable, verifiable agreement" to curb the nuclear arms race.

The Soviets responded with a pledge of "good will and efforts" and repeated its appeal for a "reasonable accommodation" beween the super powers.

The talks—the first full two-day effort by the two nations to limit their nuclear arsenals — opened in televised splendor in Vienna's baroque Belvedere Castle. But the meetings to come will be held in strictest secrecy in the Soviet and American embassies.

Nixon's message called on the Soviets to show "determination to bring about a mutually acceptable agreement." The letter had been sent to Gerard C. Smith, chief U.S. negotiator, who read it at the opening ceremony following a welcoming statement from Austrian Foreign Minister Kurt Waldheim.

Nixon reaffirmed his statement to the preliminary SALT talks in Helsinki that he hopes "that an agreement can be reached on the limitation and eventual reduction of strategic arsenals with proper recognition of the legitimate security interests of the United States and the soviet Union and other nations.

Vladimir S. Semenov, chief Soviet delegate, said the Soviet Union hopes the Vienna portion of the talks—expected to last two to three months—will "lead to meaningful, positive results."

The Soviets, he said, "stand for peace, cooperation and coexistance. It is from these positions of principal that we also approach the curbing of the strategic arms race, the intensification of which serves the interests of aggressive imperialist circles."

After the formal opening in the historic Viennese Castle, the delegations met briefly and privately to set the time and place for their first working session. A flip of an Austrian coin decided which embassy would host the first session.

A bright sun shone and huge American and Soviet flags flapped in the breeze as the talks opened. The opening ceremony was held beneath an azure ceiling fresco—an allegorucal depiction of victory—in the marble hall where Austrian independence was signed 15 years ago.

Motorcyclist Is Injured, Cited

A 22-year-old San Rafael man was treated at Hamilton Air Force Base hospital yesterday for a cut lip and head bruises after a motorcycle accident at 2:15 p.m. on North San Pedro Road, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Officers said James L. Perry, of 16 Welch Street, Apt. 4, was rounding a curve just east of Bucks Landing when his motorcycle left the road, went into a ditch and flipped.

He was cited for driving a motorcycle with a Class 3 license when a Class 4 license is required, the patrol said.

'SALUD CASALS'

93-Year-Old Master Of Cello Directs An Encore

NEW YORK (AP) — Pablo Casals, 93, conducted the final work of a three-hour "Salud Casals" benefit concert at Philharmonic Hall Wednesday night, and the ovation was so great that he conducted it again.

The work was "Sardana," which Casals wrote in 1926, in eight-part harmony, for a variable number of cellos. On Wednesday night, 100 cellists carried instruments with a combined worth of more than $1 million onto the stage and played the piece. The cellists had come from 14 states and from Yugoslavia, Denmark, Japan, Canada, Switzerland and Israel to play.

In "Sardana" Casals used folk and dance tunes and rhythms of his native Catalonia. The first time through, "Sardana" was played in about seven minutes; the second time it went faster—about five.

After the second playing, applause called Casals back for four bows, for which he walked on and off the stage unaided. He sat to conduct but stood for the more dramatic passages, and throughout conducted vigorously, using both hands.

The rest of the program was played by the American Symphony Orchestra and conducted by its regular conductor, Leopold Stokowski, who is 89.

Coloratura soprano Beverly Sills sang arias by Bellini, Rossini and Donizetti. As an encore, she sang a Catalonian song, accompanied by two harpists.

Money realized from the concert was $151,000, believed to be the largest amount ever made by one benefit classical concert. One hundred tickets were sold at $1,000 each and 100 at $500. The next price was $125. There also were 200 tickets sold to students at $5 each.

Proceeds will be divided between the American Symphony's free youth concert program and the United Nations International School scholarships.

"Sardana" was played by 120 cellists in Zurich on Casal's 75th birthday, but for this performance, the first time the cellist-composer had conducted an all-cello orchestra, he requested no more than 100. One cellist on the stage, Milly Stamfield of Millburn, N.J., had played in the world premiere of "Sardana," in London in 1927, for which John Barbirolli conducted 32 cellists.

Five hundred were invited to a party after the concert at the Juilliard Building. Catalonian food was served, and the exhibition "Years of Casals" could be seen in the upper lobby. Maestro and Mrs. Casals attended.

Some 237 solar eclipses occur each century, according to National Geographic. About one-fourth are total, and on the average two total eclipses occur every three years.

TV REVIEW

Scott Plans To Be Major Voice Now

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — In terms of popular acclaim, critical praise and salary, George C. Scott is probably at the peak of his career.

In the past, he has appeared on television in series and specials, directed several New York plays, starred in the Broadway comedy "Plaza Suite" and won admiration in such movies as "The Hustler," "Antomy of a Murder" and "Petulia."

Nothing, however, has matched the consummate success he has achieved in his latest motion picture, "Patton," about the controversial World War II general. It is a monumental performance, and he is already a strong bet to win the Academy Award.

NEW INTEREST

Amid all this, however, it is fascinating to note that one of his key interests at present is television. Despite his position in the more prestigious theatrical arts, and his criticism of video, the home screen appears to figure greatly in his future.

To begin with, on May 14, Saul Levitt's "The Andersonville Trial," directed by Scott, and starring Richard Basehart, Buddy Ebsen, William Shatner, Albert Salmi and Cameron Mitchell, will be the Hollywood Television Theatre's first production on the public broadcast network. More than 150 non-commercial stations are expected to air the two-and-a-half-hour work, in color.

Furthermore, he says, "I hope to get back into TV next year as a producer-director rather than an actor." Scott, who once starred in CBS-TV's "East Side-West Side" series as a social worker, says he is planning a series of American history programs —"Theatrical Biographies" —for commercial television.

Non-commercial video, of course, may well get a tremendous lift from his prestige and the actors he attracted for "The Andersonville Trial." For if "educational" television needs anything, it is star power to attract a national audience of size, and it is money-shy.

LAUDS MEDIUM

But, aside from his interest in this particular play, what is luring him back to video anyway? Says Scott: "Television is the most powerful medium in the world. It is my firm belief commercial TV is going to undergo great changes in the next decade. Networks will diminish in power. Pressures from the money people and the public are too strong. Internationalism will be a factor.

"What happened to the movie industry will happen to commercial TV. It will be more an open market of syndication. And pay TV —I don't see how it can be kept out much longer. It's kind of like four columns advancing on you from different directions. I don't see how the networks can help but be revamped and revitalized."

In terms of the future, says Scott, "I'm thinking Television can't help being the ultimate theatrical way of presenting things. Among other things, home screens will get bigger." As for his rather recent television roles, he says he has continued to do them when they were "fun," and indicates he has no plans at all to change his attitude toward the medium.

Correct Name

The name of the Cotati Mayor is Frank J. Dolinsek, not Dolsinek, as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Jail Term Set In Check Spree Case

Jerry Eugene Sharpnack, 26, of Hermosa Beach, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to three misdemeanor counts of possessing checks with intent to defraud others.

Judge Peter Allen Smith sentenced him to a jail term to run concurrently with the one he is serving in Los Angeles County and also ordered him to make $387 restitution.

Sharpnack and a woman companion, Patricia B. Whitaker, 20, of Palm Harbor, Fla. were accused of a spree of cashing stolen checks which began in Southern California where Sharpnack, working as a painter, gained access to homes where checks were stolen.

The defendants then worked their way north and were accused of passing checks in three Marin cities last summer. They were finally arrested in Monterey last September while riding a stolen motorcycle.

Miss Whitaker has not been brought to face the Marin County charges.

Federal Pay Hike Signed Into Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation granting a six per cent across-the-board pay increase for all civilian salaried employes of the federal government has been signed into law by President Nixon.

The pay boost for civil service workers and employes of the Post Office Department is retroactive to Dec. 27.

The comparable increase for military personnel is retroactive to Jan. 1 and will apply to the serviceman's total compensation that makes it roughly equivalent to a 8.1 per cent increase in basic pay.

Cost of the pay boost over a full year is expected to total $2.6 billion for 5.3 million employes.

Union Leader Urges Pressure Upon I-J

By ERIC M. INGRAM

A spokesman for striking San Francisco Typographical Union 21, speaking yesterday before the San Rafael Lions Club, called on the Marin business community to apply pressure to the Independent-Journal in an effort to get the dispute settled.

Addressing a luncheon meeting held at the Elks Club, Donald H. Abrams said, "If major stores indicated to the I-J that they were setting a time limit for negotiations to start, the I-J would negotiate."

Abrams, who is a union organizer, told the group of about 40 businessmen that the union doesn't feel there is any issue in the dispute that can't be resolved, "but rather the I-J is simply trying to force the union out."

"Every newspaper between Redwood City and Santa Rosa has agreed to the same conditions that we are asking from the I-J" he said.

"In fact, Santa Rosa has agreed to reproduction (a process by which old copy is set, only to be thrown away) and has even agreed to more stringent discharge procedures than we are asking from the I-J," he added.

By not accepting the items other papers have, Abrams said the I-J was demanding "a preferred agreement better than what the union has given other papers."

Abrams said the strike was the result of the newspaper's refusal, in January, to negotiate on three items which he claimed the I-J has purposely blown out of proportion.

He listed the three as reproduction, employee discharge procedures and appeal methods, and grievance procedures.

Claiming other unions have traded away their negotiating items for more benefits and better pay, the printers' union representative said reproduction has been kept at the expense of other items to insure employment.

Abrams said reproduction, while outdated, is a vital part of any agreement the union signs, as it maintains employment.

"But it is a negotiable item," he added. "We want to know what the publisher is going to offer as a substitute, because we're not going to just give it away."

Abrams added that the union would consider extra vacation time, sabbatical leaves or less hours.

Of the second item, discharge procedures and appeals, he said, "All we are asking is that the shop foreman, when he fires an employee, justify why he did it."

"If the local union decides the firing was not justified," he added, "The man would remain on the job, and the publisher would go to the next higher court — the union international — for a review of the case."

On the third point, grievance procedures, the union representative said the union was asking that whatever conditions are in effect at the time a dispute arises between the union and the newspaper, remain unchanged during the negotiations.

"The publisher now insists that whatever conditions he chooses be in effect during the dispute," he said.

During a brief question and answer session, Abrams said the violence which has rocked Marin is the result of the I-J's hiring of professional strikebreakers.

"We can document the names, dates, and occurrences of these strikebreakers," he added. "Where professional strikebreakers are used there is nothing but chaos. This is where I attribute a lot of the violence."

Asked about the damage to numerous Marin store windows since the strike began, Abrams commented that "someone is doing us in."

"We've had store owners call us saying they had stopped advertising, or reduced their advertising and still had their windows broken," he said. "After reporting windows broken the I-J infers that it was done by the union by saying 'this is the latest in a series of incidents since the I-J was struck Jan. 7 by San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21.'"

"It doesn't make sense for us to do it," he said, adding that the union would join in the prosecution of anyone caught.

Grading Team Takes Close Bayside Look; Some Praise

San Quentin Prison's Bayview schools took the good with the bad yesterday as school and prison officials heard a preliminary report of an accreditation committee which had been studying the schools since Monday.

Among the committee's recommendations were greater staff and faculty participation in professional organizations and conferences; financial stipends for student progress to offset the attraction of paid work in prison industries; more and better classroom facilities, and the addition of business and electronics courses.

The school's literacy training program and its concern and development of programs for minority group students drew praise from the committee.

The report was read by Lindley S. Allen, director of adult education in Mountain View and Los Altos and chairman of the six-member committee from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

The committee will revise and formalize its report before submitting an accreditation recommendation to the association.

The Bayview elementary, high and vocational schools, which serve about 2,500 San Quentin inmates, were first accredited in 1965 for three years. Accreditation was renewed in 1968 for two years.

Daryl A. Hopkins, Bayview principal, said he is hoping for full five-year accreditation this time.

The academic staff is supplied by contract with the Marin County Superintendent of Schools office.

Banner Survives Trip From Japan To Fairfax

That famous "Eat at Rubini's" banner, displayed on television via satellite from Japan during the San Francisco Giants' exhibition series last month, is now prominently displayed and properly autographed at the Fairfax restaurant.

Co-owners Gordon Jones and Dick Templeton, who cleverly gained free international advertising for their eatery while in Japan with the Giants Boosters Club, brought the banner home and had it on display for last night's meeting of the Boosters.

First Booster to autograph the sign was Rita Kennedy of New York, long-time Giant fan who goes on many of the trips with President Arran Murraykami's Boosters.

GOLF DIGEST gets this month's award for perfect timing. Its newest issue, off the presses this week, has a cover photo of Billy Casper who only Monday won the Masters. The layout was planned well in advance of Casper's triumph. Billy is quite cooperative that way.

A Way To Help You Score

Incidentally, Golf Digest also has a curiously titled story: "If You REALLY Want To Score, You'd Better Understand The Geometry Of Impact."

But, down, boys, it's about golf.

GEORGE LEE of San Rafael, former head coach and now chief scout for the S.F. Warriors, will be on the faculty of Stanford coach Howie Dallmar's Cardinal Basketball Camp for high schoolers next August. The camp is located in the Santa Cruz mountains.

THREE ENTERPRISING young men—John Armstrong of San Francisco, Dave Shanahan of Illinois and Mickey Sinnerud of Oregon—will use Stinson Beach as the setting for a unique record smashing attempt next Sunday at 1 p.m.

Really Getting Up There

They will attempt to fly a kite more than six miles into the sky to beat the all-time record of 31,995 feet set, according to the Guiness Book of World Records, in 1919 in Lindenburg, Germany.

The three will use heavy fishing line and have already received Federal Aviation Agency approval for their attempt. They will use 15 self-constructed kites about two to three times the normal store bought size. They will stagger these kites every 1,000 feet with four high box kites. Other necessary equipment will be spring tension relievers and iron-workers gloves, according to Alvin T. Guthertz of Corte Madera, who is helping promote the historic event as a publicity stunt for Earthquake McGoon's in S.F.

What kite flying and earthquakes have in common is beyond me. Maybe McGoon told three of his customers to go fly a kite and. . .naw.

SPEAKING OF unique sporting events, circle May 1 on your calendar. That's when Petaluma stages its annual world wristwrestling championships at the city's Veterans Memorial Building.

In 1968 the event was publicized in cartoonist Charles Schulz' Peanuts strip and last year ABC-TV's Wide World of Sports gave it a big splash.

Anyway, it's the time of year when everyone in Petaluma is up in arms.

White Sox Rookie Shackles Athletics

OAKLAND (AP) — If rookies of the year were picked in April, Chicago White Sox pitcher Gerry Janeski would be in the running. He hopes he will still be in contention for the honor next October.

ODOM TONIGHT

The teams meet again tonight with John Odom, 0-1, pitching for the A's against southpaw Tommy John, 0-2, of Chicago.

Janeski came to the White Sox in an unusual way. The White Sox sent pitcher Gary Peters to Boston for infielder Syd O'Brien and pitcher Billy Farmer in a winter trade.

But Farmer came up with a sore arm and Chicago was given a choice of another Red Sox player to replace him. They selected Janeski, who compiled a 15-10 record last season with Louisville in the International League.

NEEDED STARTER

"We wanted a starting pitcher to replace Paul Edmundson, who was killed in an auto accident," Chicago manager Don Gutteridge said.

Janeski was happy with the trade. "I figured I would have a chance to be a starter with the White Sox and I wouldn't have with Boston."

His best pitches are a fast ball that sinks, and a slider.

"When I'm pitching a good game, I don't have many strikeouts. I try and make them hit the ball," he said.

He struck out only two Oakland batters but retired 15 others on ground balls to the infield. Roberto Pena got two of the three Oakland hits. Slugger Reggie Jackson was retired four straight times without getting the ball out of the infield.

THEY'RE EVEN

"I really don't know what to throw these batters because I've never seen them before," Janeski said. "But that makes us even because they have never seen me before."

Janeski, who is 6-4 and weighs 200 pounds, defeated the Milwaukee Brewers in his first major league start last Friday night.

The White Sox blasted five Oakland pitchers for 10 hits, including homers by rookie John Matias, Buddy Bradford and Duane Josephson. Chuck Dobson was the losing pitcher.

COSTLY OUT—Giants catcher Dick Dietz was thrown out on this crucial play in last night's game at the Houston Astrodome as he tried to score from second base on a hit by Bob Heise. Catcher is John Edwards. Giants eventually lost to the Astros, 7-6 in 10 innings. (UPI Telephoto)

Astro Rookie 'Big John' Too Much For The Giants

HOUSTON (AP) — Big John Mayberry, Houston's rookie first baseman, showed how he made it to the big leagues by hitting two home runs and scoring the final run which gave the Astros a 7-6 victory over San Francisco in the 10th inning Wednesday night.

The two teams meet again tonight, with Mike McCormick hurling for the Giants against the Astros' Jim Bouton.

Mayberry's second homer, a three-run shot off the Giants' Gaylord Perry in the eighth, tied the score at 6-6. His four-bagger in the third came with the bases empty.

Joe Pepitone also hit a bases-empty homer for the Astros in the fifth.

Then catcher John Edwards ripped a sharp single to right and big John, running for all he was worth, made it to third.

Next came Jim Beauchamp who, with the outfield pulled in, cracked a long drive to right that Bobby Bonds tried to glove with his back to the plate. It went through and Mayberry scored.

Houston opened the scoring in the first when Joe Morgan tripled to left field and Jim Wynn sent him home with a single to right.

The Giants struck back in the second when Tito Fuentes walked, went to second on a single by Bob Heise and scored on another single by Bobby Bonds, who wound up stealing three bases in the game.

Police Needed At Chicago's Wrigley Field

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, answering a plea for help from Chicago Cubs' General Manager John Holland, has pledged "full cooperation" in preventing a recurrence of disturbances that took place in Wrigley Field Tuesday.

The game — the season home opener for the Cubs—was played before 36,316 persons and was an artistic success, with the Cubs winning.

However, the mob scene outside the park and the rowdyism inside the brick ballyard on the North Side caused the Cubs a great deal of embarrassment.

POLICE CALLED

Holland said Wednesday: "There will be uniformed police in the park Saturday and Sunday and any other days that we feel might be necessary. Whether they will be off-duty police or some specially assigned has not yet been determined. But we have offered to pay for them."

The Cubs general manager added, "Meanwhile, the mayor has ordered a full investigation made of the situation, assigning men who are experienced in this type of thing. A plain clothes detail will be making a study of just what's going on and by next week recommendations will be made how to combat this situation."

The detailing of police inside Wrigley Field rescinds an or-

Hiller Hurls Hiller's To Softball Victory

Gene Hiller's three-hit pitching and Moe Walker's two singles led Hiller's Men's Wear to a 10-0 triumph over the Patio Club last night in the San Rafael Recreation Department's Adult Softball League at Albert Park.

In the evening's other game, Cain's Tires rolled over the Doves, 8-4, with Bob Berry's first inning triple leading the way.

Kite-Flying Rookie Keeps Opposing A's On Ground

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gerald Janeski, a scholarly Chicago White Sox rookie who enjoys flying kites as a hobby, did a job on Oakland in grounding the hard-hitting A's on a masterful pitching performance.

The 23-year-old right-hander, obtained from the Boston Red Sox in spring training as a replacement in the Gary Peters deal, stifled the A's Wednesday night for his second straight major league victory and first complete game.

TWO OF THREE

Janeski, a 6-foot-4, 200-pounder, scattered three hits and only walked one while striking out two in the White Sox' 7-0 blanking of the A's. Janeski, 15-10 with Louisiville of the American Association last year, owns two of Chicago's three victories this season.

In the only other scheduled American League games, Minnesota tripped California 8-2 and Boston stopped New York 6-2. The Washington at Baltimore twi-night doubleheader was postponed by bad weather.

Janeski, two days shy of his 24th birthday, beat Milwaukee last Friday in his major league debut.

BOOK READER

Wednesday night, the rookie, who says he read about 30 books last year at Louisville and intends to make it 40 this year, got long-ball support off the bats of John Matias, Buddy Bradford and Les Josephson, each slamming homers, and a two-run double by Carlos May.

Janeski figures he got a break when the White Sox obtained him from Boston and the California State College student means to make the most of it. However, he misses former teammate Billy Conigliaro, now with the Red Sox. Conigliaro was his kite flying partner.

"Some people see you flying a kite and they think you're crazy," Janeski says. But who says you can't fly a kite? And anyway, Chicago should be good kite flying territory."

BIG SIXTH

Unbeaten Minnesota, held to one hit through five innings, exploded for eight runs in the sixth off Angels' loser Andy Messersmith. The big inning was keyed by Brant Alyea's grand slam homer, his third blast of the year and 11th run batted in.

The Twins, winning for the fourth time, also got homers from Leo Cardenas and Cesar Tovar. Jay Johnstone connected for the Angels, who lost for the second straight time after five straight triumphs.

LONGBORG

Jim Lonborg cracked his second major League home run and checked the Yankees with late relief help from Sparky Lyle in Boston's easy victory.

Lonborg had a three-hit shutout for seven innings before tiring and giving up both Yanks runs.

The Red Sox took a 2-0 edge in the first inning on Carl Yastrezemski's run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by George Scott and increased it on Gerry Moses' scoring single and RBI by Yastrzemski and Rico Petroceli before Lonborg's sixth inning homer.

ABA Ready To Begin Playoffs

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Basketball Association, the so-called Lively League, wound up its third regular season Wednesday night with Indiana and Denver, the East and West Division champs respectively, each posting victories.

In addition, Spencer Haywood of Denver set an ABA single game scoring record of 59 points.

The ABA playoffs, for the first four teams in each division, start Friday night. If each of the playoff series goes the full seven-game route, June will be close to busting out before the champion is crowned.

Indiana downed Miami 118-111, New York trimmed Kentucky 123-112, New Orleans defeated Dallas 154-127, Denver beat Los Angeles 152-116 and Pittsburgh thrashed Carolina 132-110.

Los Angeles' loss dropped the Stars from a third-place tie with Washington but the Stars still made the playoffs, finishing a full game ahead of New Orleans, which had led the Western Division for the first half of the season but now will miss the ABA playoffs for the first time.

Haywood, Denver's celebrated rookie, got his league record 59 points against Los Angeles on 23 field goals and a perfect 13-of-13 from the foul line. He broke the old ABA single game high of 57 points set by Connie Hawkins of Minnesota against the New York Nets on Nov. 27, 1968.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Home Run-Happy Braves Leave Manager Punchy

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The homer-happy Atlanta Braves have Manager Luman Harris punchy but that's nothing compared to the Kayo Mike Torrez delivered over the Montreal Expos with his arm and bat.

The Braves tagged two more four-baggers Wednesday night, stretching their start of season homer streak to nine games and downing San Diego 7-5. Torrez, meanwhile, limited Montreal to an eighth inning single and stroked three of his own, leading St. Louis to a 10-0 romp over the Expos.

In other National League games Wednesday, Houston edged San Francisco 7-6 in 10 innings, Cincinnati shaded Los Angeles 3-2 and Chicago dropped Philadelphia 5-1. Pittsburgh and the New York Mets had the day off.

Orlando Cepeda tagged three hits including a homer and Clete Boyer also hit one as the Braves continued their long-ball assault on enemy pitchers. They are four games short of matching the record for homers in consecutive games at the start of a season set by the Chicago Cubs in 1954.

It was an ordinary single by Cepeda that broke the tie against the Padres in the seventh inning. Then Bob Priddy came out of the bullpen in the ninth to nail down the victory for George Stone, who gave up two homers to Nate Colbert and one to Clarence Gaston early in the game.

"We're in a rut on home run balls," said Harris, who has seen his team hit 11 homers and his pitchers surrender 13 in the first nine games. "I've seen them hit everywhere, right, center, left, domed stadium, cow-pasture, it doesn't make any difference. We must be playing with those 5-X balls."

The Braves may be using the lively ball but Torrez certainly wasn't throwing one at Montreal. The tall Cardinal right-hander gave the Expos nothing until Adolfo Phillips singled in the eighth for Montreal's only hit.

Meanwhile, Torrez cracked three singles and was involved in all of the Cardinals' scoring innings. His hit touched off a four-run third and he drove in a run in the fifth with another single. Then, he was hit by a pitch leading off the eighth and the Cards wrapped up the victory with four more runs, three of them on Richie Allen's homer.

It was the 11th straight victory over two seasons for Torrez, a hard-throwing right-hander.

Bobby Tolan's two-run single capped a three-run Cincinnati rally in the third inning and the Reds held on to edge the Dodgers. Jim Merritt was working on a shutout until the ninth when Andy Kosco jolted a two-run homer. After Wes Parker doubled, Clay Carroll came out of the bullpen to get the final out.

Billy Williams, shackled by an 0-for-19 slump at the start of the season, snapped out of it in a hurry with four straight hits including his 250th career homer as the Cubs beat the Phillies.

"You never can stop a hitter like Williams for long," said Chicago Manager Leo Durocher. "Billy now is liable to stay hot for another two weeks."

Togetherness Can Go A Little Too Far

Mantle Calls Aaron Era's Greatest Player

Houston—At one of the baseball banquets during the winter, Mickey Mantle, a legend in his own right, declared that Hank Aaron was the greatest ball player of his era.

"He's never received the credit he's due," said Mantle. "And you know what? Nobody would recognize him if he walked through the door this minute. It's tragic."

PERHAPS MANTLE overstated the lack of credit received these past years by Aaron but certainly it was not tragic. And, as for recognition, Atlanta fans readily recognize Aaron in or out of uniform just as Milwaukee fans did before the Braves moved south.

Bill Bartholomay, president of the Braves, recognized Aaron at the outset of this 1970 baseball season in a way Aaron appreciated more than any universal adulation of baseball fans. Bartholomay signed a two-year contract with Aaron for $250,000, making him the highest paid player in the history of the Braves.

"THE TWO-YEAR contract should end speculation that I might retire after this season," said Aaron.

Aaron was 36 on Feb. 5. There's not an excess ounce of fat on him. He is lean and strong as a bull. He already has 16 major league campaigns behind him. He probably will add four more seasons to that total before he retires.

Going into his 17th season, Aaron had 554 home runs and 2,956 hits. Before the end of next month, Aaron should be a member of baseball's 3,000 hit club. Before he retires he may break Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714 homers.

WILLIE MAYS, who hit his 600th homer last Sept. 22, believes Aaron has a chance to break the Babe's mark. "He's three years younger than I am, and he should play until he's as old as me, maybe longer."

Aaron, after hitting 44 homers last season, personally believes he has a good shot at Ruth's record and he also believes the wind in Candlestick Park robbed Mays of a chance of catching Ruth.

"If Willie had played in some place that was a little fairer to him than Candlestick—a place like Atlanta or Chicago or Philadelphia—he would have had a chance to beat Ruth's record," said Aaron.

"WILLIE HAD to adjust to Candlestick which still robs him of homers. It's not like Willie McCovey (home run and RBI champ of the National League the past two seasons) hitting with Candlestick's wind. McCovey's so powerful anyway but he's not hitting against the wind like Willie has to most of the time."

Aaron may not have received the universal recognition due him these past years but that soon will change. Had Aaron started his career in New York, as Mays did, he would have been exposed to the kind of publicly that creates sports heroes overnight.

der by former Supt. of Police Orland Wilson who pulled all police out of Wrigley Field and White Sox Park when he was in office. He permitted a detail only outside the ball parks.

The crowd situation inside the parks has been handled by ushers and private security guards. They have no power to arrest or detain unruly customers and Tuesday they took a beating.

A spokesman for the ushering firm said the list of injuries to ushers included a knocked out tooth, a chipped tooth, a fractured thumb and severe cuts and bruises.

Cub second baseman Glenn Beckert told of one youth with a "wild look in his eyes" trying to grab his head as he left the field. "He acted like he wanted to claw at my face," said Beckert.

SPOOKY

"Earlier," the young second baseman said, "I was hit by a thrown orange as I was standing in the batters' circle . . . But that was nothing compared to this guy. eH was spooky."

Before the game, the crush in front of the ticket windows was unbearable. A leg was broken, along with several ribs, and several persons who fainted were passed over the heads of the mob to the rear.

The crowd was made up in great part of young persons, many of them playing hooky from school for opening day. Some of them ran wild Tuesday. The Cubs don't want to let it happen again.

Ed Adams Has High Hopes For Novato's Park Vote

By RALPH CHATOIAN

If Edward Williams Adams' hopes come true, Novato in the near future will have a park of which to be proud.

Adams, Novato's director of parks and recreation, has been spending much of his time in efforts to get public backing for a nearly $3 million park and community center bond issue to go before the city's voters June 2.

ACTIVITIES

"I'm optimistic about the election," he said. "I feel it provides a variety of activities and facilities to satisfy the major needs of our community—from horse back riding to all kinds of activities for sports enthusiasts."

The 67-acre proposed site for the park is on the corner of Sutro Avenue and Novato Boulevard. The bond issue for the park acquisition and development is $2,365,000, and a bond proposal for a community center to be located within the park is $600,000.

Adams, an enthusiastic man of 38, has been head of Novato's park and recreation for five years. Before that he was a recreation supervisor in Mountain View for five years, following two years as recreation supervisor for the Tantau Park and recreation District in Cupertino.

BALBOA HIGH

Ed was reared in San Francisco and attended Balboa High School there. He played some football and baseball and quips, "As a 132-pound defensive end there wasn't much future in that."

ED ADAMS
Optimistic

He worked in the accounting department for Southern Pacific Railroad prior to going into the Army. Stationed in Okinawa during the Korean conflict, Ed became a first sergeant and quite active in training and then started recreation activities for the soldiers. His volleyball team won the championship of the Far East. This is where he got his first real taste of the recreation game.

After the Army, he returned to S.P. for a year or so but then decided on college. His early plans were for engineering, but he later switched to recreation at San Jose State College. Married, he worked part time while wife Carol worked and kept up their home in Cupertino.

"I got interested in Little League and helped start the program in Cupertino," he said, although at the time he and Carol had no children of their own. They now have two boys, Glenn, 8, and Chris, just 7 weeks old.

"I enjoyed working with kids and liked sports," said Adams, "so going into recreation was just right for me. I have never been great in any one sport, but I like them all and do a lot. I'm a 14 handicapper in golf, bowl about 180 average and play a fair game of ping-pong. I like all sports and don't want to spend all my time in just one, although the golf bug is really getting to me."

"I'm looking forward to working with a citizen's bond committee for the June 2 election," he said. "Right now there isn't a public baseball diamond in Novato and there are no basic facilities a community our size should have."

Analy Nips Sonoma Baseballers

Analy High School of Sebastopol picked up two unearned runs in the late innings yesterday to hand Sonoma High its first league loss, dumping the Dragons 2-1 in a key North Bay League II contest.

Lefty Bill Weyl tossed a one-hitter for Sonoma but his mates committed four errors behind him and it had tragic consequences. As a result, Sonoma drops into a first-place tie with Piner (Santa Rosa), both teams with identical 3-1 marks.

In other North Bay II action yesterday, Cardinal Newman (Santa Rosa) scored twice in the fourth inning to nip Rancho Cotate (Rohnert Park) 2-1.

By MARION LADEWIG

Trevino Leads Field In New Orleans Golf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lee Trevino says he won't let one of his major ambitions get in the way of his quest for the top spot in the $125,000 New Orleans golf tournament.

"I want to win every time I go out," the swashbuckling Trevino said today before setting out in first round play at the Lakewood County Club course.

"That's what this game is all about, winning. If I didn't want to win, if I didn't think I could, I wouldn't be here.

CHAMPIONS

"But one of my biggest ambition is to win the Tournament of Champions.

"Oh, sure, I'd like to win another U.S. Open. But the Tournoment of Champions is really something. I really want to win that one."

The tournament of Champions is scheduled next week in Rancho La Costa, Calif. Its restricted field of about 30 includes only tournament winners from the last 12 months.

"That's something to get excited about," Trevino said, "beating all the other champions."

Trevino is almost certain to be one of the favorites there, just as he is here.

$84,000

The 1968 U.S. Open champion already has won over $84,000 this year, took the titles in both the Tucson and National Airlines Opens and tops the list both in money winnings and points. And he's been in contention in every tournament he's played this year.

Billy Casper, who won the 1970 Masters title, is the only other double winner of the year. Casper, also one of the leading contenders for the $25,000 first prize here, also won the Los Angeles Open.

South African Gary Player, winner of $57,000 in only five weeks on the American tour, rounded out the top three picks going into the first round.

Baker Beam and Booker are out on Beam's own fresh-water lake, collecting a water sample. Sweet, soft, and iron-free, it's as much a part of the Beam formula as the measures of choice grains. Together, Booker and Baker represent the sixth generation of the only Kentucky family that's made the same Bourbon since 1795.

So when you sip Jim Beam, savor its quality and its light taste. That's what we mean when we say it's a 175-year-old family art.

STARS ABOVE

By SHERMAN WALKER

Crater, the Cup is a rather dim figure but easily seen on a clear, moonless night. To modern ogservers it looks more like a goblet that stands a little crooked.

Corvus, the Crow is a little brighter and looks like nothing more than a four-sided figure.

To find these two constellations, face southward at 9 p.m. and look at the region that is one-third of the distance up from the southern horizon to overhead.

According to mythology this is the cup that belonged to various heavy drinkers of history—Bacchus, Hercules and even Noah who used it as a wine cup.

Alpha Crateris, according to its name, should be the brightest of the figure and no doubt was when the stars were classified. Now, 300 years later, it is magnitude 4 and is no longer the brightest.

Corvus, the Crow, also rests on the back of Hydra, and it is hard to see a bird of any kind here. It is merely a lopsided figure with four unequal sides.

There are many legends about Corvus. In one version this was originally a nymph who was changed into a crow for revealing certain actions of Jupiter that she had seen. In another story she was changed into a crow to enable her to escape from Neptune.

In Corvus the stars have also changed in brightness since they were classified and now are not in proper order.

Pauling Urges Halt In Arms Race, End To ABM

STANFORD (AP) — Nobel Peace Prize winner Linus Pauling says the United States should halt further arms buildup, including the controversial antiballistic missiles system.

"Continued development of weapons and defense systems increase the danger of war breaking out," Pauling said Wednesday as a participant on a panel discussion at Stanford University.

"It is a waste of resources of the country which prevents our using them for the benefit of human beings as we should —to relieve poverty, unemployment and to improve education and housing."

He added: "While there is a balance now between the United States and Soviet Russia, continued development of weapons and defense systems prevents this balance from becoming stable and increases the possibility of a devastating war."

Dr. Pauling said he "reluctantly" had come to the conclusion that "the statements of our leaders are not always reliable, and that there is a considerable amount of chicanery in statements about the ABM system."

Another panelist, Prof. Wolfgang Panofsky, director of the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center, said the Safeguard ABM system President Nixon seeks to expand is technically ineffective and will jeopardize the new Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT), to be held in Vienna.

Panofsky said the U.S.-Soviet arms race is "one of the great tragedies of human history which the SALT talks offer some hope of ending."

"If our side strengthens its defense, their side will want to increase its offensive weaponry," Panofsky said. "Our side then counters with further buildup, and so on."

Thomas Bartman, a foreign policy adviser in the 1968 Nixon campaign and author of the book, "Can We Win in Vietnam!", defended the ABM system. He said "it would be unreasonable to be 'naked' in a world community where a number of other countries may develop nuclear weaponry."

Sixth Grade Readers In Kentfield, Ross Rank High

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Two Marin County school districts ranked among the top 10 in the state in sixth grade reading scores last year.

One Marin County school district ranked among the top 10 in costs of instruction per pupil. It ranked 228 in sixth grade reading, in which the worst possible rank was 301.

These are among disclosures in a new report on the reading tests, including also much other data about the school districts, issued by the California Department of Education.

The reading tests were given in 1,061 districts. However, because of many ties, there are only 301 different rankings.

Among the top 10 were Kentfield district, which placed seventh, and Ross, which tied with Beverly Hills for 10th. The rankings of other Marin districts in which the tests were given were:

Larkspur, 28; Lagunitas, 33; San Anselmo, 33; Dixie, 34; Mill Valley, 37; Reed, 44; San Rafal 51; West Marin, 105; Novato, 119; Tomales Bay, 140; Fairfax, 149; and Sausalito, 228.

Sausalito had the highest cost of instruction per pupil (which includes most, but not all, of the costs of school operation) of any district in Marin, and 10th highest statewide among those districts given the reading tests.

Reed district had the second highest cost per pupil in Marin, followed in order by Kentfield, San Rafael, Larkspur, Ross, Mill Valley, West Marin, San Anselmo, Dixie, Novato, Lagunitas, Fairfax, and Tomales Bay.

The state report also showed the rankings by median IQ scores of the sixth grade pupils. In this list, with 232 possible rankings, Ross headed the entire state. Kentfield placed No. 3. Rankings of other Main districts tested were:

Dixie, 22; Reed, 28; Lagunitas, 29; San Anselmo, 34; Larkspur, 37; Mill Valley, 38; San Rafael, 39; Novato, 67; Fairfax, 88; West Marin, 99; Sausalito, 110, and Tomales Bay, 121.

Generally, reading accomplishment went rather closely with IQ, but there were exceptions.

Since there were only 232 rankings in IQ as compared with 301 in the reading tests — due to more ties in the IQ medians — gauging the accomplishment of Marin's students in reading as compared with their intelligence quotient ratings requires weighting the IQ rankings by adding one-third to each.

With this done, it is found that sixth grade pupils in five Marin districts scored appreciably higher in reading than in IQ. In six other districts, there was a spread of nine places or less between IQ and reading ranks—a minimal difference. In three districts, the reading scores fell far below the corresponding IQ rankings.

On this basis, West Marin scored 27 places higher in reading than in IQ scores. Larkspur and Tomales Bay both scored 21 places above their IQ rankings; Mill Valley, 14 places; San Anselmo, 12 places.

In the middle group were Lagunitas, with reading rank five spots above the weighted IQ rank; San Rafael, reading one place up; Kentfield, reading three places down; Dixie and Reed, reading five places down, and Ross, reading nine places down.

Falling much farther down the list in reading scores than in IQ scores were Novato, down 29 places; Fairfax, down 32, and Sausalito, down 81.

The report showed Reed district with the smallest pupil-teacher ratio in the county. It ranked No. 21 in this respect, with the largest possible rank on the list being 162. Rankings of other Marin districts in pupil-teacher ratios were:

West Marin, 35; Larkspur, 39; San Anselmo, 39; Sausalito, 42; Ross, 58; Tomales Bay, 63; Lagunitas, 67; Dixie, 68; San Rafael, 71; Kentfield, 74; Mill Valley, 94; Fairfax, 98, and Novato, 118.

San Rafael Elementary School District had the largest number of nonteaching certificated personnel as compared with classroom teachers. The highest possible rank on this list—most nonteachers as compared with teachers—was 197. San Rafael ranked 179.

Not far behind was Sausalito, with 149, followed in order by: Kentfield, 141; Novato, 107; Mill Valley, 98; Larkspur, 97; Fairfax, 93; San Anselmo, 79; Dixie, 73; Reed, 62; Tomales Bay, 51; Lagunitas, 43; West Marin, 18, and Ross, 3.

James H. Crandall, chief of the California Department of Education's bureau of evaluation and instructional research, said the report, the first of its kind, is intended to provide information useful to the state Board of Education, the legislature, and local school districts.
